Chinese Forces Clash In Naval, Artillery Duels

Nationalist Ships Drive Raiding Party Back From Matsus

TAIPEI, Formosa, Feb. 4—UP— Nationalist and Communist artillery and naval vessels exchanged "furious" fire Saturday in a series of duels at both ends of the Nationalist offshore defense chain.

Nationalist warships drove a Communist gunboat flotilla from little Kaoteng Island near the northern offshore Nationalist island of Matsu. Red and Nationalist artillery bombarded each other in the Kaoteng-Matsu area as well as in the region of Quemoy, the southern anchor of the Nationalist defense line.

Heavy artilley barrages started during the night and continued Saturday between the Nationalist garrison on Quemoy and the Reds at Amoy, four miles away in Fukien province.

The Communists said the Nationalists fired four separate barrages in the Amoy area, killing five persons, injuring two others and destroying a fishing boat. A Radio Peiping broadast heard in Tokyo said the dead were residents of Tateng Island, near Amoy. The Peiping dispath was datelined "the Fukien front."

Amoy is a Red-held coastal island connected to the mainland by a two-mile causeway which the Nationalists have been trying to destroy by shells.

The action at Matsu and Kaoteng caused more concern in Taipei than the Quemoy bombardments.

Official government reports said Communist heavy artillery rained some 800 shells on little Kaoteng located between Matsu and the mainland 14 miles away.

The Nationalists considered this more dangerous than the stab by the Communist flotilla which was

The awards went to Ernest L. Neville, for many years superintendent of Monroe schools, and George Madison, education leader and outstanding civic worker of Bastrop and northeast Louisiana.

Speaker at the luncheon was Mrs. William E. Hicks, of Shreveport, state regent of the DAR, who was guest of honor.

Mrs. Hicks advised the DAR members to work harder than ever for the organization's principles, which have been the basis of American greatness.

Neville's award was presented by Mrs. Floyd Martin, who was one of his early pupils. She is cur-

1,000 Alabama Students Demonstrate In Protest Of Negro's Enrollment

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Feb. 4 (AP)—Resentment over presence of the first Negro student at the University of Alabama exploded today in a shouting demonstration of 1,000 men students during which a car occupied by Negroes was damaged.

The excited students burned a cross on the university campus and then about 500 marched two miles to downtown Tuscaloosa, singing "Dixie" as they paraded. Some shouted "keep Bama white. To hell with Autherine"—the Negro enrollee.

The demonstration began about 11:15 p.m. and went on for nearly three hours.

All off-duty city police were called out to help control the crowd but the students forced their way past a blockade of police cars to reach the flagpole in the heart of the city.

The university news bureau said that initial leadership of the rally came from "a few inebriated fraternity men." The bureau said fraternity officers helped keep "the general situation from becoming more difficult."

A student who addressed the crowd at the flagpole said, "The governor will read about this tomorrow. We're in accord with the

$102,000 Blaze Destroys Tire Co. At Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, La. Feb. 4—UP—A fire, fed by hundreds of automobile tires, destroyed a building housing a tire business and a pet shop today, causing a loss estimated at $102,000.

One of the numerous firemen who battled the blaze for six hours, Willie Cross, was hospitalized for treatment of injuries suffered when a section of a brick wall of the building collapsed.

Destroyed by the fire was a building on Bolton avenue which housed the Coco and Deavers Tire Dealership and a pet shop.

An explosion apparently touched off the fire, Preston Brasher, owner of the building, said he heard a blast after midnight, shortly before the fire broke out.

Firemen estimated the building loss at $60,000 and said $42,000 worth of tires were burned up.

It was the second major fire here in 10 days. On Jan. 26, an entire block was razed with a loss estimated at $350,000.

Doctor Asserts Cigarettes Cause Most Lung Cancer

CINCINNATI, Feb. 4 (AP)—Leaders and staff members of the American Cancer Society were told here today that cigarette smoking causes 80 per cent of all male lung cancer fatalities.

Dr. Ernest L. Wynder, head of the epidemiology section of the Memorial Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases of New York, also told the group that it is the tobacco and not the cigarette paper which causes cancer.

"Eighteen studies by a variety of investigators have implicated tobacco smoking," he said, "as a cause of lung and larnyx cancer.

"An increasing effort is being made by several research laboratories to identify specific cancer inducing substances in tobacco tar which then might be removed from tobacco smoke or modified.

"This effort in the not too distant future will produce a practical solution to the lung cancer problem."

Leaders of the society are meeting here to complete plans for the society's annual April fund-raising campaign in which it will seek 26 million dollars to carry on and expand its programs of research, education and service to cancer patients.

Report Pirate Submarine Operating Off Fiji Isles

APIA, Fiji Islands, Feb. 4 —UP—Reports of a mysterious submarine spread through the South Sea Islands Saturday, threatening to disrupt inter-island trade after two ships in the area disappeared mysteriously.

Islanders were quick to link the reports of the submarine with the fate of two small missing schooners—the Joyita and Arakarimoa. The 52 persons aboard both ships also are missing.

Sailors said the mystery sub has made several unexpected appearances, only to submerge without a trace.

Under a headline "Pacific Mystery," the afternoon mirror of Sydney, Australia, said Saturday "the report of submarines alarms island traders."

"Whose turn is next?" the article asked.

The mirror accused official sources of wrapping a blanket of secrecy around the disappearance of the Joyita and the Arakarimoa. "Islanders now are convinced some very big issue is at stake with international repercussions," it added.

The submarine, which so far has been claimed by no government, was sighted twice in 24 hours, the afternoon Sun at Sydney said. The paper said the mystery craft failed along the Island trader Komawai near Suva for three hours and then vanished.

Natives of Fakaofa Atol in the Tarawa Islands also reported hearing an unconfirmed radio message saying that a Russian submarine had sunk an American fishing boat.

"If this message could be traced to its source, it might solve the recent mystery surrounding the missing ships in the Pacific that traders claim," the afternoon Sun commented.

A maritime commission opened an investigation of the fate of the Joyita Saturday.

The Joyita sailed from Apia, Fiji Island capital, last Oct. 3 on a supply trip to the Tokelau Islands. It was found more than one month later, abandoned and half-submerged, 590 miles off course.

Selig Plant To Expand; 100 Additional Personnel To Be Employed This Year

Selig Manufacturing Company will expand its Monroe plant during 1956 and add an additional 100 employees, according to an announcement authorized for release here yesterday.

Selig, which originally opened in south Monroe in 1948, operates a furniture manufacturing plant that ships finished furniture throughout the United States and abroad.

The announcement on the expansion was released here yesterday by the Monroe Area Industrial Development Corporation. MAIDCO President W. L. (Jack) Howard and Secretary - Treasurer David C. Silverstein earlier last week conferred with Mendell M. Selig, secretary of the Selig company.

Howard said Selig authorized a public announcement for Saturday.

The Monroe plant currently employes 225 persons. Twenty additional workers will be added within the next two weeks, according to Selig. He said the expansion program through the coming year will call for a total of 100 additional personnel this year.

There was no announcement on the cost of the new expansion but the MAIDCO spokesmen said they understood the addition would entail a "considerable outlay of expenditure."

Officials of MAIDCO welcomed the Selig announcement with enthusiasm and said they had assured Selig the cooperation of the local industrial promotion organization.

Selig said the expansion had become necessary due to the increased demand for its manufactured products. It has been known for sometime that order demands exceeded the capacity of the Monroe plant.

Howard, president of MAIDCO, hailed the Selig expansion as "just as important as a new industry that would employe 100 people." He pointed out that one of MAIDCO's purposes is to foster expansion of existing industry, in addition to encouraging the establishment of new industries.

Walter Koch, executive manager of MAIDCO, said his office had already informed Selig to feel free to call on MAIDCO for any service it may be able to render in carrying out the expansion.

The Selig announcement was the second major announcement in less than a week on industrial expansion in the Monroe area. Harold Brady announced Wednesday that he would head a newly organized company to locate in

Impassable Drifts Of Snow Paralyze West Texas Area

PLAINVIEW, Tex., Feb. 4—UP—Possibly the worst snowstorm in Texas history almost paralyzed thousands of square miles in the extreme northern and western parts of the state Saturday night with impassable drifts and numbing temperatures.

Actually, no part of the state escaped a storm that started four days ago. At least 18 deaths were blamed directly or indirectly on weather and sleet or snow covered half of the state. Cold rain and dropping temperatures besieged the rest of it.

The storm slopped over into New Mexico and Oklahoma where snow and iced roads closed highways and marooned travellers. More than 50 passengers on two buses and the drivers of 30 trucks were stranded in Wetumka, Okla. Tucumcari, N. M., reported zero visibility in a snowstorm.

But Plainview was struck by a snowstorm that left 29 inches of snow on level ground and piled up in drifts that reached almost to the eaves of houses, and 10 feet against roadsides. The heaviest snow previously recorded in Texas was 24 inches.

Bus service and mail delivery in Plainview and many other towns and cities in the Panhandle and South Plains—in the northernmost and westernmost parts of the state—stopped. Many stores were closed in such major cities as Plainview, Amarillo and Lubbock.

Quarles Indicates Jet Fighters Can Carry H-Bomb

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—UP—Air Secretary Donald A. Quarles strongly indicated Saturday that hydrogen bombs are being built in sizes small enough to be carried in jet fighter planes.

He also warned aggressors the United States is prepared to use nuclear weapons in either limited or global wars if forced to fight again.

Quarles addressed 1,500 aviation leaders at a conference which also was told that the nation is ill prepared for the noise, traffic control and airport problems of the onrushing jet age. The conference was sponsored by the Air Force Association.

Quarles asserted that today "even a fighter bomber can deliver on a target as much explosive force as all the World War II bombers combined."

Candidate Says Long's Job Offer Being Rejected

ALEXANDRIA, La., Feb. 4—UP—A candidate for state representative from Rapides parish, said to have been cast off by the faction of Gov.-elect Earl Long, today confirmed that he had been offered a state job if he would drop out of the runoff race.

Lawrence Fuglaar of Pineville said he had been offered the post of assistant commissioner of labor if he would withdraw from the Feb. 21 Democratic runoff primary.

"I am not taking a job, I am not taking any money and I am not dropping out of the race," Fuglaar said defiantly.

Fuglaar was elected on the Long ticket in 1948 and defeated in 1952. The Long forces here have endorsed Hank Baker, Ben Holt and Lloyd Teekell for the runoff race.

Six candidates are in the second primary in the battle for the three House seats from Rapides parish.

Rainach Calls For End To Illegal Vote Registration

HOMER, Feb. 4 (Special)—The leader of Louisiana's segregation fight said yesterday that the NAACP will gain control of the state government through bloc voting of Negroes unless the practice of illegal voting registration is stopped.

This statement was made by Sen. Willie M. Rainach during an interview in his office here. Rainach resides in Summerfield, some 13 miles east of Homer.

"Over a period of 20 years, starting in 1932, the NAACP has gained almost complete control of the state governments and electoral colleges in four Northern states," said Rainach. "This is due to bloc voting of Negroes—trading with one group of white people and then another until no political faction feels it can be elected without the Negro support.

"This will definitely happen in Louisiana unless we stop the illegal registration of unqualified Negroes, which is being pushed by the NAACP. There are only a few outposts in the state still holding out."

The soft-spoken Rainach is chairman of the Legislative Segregation Committee, a committee composed of legislators which has met almost continually for almost two years to work out a program of opposition to the U. S. Supreme Court's ruling which outlawed segregation in schools.

The veteran Claiborne legislator is also the first president of the Association of Citizens Councils of Louisiana, having been elected to this post earlier last week.

The Summerfield senator quoted figures to show that the number of Negroes registered to vote in Louisiana has leaped from 908 in 1940 to 155,000 at present, and pointed out that Negro voters make up 14.9 per cent of all registered voters in Louisiana.

This figure compares to seven per cent in New York; six per cent in Illinois and seven per cent in Michigan.

"Those four states are controlled by this Negro vote," declared Rainach, "and it is evident that Louisiana's 14.9 per cent if definitely well-past the danger point."

Rainach described the fight to maintain segregation as a "Fight for political power between radicals and people who believe in

Engineers Okay Bridge At Helena

HELENA, Ark., Feb. 4 (AP) — Arkansas and Mississippi got a go ahead from U. S. engineers yesterday on a long-planned Mississippi River bridge.

The engineer office at Memphis authorized construction of a 7½ million dollar toll structure between Helena and Coahoma County, Miss.

The engineer approval made it possible — though not probable — that construction might start within a year or slightly more.

Revenue bonds and direct contributions by Mississippi and Arkansas are to finance the bridge. The Highway Departments of both states are pledged to construct roads to the span.

Refuses To Name Man Who Offered Gas Bill Payoff

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 — UP—The Justice Department Saturday ordered a full FBI investigation of an alleged attempt to bribe Sen. Francis Case (R-S. D.) in connection with the pending natural gas bill.

It moved in after Senate Democratic and Republican leaders announced they will act Monday to set up a special investigating committee to look into Case's sensational charge that an unnamed lawyer tried to contribute $2,500 to his campaign funds, after ascertaining that Case favored the controversial gas bill.

The FBI's intervention was not expected to alter the determination of Senate leaders to conduct their own inquiry. The FBI is looking for outright violations of law, whereas the proposed special Senate committee would be concerned with possible "impropriety."

Case himself defied an ultimatum from Senate leaders that he identify the lawyer before a resolution authorizing the inquiry is brought before the Senate Monday. But he said he would "welcome an investigation by any properly constituted authority."

Case indicated he gave the FBI the names of the lawyer and all

Teenaged Youth Wins $100,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—UP—Teenager George L. Wright III Saturday night won $100,000 in his third try on a television quiz show—a record amount for anyone his age.

Wright, 14, won the prize on the NBC program, "The Big Surprise," with his amazing knowledge of science, magic and music.

Observers figured that by the time the youth paid about $67,000 in income taxes on his prize he would be left with approximately $33,000.

George clinched the $100,000 Saturday night when he identified a song of the 1920s as "Me and My Shadow" and, playing his ukelele, sang one verse of it.

New Orleans To Begin Carnival Season Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mardi Gras parades begin in New Orleans today while another Gulf Coast city, Mobile, Ala., takes a long weekend of rest from celebration.

Mobile started during the week with two parades. The merrymaking resumes Tuesday when the Maids of Mirth Mystic Society stages its parade, the first of five scheduled for the week.

Three carnival organizations, called Krewes, set off the gaiety in New Orleans today with parades in different sections of the city.

The Krewes of Carrollton, Okeanos and Alla are the first of 20 that will put on colorful parades, with floats carrying men and women in masked regalia, during a 10-day period.

The carnival season, a pre-Lenten celebration ends at midnight Shrove Tuesday, which this year is Feb. 14, or Mardi Gras.

In both southern cities, the religious faithful then will turn from gaiety to penitence.

When Mardi Gras arrives, make-believe royalty headed by Rex, King of Misrule, will take the city in its grasp. Citizens, many of whom mask, pour into the streets to clown, pull pranks, spread joy to the maximum and scream, "Throw me something, Mister" to float riders.

In Mobile, the Mardi Gras king and queen are crowned Saturday night. Their identities remain a secret until then.

The identity of New Orleans' Rex is held secret until Mardi Gras.

Mobile's schedule of events includes parades Thursday and Friday, then the younger set takes over Saturday for the annual floral parade, a panorama of color.

Another adult parade is Saturday night. The annual boat parade and races on Mobile River are scheduled for the following day, Sunday.

Shrove Tuesday is a business and school holiday in Mobile and New Orleans as well. It is a day of street dancing and masking.

Doctor Asserts Cigarettes Cause Most Lung Cancer

CINCINNATI, Feb. 4 (AP)—Leaders and staff members of the American Cancer Society were told here today that cigarette smoking causes 80 per cent of all male lung cancer fatalities.

Dr. Ernest L. Wynder, head of the epidemiology section of the Memorial Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases of New York, also told the group that it is the tobacco and not the cigarette paper which causes cancer.

"Eighteen studies by a variety of investigators have implicated tobacco smoking," he said, "as a cause of lung and larnyx cancer.

"An increasing effort is being made by several research laboratories to identify specific cancer inducing substances in tobacco tar which then might be removed from tobacco smoke or modified.

"This effort in the not too distant future will produce a practical solution to the lung cancer problem."

Leaders of the society are meeting here to complete plans for the society's annual April fund-raising campaign in which it will seek 26 million dollars to carry on and expand its programs of research, education and service to cancer patients.

It has been declared that honors never come singly. It seems that this statement is being verified in the case of Ernest L. The story of Mr. Neville recorded in this Golden Book is now available for inspection in the Ouachita Parish Library.

He also warned aggressors the United States is prepared to use nuclear weapons in either limited or global wars if forced to fight again.

Quarles addressed 1,500 aviation leaders at a conference which also was told that the nation is ill prepared for the noise, traffic control and airport problems of the onrushing jet age. The conference was sponsored by the Air Force Association.

Quarles asserted that today "even a fighter bomber can deliver on a target as much explosive force as all the World War II bombers combined."

Candidate Says Long's Job Offer Being Rejected

ALEXANDRIA, La., Feb. 4—UP —A candidate for state representative from Rapides parish, said to have been cast off by the faction of Gov.-elect Earl Long, today confirmed that he had been offered a state job if he would drop out of the runoff race.

Lawrence Fuglaar of Pineville said he had been offered the post of assistant commissioner of labor if he would withdraw from the Feb. 21 Democratic runoff primary.

"I am not taking a job, I am not taking any money and I am not dropping out of the race," Fuglaar said defiantly.

Fuglaar was elected on the Long ticket in 1948 and defeated in 1952. The Long forces here have endorsed Hank Baker, Ben Holt and Lloyd Teekell for the runoff race.

Six candidates are in the second primary in the battle for the three House seats from Rapides parish.

Engineers Okay Bridge At Helena

HELENA, Ark., Feb. 4 (AP) — Arkansas and Mississippi got a go ahead from U. S. engineers yesterday on a long-planned Mississippi River bridge.

The engineer office at Memphis authorized construction of a 7½ million dollar toll structure between Helena and Coahoma County, Miss.

The engineer approval made it possible — though not probable — that construction might start within a year or slightly more.

Revenue bonds and direct contributions by Mississippi and Arkansas are to finance the bridge. The Highway Departments of both states are pledged to construct roads to the span.

Teenaged Youth Wins $100,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—UP—Teenager George L. Wright III Saturday night won $100,000 in his third try on a television quiz show—a record amount for anyone his age.

Wright, 14, won the prize on the NBC program, "The Big Surprise," with his amazing knowledge of science, magic and music.

Observers figured that by the time the youth paid about $67,000 in income taxes on his prize he would be left with approximately $33,000.

George clinched the $100,000 Saturday night when he identified a song of the 1920s as "Me and My Shadow" and, playing his ukelele, sang one verse of it.

$102,000 Blaze Destroys Tire Co. At Alexandria

ALEXANDRIA, La. Feb. 4—UP —A fire, fed by hundreds of automobile tires, destroyed a building housing a tire business and a pet shop today, causing a loss estimated at $102,000.

One of the numerous firemen who battled the blaze for six hours, Willie Cross, was hospitalized for treatment of injuries suffered when a section of a brick wall of the building collapsed.

Destroyed by the fire was a building on Bolton avenue which housed the Coco and Deavers Tire Dealership and a pet shop.

An explosion apparently touched off the fire. Preston Brasher, owner of the building, said he heard a blast after midnight, shortly before the fire broke out.

Firemen estimated the building loss at $60,000 and said $42,000 worth of tires were burned up.

It was the second major fire here in 10 days. On Jan. 26, an entire block was razed with a loss estimated at $250,000.

Report Pirate Submarine Operating Off Fiji Isles

APIA, Fiji Islands, Feb. 4 —UP —Reports of a mysterious submarine spread through the South Sea Islands Saturday, threatening to disrupt inter-island trade after two ships in the area disappeared mysteriously.

Islanders were quick to link the reports of the submarine with the fate of two small missing schooners—the Joyita and Arakarimoa. The 52 persons aboard both ships also are missing.

Sailors said the mystery sub has made several unexpected appearances, only to submerge without a trace.

Under a headline "Pacific Mystery," the afternoon mirror of Sydney, Australia, said Saturday "the report of submarines alarms island traders."

"Whose turn is next?" the article asked.

The mirror accused official sources of wrapping a blanket of secrecy around the disappearance of the Joyita and the Arakarimoa. "Islanders now are convinced some very big issue is at stake with international repercussions," it added.

The submarine, which so far has been claimed by no government, was sighted twice in 24 hours, the afternoon Sun at Sydney said. The paper said the mystery craft failed along the Island trader Komawai near Suva for three hours and then vanished.

Natives of Fakaofa Atol in the Tarawa Islands also reported hearing an unconfirmed radio message saying that a Russian submarine had sunk an American fishing boat.

"If this message could be traced to its source, it might solve the recent mystery surrounding the missing ships in the Pacific that traders claim," the afternoon Sun commented.

A maritime commission opened an investigation of the fate of the Joyita Saturday.

The Joyita sailed from Apia, Fiji Island capital, last Oct. 3 on a supply trip to the Tokelau islands. It was found more than one month later, abandoned and half-submerged, 590 miles off course.

New Orleans To Begin Carnival Season Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mardi Gras parades begin in New Orleans today while another Gulf Coast city, Mobile, Ala., takes a long weekend of rest from celebration.

Mobile started during the week with two parades. The merrymaking resumes Tuesday when the Maids of Mirth Mystic Society stages its parade, the first of five scheduled for the week.

Three carnival organizations, called Krewes, set off the gaiety in New Orleans today with parades in different sections of the city.

The Krewes of Carrollton, Okeanos and Alla are the first of 20 that will put on colorful parades, with floats carrying men and women in masked regalia, during a 10-day period.

The carnival season, a pre-Lenten celebration ends at midnight Shrove Tuesday, which this year is Feb. 14, or Mardi Gras.

In both southern cities, the religious faithful then will turn from gaiety to penitence.

When Mardi Gras arrives, make-believe royalty headed by Rex, King of Misrule, will take the city in its grasp. Citizens, many of whom mask, pour into the streets to clown, pull pranks, spread joy to the maximum and scream, "Throw me something, Mister" to float riders.

In Mobile, the Mardi Gras king and queen are crowned Saturday night. Their identities remain a secret until then.

The identity of New Orleans' Rex is held secret until Mardi Gras.

Mobile's schedule of events includes parades Thursday and Friday, then the younger set takes over Saturday for the annual floral parade, a panorama of color.

Another adult parade is Saturday night. The annual boat parade and races on Mobile River are scheduled for the following day, Sunday.

Shrove Tuesday is a business and school holiday in Mobile and New Orleans as well. It is a day of street dancing and masking.

Woman Applauds Death Sentence Of Two Attackers

ATLANTA, Feb. 4—UP—A federal jury sentenced two "hungry wolf" brothers Saturday to death in the Georgia electric chair for their repeated rape of a spinster who considered herself lucky to be left alive.

"I certainly think they deserve it," was the reaction of the victim, Miss Sunie Jones, 53, of Chattanooga, when the jury convicted and doomed George, 33, and Michael Krull, 31, after almost eight hours of deliberation.

Attorneys for the stony-faced brothers indicated they would appeal the death sentence and U.S. District Judge Frank Hooper delayed fixing of the execution date until Feb. 24.

The Krull brothers were convicted of abducting Miss Jones from a Chattanooga street corner, driving her into Georgia for their first federal offense and then subjecting her to an hours-long ordeal of rape and torture in Chickamauga National Battlefield.

The brothers, who both have long criminal records dating back to their youth in the Pittsburgh area, were pictured by U.S. prosecutors as roaming "like hungry wolves through the streets of Chattanooga in broad daylight" seeking a woman they could molest.

They finally grabbed Miss Jones who testified in detail to the agony they put her through.

"I wouldn't have been happy if it hadn't turned out like it did," she said after the verdict. "It was a terrible thing to go through and I hope another woman never has to experience it. I'm so happy I'm still living."

L. S. U. Supervisors Seek $26.5 Million To Prepare For Enrollment Of 20,000

BATON ROUGE, La. Feb. 4—UP—The LSU board of supervisors agreed today to seek $26.5 million over a period of 25 years from the state legislature, in addition to regular appropriations, to meet an estimated enrollment of 20,000 by 1974.

President Troy Middleton said the board also set the coming fiscal year's budget at $19,638,771. Of this amount $15,701,963 will be asked from the legislature.

The remaining amount will come mainly from gifts, fees, oil revenues and federal appropriations.

In the 1955-56 fiscal year, ending June 30, total university income will be $18,184,107 of which $14,377,778 came from the legislature.

In addition to the normal appropriations the board will ask the state for $1.5 million a year for the next 25 years. This amount will meet expansion neds including new classrooms, laboratories and library facilities. None of the 25 year total of $26.5 million will be used for salaries or operating expenses.

"We are being ultra-conservative when we say our enrollment will be doubled in the next 15 years," Middleton said.

Present enrollment is 9,981.

If the extra sum is granted it will be used to service bonds.

Middleton indicated even more money may have to be asked if college age population continues to increase.

In other action the board decided to transfer $111,000 from "any available" fund to the state building authority to help meet the $720,000 bill for air conditioning parts of the campus.

Middleton said the appropriation fell short of earlier estimated cost. He said air conditioning of certain buildings would easily pay for itself by making rooms now unusable available for special research projects which cannot be carried on in summer-time temperatures.

The board also:

1. Requested issuance of preliminary papers for $850,000 in bonds to finance a new feed and fertilizer laboratory.

2. Ordered the marine laboratory at Grand Isle be discontinued and the buildings sold because of run down conditions.

3. Said $206,332.20 was given LSU in gifts, grants and renewals in the past year.

4. Approved a summer term budget of $303,110.15.

5. Appointed Dr. Charles W. Upp director of the agricultural experiment station.

6. Forwarded a study to the legislature which said the New Orleans area needs additional college facilities.

Beaumont Judge Orders Mistrial In Kidnap Case

BEAUMONT, Tex., Feb. 4—UP—A mistrial was declared Saturday in the baby kidnap case of Mrs. Pauline Schulze and her attorney, Percy Foreman, won a hard-fought change of venue.

District Judge Owen Lord ordered the mistrial because illness of a key witness prevented Foreman from cross-examining him. The new trial was set for Feb. 27 at Georgetown, in Williamson county.

After the judge read his order Mrs. Schulze, who has stared dejectedly at the floor since the trial opened Monday, half rose from her chair and breathed an audible sigh of relief.

The mistrial ruling came after a Beaumont heart specialist sent to Houston Friday to examine a witness, Dr. R. W. Schoettle, told the court Dr. Schoettle was too ill to testify.

Dr. Schoettle testified Thursday in a state attempt to establish a motive. He was stricken with a reported heart attack Friday and was unable to re-appear to complete his testimony.

The doctor is a former employer of Mrs. Schulze, a 30-year-old Houston practical nurse charged with kidnaping an infant only 29 minutes old from its crib in a Beaumont hospital last March 19.

The baby, Carolyn Sue Wharton, was found safe next day in Mrs. Schulze's home.

Teenager Jailed In Plot To Grab $2,000 Payroll

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4—UP—A teenage criminal "master mind", who plotted a $2,000 payroll holdup with bicycles as the getaway vehicles, was nabbed by police today before he employed his plan.

Police said Robert Kernstock, 18, made a rendezvous with a 16-year-old companion, but police showed up instead when the younger boy tipped officers to the payroll plot.

Kernstock was carrying a loaded .38-caliber revolver in a paper sack and had two bicycles ready when police appeared at the meeting place and placed him under arrest.

Officers said the youth, recently expelled from school here for bad conduct, admitted taking $1.60 from the same business place, Linde Air Products Co., last year when he used a springknife for a weapon.

He was booked for attempted robbery.

President Makes Soup For Cabinet Official, Wife

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Feb. 4 — UP—President Eisenhower, a do-it yourself man when it comes to good cooking, prepared his special vegetable soup Saturday for Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. George M. Humphrey.

He began boiling the soup bone stock Friday and spent Saturday morning adding the vegetables, seasoning and other touches which every amateur chef knows distinguishes real home-made soup.

Sleet and cold rain outside made it a good day for culinary dabbling in the warm kitchen of the Eisenhower's farmhouse.

The Humphreys were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eisenhower for what press secretary James C. Hagerty described as an entirely social weekend. Hagerty said no business was scheduled.

Congressional Hilites

WASHINGTON (AP)—House members demonstrated this week that helping the farmer will be a popular cause in this election year. They quickly and unanimously approved the session's first farm relief bill.

The measure, sent to the Senate, would exempt farmers from paying an estimated 60 million dollars a year in federal taxes on gasoline used in farming. The rollcall vote was 387-0.

There was one dispute in action on the bill: Whether Republicans or Democrats could claim credit for it.

In the Senate, no such harmony pravailed during the third week of debate on the controversial natural gas bill. The discussion was supercharged yesterday when Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) said a lawyer interested in passage of the bill had offered him a $2,500 campaign contribution. Case said he turned down the offer.

Case's statement brought immediate calls for an investigation which could delay voting on the bill, now scheduled for Monday. Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), an author of the measure, said Case was making a "serious charge of attempted bribery."

FARM — The gas tax exemption for farmers, one of nine points in President Eisenhower's farm program, was embraced with equal enthusiasm by members of both parties. The bill itself was authored by a Democrat.

Incidentally, it does not excuse farmers from paying the two cents-a-gallon federal tax on gasoline used on the highway.

Other White House farm proposals are being considered by the Senate Agriculture Committee, which today begins making "tentative decisions" on specific items.

GAS — The Senate's current legislative headache —, the bill to exempt natural gas producers from direct federal regulation — passed the House last year by a six-vote margin.

Case contended the size of the contribution offered him showed that "windfall profits are expected by some people if the bill is passed." He said the offer had decided him to vote against the proposal.

Fulbright and Sen. Monroney (D-Okla), the bill's floor manager, said that "if an attempt was made to bribe a senator" the persons responsible "ought to be pursued and prosecuted."

The bill's supporters contend it is needed to relieve gas producers of controls that would discourage development of new supplies. They deny opponents' claims it would substantially raise gas rates to consumers.

HIGHWAYS—As had been expected, Eisenhower made known his willingness to go along with a Democratic plan to finance a big highway construction program with the road use tax increases.

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts reported Eisenhower told GOP leaders that he won't press his suggestion to pay for the multi-billion-dollar program through bond issues.

ECONOMIC—Another Eisenhower proposal, that Congress consider enacting standby controls on consumer credit, was questioned yesterday by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. Testifying before the Senate House Economic Committee, Humphrey said he thinks "it is better not to have standby controls."

Humphrey suggested that if any control authority were voted, it be limited to "a freeze on everything" in a major emergency.

APPROPRIATIONS—The House Appropriations Committee sent to the House yesterday the session's first money bill for the fiscal year that begins July 1. It recommended a $31,173,000 cut in Eisenhower's budget requests for the Post Office and Treasury Departments and the tax court. As approved by the committee, the bill totals $3,618,699,000.

The committee also said something must be done about postal rates, which it termed "woefully inadequate" to meet costs.

Earlier in the week, Eisenhower asked for a 406 million dollar boost in postal rates. Congressional reaction was lukewarm.

New Officers Are Elected To Library Board

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Feb. 4 (Special) — The East Carroll Parish Library board re-elected W. B. Ragland, Jr., as president for 1956, at their recent quarterly meeting.

Other officers re-elected were Mrs. Keener Howard, vice - president, Mrs. Caspar Lensing, treasurer, and Miss Elizabeth Cammack, secretary. Miss Cammack is also the librarian of the local branch.

A summary of the statistical report for 1956 was given by Miss Cammack and a report on the bookmobile service by Mrs. Geisler. Mrs. Geisler said a new trip has been added to accomodate Lake Providence High school students, bringing the total trips to six. Monthly travel for the bookmobile averages 800 miles and patronage is increasing steadily. Each school and community is visited twice a month.

The fourth Thursday in each month was set as the time for the home study course, "How To Be A Good Library Board Member." The meetings will be held at the Lake Providence branch office and the librarian was instructed to order additional materials to be used in the study.

When doubling a recipe, it is not safe to double salt or other seasonings. Use the seasonings sparingly and by taste.

Grains Firm On Board Of Trade

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 (AP) —All grains firmed on the Board of Trade this week and dealings at times became fairly active.

Gains weren't very large, although wheat managed its best upturn since the start of 1956. This came largely because of short covering in the March and May contracts.

Good export business in some commodities, light receipts of cash grain, movement of wheat from Chicago and the possibility 90 per cent price supports might be restored on basic crops supported the buying.

Wheat closed the week 1⅝-4¾ higher, corn 1¾-2¾ higher, oats ⅜-⅝ higher, rye 1⅛-1¾ higher, soybeans ¾ lower to 3¼ higner and lard 7 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower.

The Civitan International organ, The Civitan, in its current issue gives space to tell of the formation and operation of the Monroe blood bank.

Under heading: "Monroe's Blood Bank Realty Now", it states: "The Monroe and West Monroe, Louisiana Civitan clubs have joined forces to put the Blood Bank Project into action.

"All Civitans in these two clubs have been typed and records made to insure that any Civitan will have blood available in case of need. Already one member of the West Monroe Civitan club has benefited by the project by donation of blood by four Civitans.

"The idea for the blood bank was originated by Civitan Lea Thompson, president of the Monroe Civitan club, who has been making a tour of Civitan clubs in the District, outlining the idea and helping in the start of a blood bank in each club."

An Illegal Legislative Act By The Supreme Court?

Editor's Note: This is the first of two editorials dealing with the U.S. Supreme Court decision in the public school segregation case. Read The Morning World tomorrow for the second.

The full implications of the U. S. Supreme Court decision outlawing racial segregation in the public schools are beginning to be felt and understood in our country.

Let us glance now at the decision itself, and the motivation back of it; and then tomorrow at its effects to date.

This was the first time in the history of the high tribunal that an unbroken line of Supreme Court rulings and precedents, extending back for many decades, was ignored. These rulings and precedents in their most recent utterances had upheld the doctrine of separate but equal facilities, in schools and on trains and in public waiting rooms, and state parks and city-owned recreational centers.

Every one of them was thrown into the ash-can by the stroke of nine pens, wielded by nine men whose combined judicial experience prior to their appointment to the nation's highest court was scarcely enough to "wad a shotgun."

In lieu of legal determination based on law and precedent, and prior court decisions, the Supreme Court dived into the dubious fields of psychology and sociology, and quoted as its authorities a series of writers, some of them as Red as the sunset or as pink as a peach blossom in their ideology.

Here was the first instance in the history of the Supreme Court where law and precedent, and all past jurisprudence, were flaunted and spurned, and the unproved theories of social revolutionaries and pseudo-scientists were substituted for law and precedent and unbroken past court decisions handed down by this very tribunal itself.

In the long run, the present Supreme Court's repudiation of law and precendent and its espousal of left-wing metaphysics as a mentor and guide and counsellor may prove even more significant, than the vital particular issue involved—integration of the races.

Who knows what rabbits this Supreme Court may pull out of the hat in the future, on issues of great moment, or what ouija board it will consult, or what astrologer or palmist, or soothsayer, or prophet or diviner, or water-witcher or oil doodlebugger, in arriving at vital decisions affecting the lives and destinies of the people?

Our nation has many skilled and honorable and able federal judges, serving on district and circuit courts—men trained in their profession, disciplined, tempered like Damascus steel, exercising the finest judgment and discretion, to safeguard the rights of government and the individual.

Decisions such as the one handed down by the Supreme Court in the school segregation case leave these consecrated jurists wandering in a wilderness without guide or compass.

Should they begin to quote Karl Marx as a legal authority holding sway over the American people? Or his American disciples?

There has been time enough, now, to evaluate the historic decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in the school segregation case, and view it for what it amounts to, and appraise it for what it is worth.

The question grows daily in our country, whether this was not an illegal and unconstitutional legislative act perpetrated by this Court, in defiance of the rights of the people, and their elected representatives in Congress; and of the Executive branch of the government.

The question arises, what further legislative acts in defiance of the people, and the Congress, and the Executive, may be promulgated by this Court, now that law and precedent have been tossed into the ash-can, and the soothsayers and left-wing scribes have climbed into the saddle, as authorities for Supreme Court decisions?

Tomorrow in The Morning World: The effects of the decision.

Unsupported Charges By Senator Case

Charges by Senator Case, South Dakota Republican, that an unnamed lawyer offered him a $2,500 "bribe" in the guise of a campaign contribution to vote for the Fulbright-Harris natural gas bill now before the Senate deserve thorough and prompt investigation.

Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, Texas Democrat, and Minority Leader Knowland of California Saturday served brusque notice on Senator Case that he could either name the alleged bribe-offerer and relate all the pertinent details, or face a full-scale investigation.

According to press dispatches, the South Dakotan flatly refused to reveal the information.

The Fulbright-Harris bill, approved by the House, would restore the exemption of well-head gas producers from direct federal regulation. A Supreme Court decision in the so-called Phillips case held that Congress intended to provide for such cumbersome federal control. This was denied by many members who voted for the act on which the ruling was based.

Some of the great public utilities of the North and East are working furiously to defeat the Fulbright-Harris bill. The AFL-CIO, and all left-wing Democrats and Republicans with a few exceptions, are lined up against the measure.

The position of Senator Case in this instance is untenable from the standpoints of law, morals and ethics. To offer a bribe in the hope of influencing legislation is a criminal offense, a felony. It is the inescapable duty of Senator Case to reveal all details of this alleged offense, otherwise he may be subject to possible prosecution for obstructing justice.

The Senate, moreover, is entitled to know the facts and judge the circumstances involving this sensational charge, so far utterly undocumented, resting only on the unsupported word of one Senator—a charge hurled as the long Senate debate over this hotly controversial and fundamental issue nears an end.

Perhaps some opponent of the Fulbright-Harris bill offered the "bribe." Possibly the entire affair was a complete misunderstanding. Perhaps the Senator merely imagined that an effort had been made to influence his vote. Who knows, lacking even the vaguest facts to back the Senator's assertion?

Such undocumented charges, hurled at the climax of heated debate on an issue which will determine whether the federal government can regulate production at its sources, perhaps show how desperate and relentless is the left-wing opposition to the Fulbright-Harris measure.

Run-Off Not Cancelled As Reported In Press

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The Democratic State Central Committee at its meeting on February 1st did not "cancel" a run-off as reported in many press releases. As I will point out later, no run-off or second primary could be legally held for nomination for the office of attorney general or commissioner of agriculture and immigration.

In Resolution Number 1 introduced by Mr. Leo Coco of Avoyelles Parish at the meeting of the Committee on October 4, 1955, a provision was made for a second primary but only in the event such was necessary. The specific provision of the resolution reads:

". . .Be It Further Resolved that in the event a second primary is necessary it shall be held and the same is hereby fixed for February 21, 1956 in accordance with law.

The Louisiana Legislature adopted the Revised Statutes of 1950 and Section 356 of Title 18 provides when, and under what circumstances, a second primary shall be held for state officers including the office of attorney general and the office of agriculture and immigration. That law reads clearly:

If no candidate for the office of Governor should have received a majority of the votes cast for that office, a second primary shall be held for Governor and for all other state officers and candidates for which have failed to receive a majority of the votes cast for the office for which they were respectively candidates.

There is no other prevailing statute which authorizes or permits the calling of a second primary for state officers and no such primary may be had, under existing law, when a candidate for governor receives a majority of the votes cast in the first primary.

This interpretation of the law has long been known to lawyers throughout the state and incidentally was concurred in by lawyers of all political factions at our meeting in Baton Rouge. One of the outstanding constitutional lawyers of the State of Louisiana; and many others whom we consulted, felt it would be illegal and unwarranted if the Democratic State Central Committee tried to hold a second primary for nomination to the offices of Attorney General and Commissioner of Agriculture and Immigration. By a vote of 73 to 4 the Democratic State Central Committee applied the law as written. We were compelled, morally and legally, to operate within the provisions of the statute. Among the lawyers who were present at the meeting of the State Central Committee who voted in favor of the resolution declaring Mr. Gremillion and Mr. McCrory as nominees of the Democratic Party (there by approving the above interpretation placed upon the prevailing statute) were: John J. McKeithen of Columbia, Richard P. Boyd, Jr. of Harrisonburg, Lamont Seale of Homer, Rufus D. Hayes of Baton Rouge, H. Lester Hughes of Natchitoches, Leander H. Perez of Pointe-a-la-Hache, T. J. Coenen of Rayville, D. Elmore Becnel of Lapiace, Earl H. Willis of St. Martinville, Joseph A. Simms of Hammond and H. H. Richardson of Bogalusa.

This was the old Democratic State Central Committee that acted and not the new one. I point this out since it is the same Democratic State Central Committee which removed Governor Long as Democratic National Committeeman and Mary Evelyn Dickerson (Parker) as Democratic National Committeewoman. It is also the Committee which lacked but two votes in supporting Governor Kennon's choice for Democratic National Committeeman in August, 1954. Considerably more than a majority of the members of the Committee were present in person and voted for the resolution I introduced.

CAMILLE F. GRAVEL, JR.
Democratic National Committeeman for Louisiana.

Pearce, LeBlanc Ousted

Delhi, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The headline of today's Monroe Morning World (February 2) was so right in its wording — "Pearce, LeBlanc Kicked Out Of Primary." As a Louisiana born Democratic citizen, I think that it is high time that Mr. Long's hand is called, along with all the rest of his cohorts who took it upon themselves to kick Mr. Pearce and Mr. LeBlanc out without giving them as much as a dog's chance. And here I would like to say according to the vote given by the press I notice that there were four gentlemen in the Central Committee at least.

Furthermore I don't see why Mr. Long would be so cocksure of his two picked candidates getting all the votes of the candidates who were eliminated in the first primary. At the time of this writing I have not heard any comment from Mr. Pearce or Mr. LeBlanc, but surely they will fight to the bitter end to see that people have a chance to speak, rather than a dictator who stands up and sticks his chest out and tells the people of Louisiana what they can do and what they cannot do.

I for one, a citizen of Louisiana, born here and never lived any place else in my life believes that its time for all Democratic-minded citizens to come to the aid of our two brethren who it seems to me are being persecuted by a handful of dictators, which I do not believe has any place in the state of Louisiana. If we the people want to live under this kind of government and do or say nothing about it, well then we should move to Russia as you well know that is the kind of government they have over there.

A SOLID CITIZEN.

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I read your editorial of January 20th, "The Growing Moonshine Industry" with great interest. I personally want to express my appreciation and I am sure this goes for our industry as a whole.

This is the first time I have ever read a favorable comment in your paper pertaining to the liquor industry. I am certain if we would get more publicity as the one in your editorial it would create a much better understanding what the legal liquor industry has to combat.

Prohibitive Tax

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

It was a great satisfaction to read your editorial in the January 20th Morning World concerning the almost prohibitive federal tax on whiskey and other distilled beverages.

The liquor industry has been very active in trying to get the tax reduced to a more sensible figure but nothing has come of the efforts so far.

I am quite certain that if the press as a whole would editorialize on the subject consistently the public would become aroused and voice their objections to this exorbitant tax. Let's say that we need more advertising on the subject.

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

In "Letters to the Editor" of the Monroe News-Star for Sunday, January 29, a tax payer complained about the new welfare building at Hall and Oak Street. As the contractor on this building, I know he is not correct on his facts. I have been to see the present offices of the area welfare staff just to make sure of my facts.

First of all, the Department of Public Welfare will not own this building. I have in my possession a building permit issued to Mr. N. A. Mansour and Mrs. C. Bezz to build a building to be used by the Louisiana Public Welfare Department. I know that this building has been rented to them on a long term lease.

The employees of the Welfare Department who will use this building are now in very crowded quarters. In offices planned for only one person there are two and three occupants crowded together so that they can't do their work well. Six stenographers are in a room only big enough for two. People coming to the office have to stand up in a public hall since there is no reception room. As a citizen and tax payer myself, I don't feel that we should expect government employees to have to work under these crowded conditions.

Lots of people think there is only one welfare office in Monroe located on Louisville Avenue. I thought so too until I got into this contract. Actually the office on Louisville is for Ouachita Parish. The area office, which will be housed on Hall and Oak Streets in the building I am now constructing, is another office of the Louisiana Welfare Department which covers the north central part of Louisiana with probation and parole services, child welfare services, rehabilitation for the blind, and help for children going into adoption or living away from home.

I understand that the probation and parole division in the new area office collects much more money each month from fathers who won't take care of their children than the rent will be on this new building. If this money were not collected taxpayers would have to pay out more taxes to provide relief for these children.

I believe that a tax payer should go and get all of his facts first before he writes such a letter as he sent to the paper last Sunday.

Philosophy Changed?

Washington — The philosophy of the Eisenhower Administration has changed in two politically important areas in the past four years while staying put on five other issues.

Since 1952, when Dwight D. Eisenhower shucked a military career to seek the Presidency, his thinking on agriculture and taxation has shifted.

No significant change in the President's fundamental approach is apparent on five issues; prosperity and employment, defense, power and water development, draft, reserves and Universal Military Training, and minimum wage legislation.

There have been some modifications in philosophy: in the field of foreign aid the President this year asked long-term foreign aid commitments in contrast to operations on a fiscal-year basis. A second modification: Last year Congress turned down the President's bond-financing proposal for a 10-year highway building program. This year he recommended the same program, but leaves the financing to Congress. He also modified his aid to education stand when he proposed a five-year program for school construction in contrast to previous year-to-year proposals.

These are the conclusions of Congressional Quarterly's examination of Eisenhower's policy - making statements since 1952 measured against the top potential 1956 issues picked by Congressmen in a CQ poll. These issues and the Eisenhower Administration' treatment of them will be at the center of the 1956 campaign.

The Congressmen rated taxes and government spending as the top issue last August. Second was agricultural price supports. In these two fields, the Eisenhower approach to the problem has changed.

In the field of taxation, Eisenhower in 1952 opposed "excessive taxation" which over a long period of time would "destroy free government." In 1954 he said already-granted tax reductions plus others later put into effect were justified as a stimulus to the economy. In 1956, he declared further tax reductions should be by passed until a balanced budget and reduction of the national debt could be achieved.

In 1953 and 1956 he stressed government savings in spending. In 1956, the fiscal budget proposed an increase in spending of more than 1 billion, and the President spoke of "new and expanded" programs in the field of human welfare.

On Sept. 7, 1952, he said "I firmly believe agriculture is entitled to a fair, full share of the national income. . .And a fair share is not merely 90 per cent of parity, it is full parity." On Jan. 11, 1954, he told Congress farm legislation "must give the Administration sufficient leeway to make timely changes in policies and methods, including price-support levels, within limits established by law" On Jan. 9, 1956, he told Congress "the principle" of flexible price supports is "sound and essential."

If the President decides to seek re-election, his path to the nomination will be smooth and sure, a far cry from four years ago. His post-convention problems of four years ago, including reconciliation with the supporters of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R. Ohio) are missing this time.

A short campaign of six weeks has been set up for the GOP Presidential candidate. The GOP candidate, if successful, will find the legislative path charted, the organizational structure intact.

Air Force Budget

Whether the armed services of the United States have come much closer to unity since they were placed under a single departmental head in 1947 becomes a really important question as the Army Navy and Air Force battle each year before the Appropriations committees of Congress for a larger share of the Armed Service budget.

Congressmen who have followed the process of bringing the three under centralized direction of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, are of the opinion that it is too soon for an affirmative or negative answer, but that enough progress has been made to justify unification.

Two conflicting forces have impeded the process, one being the great difficulty of establishing civilian authority over the military branches of the government, the other the necessity of forcing hard headed admirals and generals, whose forces had previously been rivals, to cooperate together in achiving the purpose of the unification act.

Determination of tough minded Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, former president of General Motors, and his former deputy, Roger B. Kyes, another General Motors executive to subordinate high ranking military brass, in the dictatorial fashion they ran the vast G-M empire, has delayed progress toward unification. So has the refusal of heads of the various services, fighting separately rather than together, to accept the penny-wise economy which the Wilson regime has forced upon them.

There have been gross errors of judgment on both sides, but the only really important question at this point is the readiness of the armed services to resist aggression from the most potentially powerful military organization in modern world history — that of the Communist powers.

With more than half the government's expenditures ear - marked for defense purposes, an uninformed observer might ask in surprise how it happens that all three services must constantly be cut back rather than expanded.

Despite the criticisms made by General Matthew B. Ridgway, former Army chief of staff, in a series of magazine articles, the man who appears to have the more persuasive gripe is General Nathan Twining, present chief of staff of the Air Force, who directs the nation's first line of defense in global warfare.

Twining faces the grim fact that the Soviet Union has evidently outproduced the United States in military aircraft for the past two years, has exhibited both jet planes and night fighters which impartial observers think superior to those of the U. S. Air Force and is said to have brought intercontinental guided missiles to the point where they would be usable, though no one can say how effective.

In the face of this grave outlook, Twining finds that the new 1957 budget would provide for only 1900 new airplanes, which would not be delivered until 1958 or 1959. It also would require another reduction in Air Force personnel, though Secretary Wilson says that the Air Force will have the 137 wings which it specifies as minimum for U. S. defense.

The Senate Armed Service committee, which will hear Twining presently in closed session, has a report that fully one third of the planes of the Tactical Air Force are grounded for lack of maintenance funds and trained personnel. The personnel problem, freely discussed in a number of magazine articles, is admittedly one of the vulnerable spots in U. S. defense.

Twining, unlike Ridgway, has not criticized the budget, of which the Air Force share is approximately 16.5 billion dollars, including 5.2 billions for purchase of new planes.

Editors Think Ike Will Run

LANSING, Mich. — In a continuing effort to chart an election year forecast, I came to the capital of this state while the legislature was in session, while there was a farmers' convention, a CIO convention, a state bar conference, and an association of editors from throughout the state—all meeting separately but concurrently.

Sampling sentiment was easy. Condensing it is more difficult.

This heir to the Mennen fortune with a boyish grin and a wife who reminds him "to thank people" has duplicated the Lausche feat (in Ohio) of keeping the mansion Democrat in a traditionally Republican state.

Asked if he has the maturity and depth for the White House, his friends will cock their heads sideways, hesitate, and say "Maybe someday."

Labor and Democrat are synonymous in Michigan's industrial areas.

Michigan farmers, raising mostly "luxury crops," have been less affected by farm price sags than most grass and grain country folks.

Nonetheless, you hear restlessness in the orchards and on the dairy farms. A wanting-something-better-without-knowing-what which could lead them to chastise the administration with indifference, if not with opposition.

At any event, the Democrats will drive this wedge as deeply as possible, though with less effect here than elsewhere, I think.

Republicans have an anxious eye on the waning boom in the auto industry. They don't want their campaign claim of "peace, prosperity and progress" to boomerang before election day. It is with this claim and a pledge of more of the same that they hope to hold their 1952 gains and recoup some important losses.

Of prominent Democrats who might slice into the GOP following, Lausche of Ohio is sometimes mentioned.

Cab drivers who ply Michigan Avenue from the Capitol to the University say there is almost a unanimous lack of enthusiasm for Adlai Stevenson.

I heard some Kefauver talk. Especially around the Olds Hotel where the CIO convened. They tell me I'd hear more of it in Detroit.

Following my address to the Michigan Press Association we polled the banquet hall and found:

Editors thought Eisenhower would run again.

They voted yes 279 to 95 with 36 undecided.

Three-to-one, they thought he would run.

If he runs, they were asked, will he win?

Yes, 348.

No, 34.

Undecided, 20.

If he runs, they were betting ten-to-one he would win!

LEGION AUXILIARY TO MEET

LAKE PROVIDENCE — February meeting of the Junior group of Powell - Martin - Barrett Unit 37, the American Legion Auxiliary will be Tuesday, February 7, immediately after school. The meeting will be held in the classroom of Mrs. Bessie Walsworth, who will be in charge. A "Valentine Gift" party has been planned and each member attending is to bring a gift for exchange with one of her sister members. Refreshments and exchange of gifts will follow the close of the business meeting.

Eighteen months ago, a private report from the Pentagon said that to maintain a 137 wing strength, the Air Force would have to have between 5300 and 5500 new planes a year. Present estimates would provide not much more than a third of that number.

The Navy which fights hard to keep its own air arm at operative strength, would get 1500 new planes out of the budget at its present limits, though its needs have been estimated at 2400.

The principal inquisitor of the joint chiefs on their senatorial committee appearances will be Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.- Mo.) Secretary of the Air Force in the Truman administration. The principal witness it now seems may be Twining instead of Ridgway. And reports are that he will tell all he knows about the alleged deficiencies of the Air Force, as Ridgway did about the army.

An Illegal Legislative Act By The Supreme Court?

Editor's Note: This is the first of two editorials dealing with the U.S. Supreme Court decision in the public school segregation case. Read The Morning World tomorrow for the second.

The full implications of the U. S. Supreme Court decision outlawing racial segregation in the public schools are beginning to be felt and understood in our country.

Let us glance now at the decision itself, and the motivation back of it; and then tomorrow at its effects to date.

This was the first time in the history of the high tribunal that an unbroken line of Supreme Court rulings and precedents, extending back for many decades, was ignored. These rulings and precedents in their most recent utterances had upheld the doctrine of separate but equal facilities, in schools and on trains and in public waiting rooms, and state parks and city-owned recreational centers.

Every one of them was thrown into the ash-can by the stroke of nine pens, wielded by nine men whose combined judicial experience prior to their appointment to the nation's highest court was scarcely enough to "wad a shotgun."

In lieu of legal determination based on law and precedent, and prior court decisions, the Supreme Court dived into the dubious fields of psychology and sociology, and quoted as its authorities a series of writers, some of them as Red as the sunset or as pink as a peach blossom in their ideology.

Here was the first instance in the history of the Supreme Court where law and precedent, and all past jurisprudence, were flaunted and spurned, and the unproved theories of social revolutionaries and pseudo-scientists were substituted for law and precedent and unbroken past court decisions handed down by this very tribunal itself.

In the long run, the present Supreme Court's repudiation of law and precendent and its espousal of left-wing metaphysics as a mentor and guide and counsellor may prove even more significant, than the vital particular issue involved—integration of the races.

Who knows what rabbits this Supreme Court may pull out of the hat in the future, on issues of great moment, or what ouija board it will consult, or what astrologer or palmist, or soothsayer, or prophet or diviner, or water-witcher or oil doodlebugger, in arriving at vital decisions affecting the lives and destinies of the people?

Our nation has many skilled and honorable and able federal judges, serving on district and circuit courts—men trained in their profession, disciplined, tempered like Damascus steel, exercising the finest judgment and discretion, to safeguard the rights of government and the individual.

Decisions such as the one handed down by the Supreme Court in the school segregation case leave these consecrated jurists wandering in a wilderness without guide or compass.

Should they begin to quote Karl Marx as a legal authority holding sway over the American people? Or his American disciples?

There has been time enough, now, to evaluate the historic decision of the U. S. Supreme Court in the school segregation case, and view it for what it amounts to, and appraise it for what it is worth.

The question grows daily in our country, whether this was not an illegal and unconstitutional legislative act perpetrated by this Court, in defiance of the rights of the people, and their elected representatives in Congress; and of the Executive branch of the government.

The question arises, what further legislative acts in defiance of the people, and the Congress, and the Executive, may be promulgated by this Court, now that law and precedent have been tossed into the ash-can, and the soothsayers and left-wing scribes have climbed into the saddle, as authorities for Supreme Court decisions?

Tomorrow in The Morning World: The effects of the decision.

Unsupported Charges By Senator Case

Charges by Senator Case, South Dakota Republican, that an unnamed lawyer offered him a $2,500 "bribe" in the guise of a campaign contribution to vote for the Fulbright-Harris natural gas bill now before the Senate deserve thorough and prompt investigation.

Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, Texas Democrat, and Minority Leader Knowland of California Saturday served brusque notice on Senator Case that he could either name the alleged bribe-offerer and relate all the pertinent details, or face a full-scale investigation.

According to press dispatches, the South Dakotan flatly refused to reveal the information.

The Fulbright-Harris bill, approved by the House, would restore the exemption of well-head gas producers from direct federal regulation. A Supreme Court decision in the so-called Phillips case held that Congress intended to provide for such cumbersome federal control. This was denied by many members who voted for the act on which the ruling was based.

Some of the great public utilities of the North and East are working furiously to defeat the Fulbright-Harris bill. The AFL-CIO, and all left-wing Democrats and Republicans with a few exceptions, are lined up against the measure.

The position of Senator Case in this instance is untenable from the standpoints of law, morals and ethics. To offer a bribe in the hope of influencing legislation is a criminal offense, a felony. It is the inescapable duty of Senator Case to reveal all details of this alleged offense, otherwise he may be subject to possible prosecution for obstructing justice.

The Senate, moreover, is entitled to know the facts and judge the circumstances involving this sensational charge, so far utterly undocumented, resting only on the unsupported word of one Senator—a charge hurled as the long Senate debate over this hotly controversial and fundamental issue nears an end.

Perhaps some opponent of the Fulbright-Harris bill offered the "bribe." Possibly the entire affair was a complete misunderstanding. Perhaps the Senator merely imagined that an effort had been made to influence his vote. Who knows, lacking even the vaguest facts to back the Senator's assertion?

Such undocumented charges, hurled at the climax of heated debate on an issue which will determine whether the federal government can regulate production at its sources, perhaps show how desperate and relentless is the left-wing opposition to the Fulbright-Harris measure.

Run-Off Not Cancelled As Reported In Press

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The Democratic State Central Committee at its meeting on February 1st did not "cancel" a run-off as reported in many press releases. As I will point out later, no run-off or second primary could be legally held for nomination for the office of attorney general or commissioner of agriculture and immigration.

In Resolution Number 1 introduced by Mr. Leo Coco of Avoyelles Parish at the meeting of the Committee on October 4, 1955, a provision was made for a second primary but only in the event such was necessary. The specific provision of the resolution reads:

". . .Be It Further Resolved that in the event a second primary is necessary it shall be held and the same is hereby fixed for February 21, 1956 in accordance with law.

The Louisiana Legislature adopted the Revised Statutes of 1950 and Section 356 of Title 18 provides when, and under what circumstances, a second primary shall be held for state officers including the office of attorney general and the office of agriculture and immigration. That law reads clearly:

If no candidate for the office of Governor should have received a majority of the votes cast for that office, a second primary shall be held for Governor and for all other state officers and candidates for which have failed to receive a majority of the votes cast for the office for which they were respectively candidates.

There is no other prevailing statute which authorizes or permits the calling of a second primary for state officers and no such primary may be had, under existing law, when a candidate for governor receives a majority of the votes cast in the first primary.

This interpretation of the law has long been known to lawyers throughout the state and incidentally was concurred in by lawyers of all political factions at our meeting in Baton Rouge. One of the outstanding constitutional lawyers of the State of Louisiana; and many others whom we consulted, felt it would be illegal and unwarranted if the Democratic State Central Committee tried to hold a second primary for nomination to the offices of Attorney General and Commissioner of Agriculture and Immigration. By a vote of 73 to 4 the Democratic State Central Committee applied the law as written. We were compelled, morally and legally, to operate within the provisions of the statute. Among the lawyers who were present at the meeting of the State Central Committee who voted in favor of the resolution declaring Mr. Gremillion and Mr. McCrory as nominees of the Democratic Party (thereby approving the above interpretation placed upon the prevailing statue) were: John J. McKeithen of Columbia, Richard P. Boyd, Jr. of Harrisonburg, Lamont Seale of Homer, Rufus D. Hayes of Baton Rouge, H. Lester Hughes of Natchitoches, Leander H. Perez of Pointe-a-la-Hache, T. J. Coenen of Rayville, D. Elmore Becnel of Laplace, Earl H. Willis of St. Martinville, Joseph A. Simms of Hammond and H. H. Richardson of Bogalusa.

This was the old Democratic State Central Committee that acted and not the new one. I point this out since it is the same Democratic State Central Committee which removed Governor Long as Democratic National Committeeman and Mary Evelyn Dickerson (Parker) as Democratic National Committeewoman. It is also the Committee which lacked but two votes in supporting Governor Kennon's choice for Democratic National Committeman in August, 1954. Considerably more than a majority of the members of the Committee were present in person and voted for the resolution I introduced.

CAMILLE F. GRAVEL, JR.
Democratic National Committeeman for Louisiana.

Pearce, LeBlanc Ousted

Delhi, La.

Editor, Morning World:

The headline of today's Monroe Morning World (February 2) was so right in its wording — "Pearce, LeBlanc Kicked Out Of Primary." As a Louisiana born Democratic citizen, I think that it is high time that Mr. Long's hand is called, along with all the rest of his cohorts who took it upon themselves to kick Mr. Pearce and Mr. LeBlanc out without giving them as much as a dog's chance. And here I would like to say according to the vote given by the press I notice that there were four gentlemen in the Central Committee at least.

Furthermore I don't see why Mr. Long would be so cocksure of his two picked candidates getting all the votes of the candidates who were eliminated in the first primary. At the time of this writing I have not heard any comment from Mr. Pearce or Mr. LeBlanc, but surely they will fight to the bitter end to see that people have a chance to speak, rather than a dictator who stands up and sticks his chest out and tells the people of Louisiana what they can do and what they cannot do.

I for one, a citizen of Louisiana, born here and never lived any place else in my life believes that its time for all Democratic-minded citizens to come to the aid of our two brethren who it seems to me are being persecuted by a handful of dictators, which I do not believe has any place in the state of Louisiana. If we the people want to live under this kind of government and do or say nothing about it, well then we should move to Russia as you well know that is the kind of government they have over there.

A SOLID CITIZEN.

I read your editorial of January 20th. "The Growing Moonshine Industry" with great interest. I personally want to express my appreciation and I am sure this goes for our industry as a whole.

This is the first time I have ever read a favorable comment in your paper pertaining to the liquor industry. I am certain if we would get more publicity as the one in your editorial it would create a much better understanding what the legal liquor industry has to combat.

It was a great satisfaction to read your editorial in the January 20th Morning World concerning the almost prohibitive federal tax on whiskey and other distilled beverages.

The liquor industry has been very active in trying to get the tax reduced to a more sensible figure but nothing has come of the efforts so far.

I am quite certain that if the press as a whole would editorialize on the subject consistently the public would become aroused and voice their objections to this exorbitant tax. Let's say that we need more advertising on the subject.

Whether the armed services of the United States have come much closer to unity since they were placed under a single departmental head in 1947 becomes a really important question as the Army Navy and Air Force battle each year before the Appropriations committees of Congress for a larger share of the Armed Service budget.

Congressmen who have followed the process of bringing the three under centralized direction of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, are of the opinion that it is too soon for an affirmative or negative answer, but that enough progress has been made to justify unification.

Two conflicting forces have impeded the process, one being the great difficulty of establishing civilian authority over the military branches of the government, the other the necessity of forcing hard headed admirals and generals, whose forces had previously been rivals, to cooperate together in achiving the purpose of the unification act.

Determination of tough minded Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson, former president of General Motors, and his former deputy, Roger B. Kyes, another General Motors executive to subordinate high ranking military brass, in the dictatorial fashion they ran the vast G-M empire, has delayed progress toward unification. So has the refusal of heads of the various services, fighting separately rather than together, to accept the penny-wise economy which the Wilson regime has forced upon them.

There have been gross errors of judgment on both sides, but the only really important question at this point is the readiness of the armed services to resist aggression from the most potentially powerful military organization in modern world history — that of the Communist powers.

With more than half the government's expenditures ear - marked for defense purposes, an uninformed observer might ask in surprise how it happens that all three services must constantly be cut back rather than expanded.

Despite the criticisms made by General Matthew B. Ridgway, former Army chief of staff, in a series of magazine articles, the man who appears to have the more persuasive gripe is General Nathan Twining, present chief of staff of the Air Force, who directs the nation's first line of defense in global warfare.

Twining faces the grim fact that the Soviet Union has evidently outproduced the United States in military aircraft for the past two years, has exhibited both jet planes and night fighters which impartial observers think superior to those of the U. S. Air Force and is said to have brought intercontinental guided missiles to the point where they would be usable, though no one can say how effective.

In the face of this grave outlook, Twining finds that the new 1957 budget would provide for only 1900 new airplanes, which would not be delivered until 1958 or 1959. It also would require another reduction in Air Force personnel, though Secretary Wilson says that the Air Force will have the 137 wings which it specifies as minimum for U. S. defense.

The Senate Armed Service committee, which will hear Twining presently in closed session, has a report that fully one third of the planes of the Tactical Air Force are grounded for lack of maintenance funds and trained personnel. The personnel problem, freely discussed in a number of magazine articles, is admittedly one of the vulnerable spots in U. S. defense.

Twining, unlike Ridgway, has not criticized the budget, of which the Air Force share is approximately 16.5 billion dollars, including 5.2 billions for purchase of new planes.

Editors Think Ike Will Run

LANSING, Mich. — In a continuing effort to chart an election year forecast, I came to the capital of this state while the legislature was in session, while there was a farmers' convention, a CIO convention, a state bar conference, and an association of editors from throughout the state—all meeting separately but concurrently.

Sampling sentiment was easy. Condensing it is more difficult.

This heir to the Mennen fortune with a boyish grin and a wife who reminds him "to thank people" has duplicated the Lausche feat (in Ohio) of keeping the mansion Democrat in a traditionally Republican state.

Asked if he has the maturity and depth for the White House, his friends will cock their heads sideways, hesitate, and say "Maybe someday."

Labor and Democrat are synonymous in Michigan's industrial areas.

Michigan farmers, raising mostly "luxury crops," have been less affected by farm price sags than most grass and grain country folks.

Nonetheless, you hear restlessness in the orchards and on the dairy farms. A wanting-something-better-without-knowing-what which could lead them to chastise the administration with indifference, if not with opposition.

At any event, the Democrats will drive this wedge as deeply as possible, though with less effect here than elsewhere, I think.

Republicans have an anxious eye on the waning boom in the auto industry. They don't want their campaign claim of "peace, prosperity and progress" to boomerang before election day. It is with this claim and a pledge of more of the same that they hope to hold their 1952 gains and recoup some important losses.

Of prominent Democrats who might slice into the GOP following, Lausche of Ohio is sometimes mentioned.

Cab drivers who ply Michigan Avenue from the Capitol to the University say there is almost a unanimous lack of enthusiasm for Adlai Stevenson.

I heard some Kefauver talk. Especially around the Olds Hotel where the CIO convened. They tell me I'd hear more of it in Detroit.

Following my address to the Michigan Press Association we polled the banquet hall and found:

Editors thought Eisenhower would run again.

They voted yes 279 to 95 with 36 undecided.

Three-to-one, they thought he would run.

If he runs, they were asked, will he win?

Yes, 348.

No, 34.

Undecided, 20.

If he runs, they were betting ten-to-one he would win!

LEGION AUXILIARY TO MEET

LAKE PROVIDENCE — February meeting of the Junior group of Powell - Martin - Barrett Unit 37, the American Legion Auxiliary will be Tuesday, February 7, immediately after school. The meeting will be held in the classroom of Mrs. Bessie Walsworth, who will be in charge. A "Valentine Gift" party has been planned and each member attending is to bring a gift for exchange with one of her sister members. Refreshments and exchange of gifts will follow the close of the business meeting.

Eighteen months ago, a private report from the Pentagon said that to maintain a 137 wing strength, the Air Force would have to have between 5300 and 5500 new planes a year. Present estimates would provide not much more than a third of that number.

The Navy which fights hard to keep its own air arm at operative strength, would get 1500 new planes out of the budget at its present limits, though its needs have been estimated at 2400.

The principal inquisitor of the joint chiefs on their senatorial committee appearances will be Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.- Mo.) Secretary of the Air Force in the Truman administration. The principal witness it now seems may be Twining instead of Ridgway. And reports are that he will tell all he knows about the alleged deficiencies of the Air Force, as Ridgway did about the army.

Bluest Of 'Blue Chips' Break All-Time Records In 1955 Earnings Reports

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP) — The bluest of industry's blue chips came up with a batch of jet-propelled 1955 earnings reports this week that left the record profits of earlier years in the model T category.

Topping the star-spangled list of reporting firms was General Motors Corp., the world's biggest automaker. First company in U.S. history to break through the billion-dollar profits barrier, GM last year racked up net earnings of $1,189,000,000. That's what the company had left after setting aside $1,600,000,000 for federal, state and local taxes.

Also heard from were the world's biggest oil company, the world's biggest steel firm and the world's biggest copper producer.

Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), reporting the "best year in the company's history," estimated its 1955 profits at 717 million dollars, up 23 per cent from the year before.

A 90 per cent hike was announced by United States Steel Corp. with profits at a new peak of $370,197,000. Sales and shipments also set new highs. Kennecott Copper Corp. boosted its net earnings 61 per cent, to a record $125,615,000. Net income of Union Carbide & Carbon Corp. shot to a new high of $140,755,858.

Contributing further to the ebullient tone of business were predictions by industry leaders of more lush profits in 1956. The stock market snapped out of its January doldrums with oil shares leading the advance. Retail trade moved ahead. Steel set production records.

Outstanding soft spot was the auto industry which announced new cutbacks to bring production into line with sagging sales.

Beginning Monday, all Chrysler divisions in Detroit—Chrysler, DeSoto, Dodge and Plymouth—will go on a four-day week. Already shut down for two weeks was the Packard-Clipper division of Studebaker-Packard Corp., with 5,500 idle. For the industry at large, it's estimated that some 33,000 auto workers have been laid off since the start of the year.

January output of cars and trucks was eight per cent under December and down nearly seven per cent from January 1955. Bucking the trend was big General Motors which upped its ouput by around two per cent. A slight dip in production of GM cars was more than offset by rising truck output.

Outside of Detroit and other auto manufacturing centers, the cutbacks scarcely caused a ripple. The steel industry was swamped with orders from other customers, with capacity operations sighted for months to come. Falling store sales in Detroit were all but submerged by a slow but consistent rise in retail volume elsewhere.

Department store sales across the nation at latest count were a hefty eight per cent over the like 1955 week, after loafing along at only two or three per cent above a year ago during most of January. Merchants continued to report vigorous consumer response to the usual January-February clearance sales of furniture, bedding and apparel.

Cotton Futures Finish Week Up After Slow Start

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—Cotton futures prices finished strong this week after a somewhat hesitant start.

On the New York Cotton Exchange, active futures contracts racked up net gains for the week which ranged from 80 cents to $2.30 a bale.

Several factors combined to strengthen bullish sentiment. Traders were encouraged by favorable news from the Worth Street textile market where cotton goods—particularly the popular 80 square print cloth—were reported selling briskly and at slightly higher prices.

Tightening supplies of free cotton also bolstered the futures market. Traders were heartened, too, by indications that Congress would enact farm legislation favorable to cotton growers this year, and by the growing possibility of a 90 per cent loan rate for the 1956 crop.

Selling resulted chiefly from profit-taking, the continued dim outlook for the cotton export business, and the government's official mid-January parity price of 34.84 cents a pound for upland cotton.

Many in the trade had expected the U.S. Department of Agriculture to announce a mid-January parity price of 35.12 cents or higher. The mid-December price was 35.09.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday fell to their lowest level in a long time. Estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau ot 8,000 bales, the total compared with exports of 33,000 bales the previous week and 57,000 in the like week a year ago.

This brought the season's total through Jan. 31 to 892,000 bales, against a total of 1,967,000 bales at approximately the same time last year.

$120-Per-Share Rise Of Superior Oil Paces Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—The stock market forced its way up strongly this week.

It was the best weekly rise since early November. The Associated Press average gained $4.40 and closed at $17.60, only $3.90 away from last year's record high.

One of the greatest deterrents was simply inertia by traders. Business was the slowest since the first week of November.

Traders showed a disposition to await word from President Eisenhower on whether he intends to run. The idea seemed to spread in Wall Street, however, that the market would go up no matter what the President decided.

Reports came of record high earnings of corporate giants. Standard Oil (NJ), U. S. Steel, Union Carbide, General Motors, Kennecott Copper.

Blue chip stocks were among the strongest. The highest priced stock made a new high when Superior Oil vaulted 120 points during the week to close at 1,215 after hitting 1,220.

Ford Motor traded over the counter, dropped to a final bid this week of 62⅞ after a closing bid last week of 64½.

The five most active issues this week were General Motors up 1⅞, Standard Oil (NJ) "When Issued" unchanged, Standard Oil (NJ) up 10⅛, Standard Oil (Indiana) up 5 2⅞ and Westinghouse off ⅛.

The corporate bond market wound up higher on balance this week after relatively brisk trading. P.S. treasury obligations advanced fractionally in rather dull dealings.

On Wednesday, New Orleans will offer 11½ million dollars of sewerage, water and drainage bonds.

Italians Convict American Girl For Attack On Hubby

NOVARA, Italy, Feb. 4—UP — An Italian court convicted New York glamour girl Joanne Connelly Saturday of defaming her wealthy Bolivian husband, Jaime Patino, and imposed an eight-month suspended jail sentence on her.

The court also ordered the 24-year-old cover girl to pay her 26-year-old husband, Jaime Ortiz Patino, heir to a tin fortune, $800 damages, court costs of $232 and a $112 fine.

Her attorney, who announced he would appeal the verdict, said she is staying with friends at Neufchatel, Switzerland.

The all-male jury that convicted Miss Connelly acquitted Michael Stern, an American journalist, of similar charges after the prosecution said there was insufficient evidence against him.

The jury took 30 minutes to return its decision after two days of testimony. Stern was the only one of the three principals present.

It was through an interview with Stern, published in the Italian "Le Ore" in August, 1954, that Miss Connelly made the charges that resulted in the defamation suit.

She accused her husband of beating her senseless, terrorizing her with a pistol and screaming at her in the tongue of Inca Indians during their honeymoon on the "romantic" isle of Capri in May, 1954.

She said that as a result she had a miscarriage and tried to commit suicide with an overdose of sleeping pills.

U. S. Unable To Confirm Egypt's Bomber Purchase

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—UP—The State Department said Saturday it has no information to confirm reports that Egypt has received 40 Soviet-built Ilyushin bombers.

There have been reports that Ilyushin bombers were involved in the Czech arms deal with Egypt since the arrangement was first announced. The Egyptians also have been known from the beginning to have contracted for MIG-15 jet fighter planes.

Mississippi Senate To Consider Revenue Bills

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 4 (AP)—Senators will consider two more revenue bills Monday in the state's effort to raise 183 million dollars for the next two years.

The House calendar is clear but more bills are expected to be added Monday.

The Senate bills raise from $1 to $2 the fees on drivers license and automobile tags and give the money to the highway patrol, and tax hospital and surgical insurance premiums.

The fee boost would produce more than five million dollars every two years, more than enough to operate the highway patrol.

Gov. J. P. Coleman plans to use the money to raise salaries, hire additional personnel, buy equipment and build a crime detection laboratory which he said Mississippi sorely lacks.

The Legislature is expected to go along with the license fee raises. The budget Commission did not appropriate any general fund money for the highway patrol, depending upon the fees to support it.

This week, the House considered bills ranging from taxation to segregation, but the debate flared largely over regulation of parking around the Capitol.

There was little opposition and less debate when the Legislature passed a 14 per cent additional tax on eight taxes or when the House approved four more bills to keep segregation.

But representatives spoke for two hours on the question of whether to permit the highway patrol to fine illegal parkers $10 and whether to permit illegally parked cars to be towed away.

Most of the argument was about Jackson residents who use state parking facilities for private parking.

After the arguments, the only change was a reduction of the $10 fine to $1. The tow-away provision remained.

Coleman signed his third bill—the surtax—which he called a major revenue measure. It was the first revenue bill passed and signed during the session.

The surtax, effective from July 1, 1956 until June 30, 1958, produces seven million dollars.

Enacted as an emergency tax measure, the surtax apparently is here to stay. Coleman predicted "no chance of reducing or eliminating) the tax any time soon."

He declined to say whether he would eliminate the tax (as the law permits) this year despite the state's prospect of having a 10 million-dollar surplus at the end of the biennium.

The tax bill kept the Legislature in a turmoil for two months during the 1955 session but it passed 112-10 after 45 minutes in the House and 36-13 after an hour in the Senate.

The House passed and sent to the Senate four more bills aimed at keeping segregation.

The bills were referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee which is studying six other segregation bills.

All segregation measures zipped through the House with no opposition and the only discussion coming on technicalities of wording. No one questioned the intent of the bills.

Equally overwhelming passage is expected in the Senate.

One of the most hilarious House sessions came during debate over whether to outlaw or to limit to two the number of cases of beer residents of dry counties may possess.

Under present law there is no limit. Coleman asked the Legislature for the two-case limit so sheriffs in dry counties could get convictions against bootleggers without catching them in the act of sale.

Temperance Committee Chairman Ney Gore of Quitman called upon the House to "vote dry on this bill and let these dry counties get as dry as Pharoah's tomb."

Gore was joined by other normal "wets" and they voted 92-20 to dry up the 53 counties prohibiting sale of beer.

For the drys, it was an unexpected help.

The entire state is legally dry for whisky sales or possession.

Rep. Upton Sisson of Harrison County, where liquor is sold openly, injected a note of hilarity in the discussion by calling for a 200-case limit.

"No one could have a half-way decent party on two cases of beer," he told a laughing House which shouted down his amendment.

The Senate approved a revenue bill and expanded it to produce about $300,000 more than Coleman had anticipated.

He had asked for a boost in insurance premiums to produce $780,000.

The Senate amended the bill to eliminate deductions of dividends before determining the total taxable premiums.

The bill, now in the House Insurance Committee, permits benevolent, fraternal, and agricultural groups to deduct dividends if they write insurance for members only.

Lime frosting is especially good on plain, white cake. Make it by adding lime juice to creamed butter and sugar. Tint the mixture with green food coloring.

This brought the season's total through Jan. 31 to 892,000 bales, against a total of 1,967,000 bales at approximately the same time last year.

$120-Per-Share Rise Of Superior Oil Paces Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—The stock market forced its way up strongly this week.

It was the best weekly rise since early November. The Associated Press average gained $4.40 and closed at $17.60, only $3.90 away from last year's record high.

One of the greatest deterrents was simply inertia by traders. Business was the slowest since the first week of November.

Traders showed a disposition to await word from President Eisenhower on whether he intends to run. The idea seemed to spread in Wall Street, however, that the market would go up no matter what the President decided.

Reports came of record high earnings of corporate giants. Standard Oil (NJ), U. S. Steel, Union Carbide, General Motors, Kennecott Copper.

Blue chip stocks were among the strongest. The highest priced stock made a new high when Superior Oil vaulted 120 points during the week to close at 1,215 after hitting 1,220.

Ford Motor traded over the counter, dropped to a final bid this week of 62⅞ after a closing bid last week of 64½.

The five most active issues this week were General Motors up 1⅞, Standard Oil (NJ) "When Issued" unchanged, Standard Oil (NJ) up 10⅛, Standard Oil (Indiana) up 5 2⅛ and Westinghouse off ⅛.

The corporate bond market wound up higher on balance this week after relatively brisk trading. P.S. treasury obligations advanced fractionally in rather dull dealings.

On Wednesday, New Orleans will offer 11½ million dollars of sewerage, water and drainage bonds.

Italians Convict American Girl For Attack On Hubby

NOVARA, Italy, Feb. 4—UP — An Italian court convicted New York glamour girl Joanne Connelly Saturday of defaming her wealthy Bolivian husband, Jaime Patino, and imposed an eight-month suspended jail sentence on her.

The court also ordered the 24-year-old cover girl to pay her 26-year-old husband, Jaime Ortiz Patino, heir to a tin fortune, $800 damages, court costs of $232 and a $112 fine.

Her attorney, who announced he would appeal the verdict, said she is staying with friends at Neufchatel, Switzerland.

The all-male jury that convicted Miss Connelly acquitted Michael Stern, an American journalist, of similar charges after the prosecution said there was insufficient evidence against him.

The jury took 30 minutes to return its decision after two days of testimony. Stern was the only one of the three principals present.

It was through an interview with Stern, published in the Italian "Le Ore" in August, 1954, that Miss Connelly made the charges that resulted in the defamation suit.

She accused her husband of beating her senseless, terrorizing her with a pistol and screaming at her in the tongue of Inca Indians during their honeymoon on the "romantic" isle of Capri in May, 1954.

She said that as a result she had a miscarriage and tried to commit suicide with an overdose of sleeping pills.

U. S. Unable To Confirm Egypt's Bomber Purchase

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—UP—The State Department said Saturday it has no information to confirm reports that Egypt has received 40 Soviet-built Ilyushin bombers.

There have been reports that Ilyushin bombers were involved in the Czech arms deal with Egypt since the arrangement was first announced. The Egyptians also have been known from the beginning to have contracted for MIG-15 jet fighter planes.

Mississippi Senate To Consider Revenue Bills

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 4 (AP)—Senators will consider two more revenue bills Monday in the state's effort to raise 183 million dollars for the next two years.

The House calendar is clear but more bills are expected to be added Monday.

The Senate bills raise from $1 to $2 the fees on drivers license and automobile tags and give the money to the highway patrol, and tax hospital and surgical insurance premiums.

The fee boost would produce more than five million dollars every two years, more than enough to operate the highway patrol.

Gov. J. P. Coleman plans to use the money to raise salaries, hire additional personnel, buy equipment and build a crime detection laboratory which he said Mississippi sorely lacks.

The Legislature is expected to go along with the license fee raises. The budget Commission did not appropriate any general fund money for the highway patrol, depending upon the fees to support it.

This week, the House considered bills ranging from taxation to segregation, but the debate flared largely over regulation of parking around the Capitol.

There was little opposition and less debate when the Legislature passed a 14 per cent additional tax on eight taxes or when the House approved four more bills to keep segregation.

But representatives spoke for two hours on the question of whether to permit the highway patrol to fine illegal parkers $10 and whether to permit illegally parked cars to be towed away.

Most of the argument was about Jackson residents who use state parking facilities for private parking.

After the arguments, the only change was a reduction of the $10 fine to $1. The tow-away provision remained.

Coleman signed his third bill—the surtax—which he called a major revenue measure. It was the first revenue bill passed and signed during the session.

The surtax, effective from July 1, 1956 until June 30, 1958, produces seven million dollars.

Enacted as an emergency tax measure, the surtax apparently is here to stay. Coleman predicted "no chance of reducing or eliminating) the tax any time soon."

He declined to say whether he would eliminate the tax (as the law permits) this year despite the state's prospect of having a 10 million-dollar surplus at the end of the biennium.

The tax bill kept the Legislature in a turmoil for two months during the 1955 session but it passed 112-10 after 45 minutes in the House and 36-13 after an hour in the Senate.

The House passed and sent to the Senate four more bills aimed at keeping segregation.

The bills were referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee which is studying six other segregation bills.

All segregation measures zipped through the House with no opposition and the only discussion coming on technicalities of wording. No one questioned the intent of the bills.

Equally overwhelming passage is expected in the Senate.

One of the most hilarious House sessions came during debate over whether to outlaw or to limit to two the number of cases of beer residents of dry counties may possess.

Under present law there is no limit. Coleman asked the Legislature for the two-case limit so sheriffs in dry counties could get convictions against bootleggers without catching them in the act of sale.

Temperance Committee Chairman Ney Gore of Quitman called upon the House to "vote dry on this bill and let these dry counties get as dry as Pharoah's tomb."

Gore was joined by other normal "wets" and they voted 92-20 to dry up the 53 counties prohibiting sale of beer.

For the drys, it was an unexpected help.

The entire state is legally dry for whisky sales or possession.

Rep. Upton Sisson of Harrison County, where liquor is sold openly, injected a note of hilarity in the discussion by calling for a 200-case limit.

"No one could have a half-way decent party on two cases of beer," he told a laughing House which shouted down his amendment.

The Senate approved a revenue bill and expanded it to produce about $300,000 more than Coleman had anticipated.

He had asked for a boost in insurance premiums to produce $780,000.

The Senate amended the bill to eliminate deductions of dividends before determining the total taxable premiums.

The bill, now in the House Insurance Committee, permits benevolent, fraternal, and agricultural groups to deduct dividends if they write insurance for members only.

Northwestern Plans Fourth Entrance

NATCHITOCHES, Feb. 4 (Special) — Northwestern State College will have a fourth entrance to the campus this summer. As part of a recently - awarded construction contract, a road will be built from NSC's Sibley Dr passing in front of Many Hall connecting with College avenue part of Louisiana Highway 6, the northwest side of the college campus.

In addition to providing another entrance, the project calls for blacktopping of about 14 parking areas over the campus area. To be located near NSC buildings, the parking areas will greatly alleviate what has increasingly become a serious problem here; that is the placement of student and faculty automobiles during the day.

The new road, which will provide one of the most scenic drives onto the campus, will also give athletic fans from Many and other nearby towns a direct route to the NSC gymnasium and stadium for football and basketball contests.

Contractor for the new project is K&M Construction company of Natchitoches, who was low bidder on the job with a bid of $75,815.40 Pat Minturn, foreman for the company, said preliminary work on the job should begin around March 1. It is hoped the road will be completed by graduation night, scheduled for May 29.

AFL-CIO Council To Meet

Top Union Leaders' Rift Over Racial Amendment On Schools To Be Aired

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 4 (AP)—A rift among top union leaders over a racial amendment to school aid legislation is due to be aired at AFL-CIO Executive Council sessions opening here Monday.

The issue could be one of the hottest to develop at the first meeting of the 29-member policy-making council to be held since the big AFL-CIO merger last December. The council has two negro members.

The council, headed by AFL-CIO President George Meany, also is expected to chart political plans for the important 1956 election year, to clarify state and national legislative strategy, and to tee off on an ambitious new labor organizing drive.

Differences of opinion on school aid legislation in Congress appear to have pitted Meany on one side and Walter Reuther, former chief of the CIO, on the other.

Both are strongly in favor of generous federal aid for the nation's schools and both are firmly opposed to segregation of races in schools.

Their differences arise over the amendment which Rep. Powell (D-NY) is insisting on attaching to any federal school aid legislation passed by Congress this session. His amendment would bar such funds to any segregated school district.

AFL-CIO legislative representatives are urging members of Congress to vote against the Powell amendment on grounds that, although its objectives are considered desirable, such a provision would amount to "a kiss of death" for school aid.

AFL-CIO national headquarters, over which Meany presides, feels that no school aid bill with an antisegregation rider can get through Congress. The idea is to concentrate on getting school aid passed and fight out the segregation issue later.

This view is reportedly backed by AFL attorneys in belief that, in any case, the federal government could not distribute its funds to help support segregated schools when the Supreme Court has held it to be unconstitutional for state funds to be so spent.

However, Clarence Mitchell, Washington director of the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People, said recently that five states with segregated schools, presently receive over 75 million dollars a year school aid. He said federal agencies refuse to stop it, despite the Supreme Court decision.

Reuther issued a formal statement last week saying that until it is clear such an amendment as Powell's is not needed to prevent allocation of federal school aid to segregated schools he will urge "legislation providing specific safeguards."

Reuther said his stand conforms with a resolution adopted by the convention at which the AFL and CIO merged.

Meany has said Congress should adopt a school aid program involving four times as much expenditure as President Eisenhower has proposed. Eisenhower called for spending 250 million dollars a year for five years to help localities to build schools. Meany called for a billion-dollar outlay for each of five years to aid such construction and also boost teacher salaries.

Two Marines Die After Bailing Out Of Burning Plane

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 4—UP—Four Marines ditched their flaming "flying boxcar" over the Atlantic Ocean Saturday but two died enmeshed in their parachute harness in turbulent seas.

"It's a miracle even two were saved," a Navy official said. "They apparently parachuted when they were just a few hundred feet above the water."

Capt. Robert W. Anderson, 31, of West Palm Beach, who was piloting the Miami-based plane and one of the two survivors, said the craft caught fire above five miles out from Miami Beach. He said they fought the blaze until they were opposite Ft. Lauderdale, about 40 miles to the north.

"We just couldn't put it out," he said. "The plane lost altitude from 1,500 to 800 feet and I ordered everybody out."

Two Navy destroyer escorts which happened to be in the area picked up the four men about one hour after they ditched the burning plane. One was dead when picked up and another died in a hospital a few hours later — both victims of their own parachute rigging.

Rescuers said the victims could not stay afloat and apparently couldn't free themselves from their parachutes.

Nixon In Center Of Bitter Dispute On Return To U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 —UP— Vice President Richard M. Nixon returned from a South American mission Saturday to find himself the central figure of a bitter political controversy harking back to the 1954 congressional elections.

But Nixon refused to enter the fray. He snapped a crisp "no comment" when reporters asked him what he thought of former President Harry S. Truman's remark that he gets fighting mad when he recalls that Nixon branded him a "traitor" during the 1954 campaign.

Newsmen asked Nixon about Mr. Truman's statement when the Vice President arrived from Rio de Janeiro where he attended the inauguration of Brazil's new president, Juscelino Kubitschek.

Nixon cut off the questioning with this terse reply: "I have no comment on anything Mr. Truman said."

Mr. Truman, speaker Sam Rayburn, and other long time leaders of the Democratic party claim Nixon and some other Republicans impugned their patriotism, honor, and loyalty during his political speeches in 1954.

Some Republicans charged the Democrats with "20 years of treason" during that campaign. The Republican national committee has insisted that a check of Nixon's speeches shows he never called Mr. Truman a traitor.

Nixon has adopted a strategy of remaining aloof from political battles until President Eisenhower reveals whether he will seek re-election. Mr. Eisenhower has hinted that if he runs, he will want Nixon as his running mate again. If the President decides not to seek a second term, Nixon is expected to contend for the nomination.

For this reason, Nixon's close supporters are carrying out a quiet campaign to keep him in the non-political limelight with a more strenuous schedule of speeches and personal appearances. The Latin American mission was not designed for that purpose but fitted into the pattern nevertheless.

Nixon, who talked to newsmen in a freezing rain at national airport, said Brazil is "a major target" for Communist infiltration but her leaders are "aware of the danger" and "will take appropriate steps."

OPENS CAMPAIGN—Adlai Stevenson, center, arrives in Sacramento to open his California campaign for Democratic presidential nomination. Pro-Segregation Rally Scheduled To Hear Eastland

MOTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 4 (AP)—With interest whipped high by the continuing Negro boycott of City Lines buses, a capacity crowd is expected for a White Citizens' Council rally next week.

Speaker for the meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, will be U. S. Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss), outspoken foe of desegregation.

The rally will be held at Montgomery's State Agricultural Coliseum.

Luther Ingalls, Montgomery attorney and chairman of the council committee handling arrangements for the rally, said:

"We fully expect to fill the Coliseum to its capacity. We've heard from people throughout the state, and all indications are that a tremendous crowd is going to turn out to hear Senator Eastland's address."

The Coliseum seats approximately 9,000.

Eastland, in the U. S. Senate since 1941, is chairman of the Internal Security subcommittee of the Internal Security subcommittee of the Senate's Judiciary Committee. This group is charged with continuous investigation of Communist conspiracy and isms operations in the United States.

The senator also is on the advisory committee of the Federation for Constitutional Government, an organization dedicated to resisting encroachments of the federal government on states rights.

The Central Alabama Citizens' Council, sponsor of the event, lists 12,000 supporters in its organization. The council is one of a number in the South whose express aim is to preserve segregation legally and by peaceful means.

Membership in the Montgomery council has increased from approximately 100 three months ago, gaining impetus since the bus boycott began last Dec. 5.

The boycott was called after a Negro woman, Rosa Parks, was arrested for violation of the state segregation law in refusing to obey a bus driver's request that she move to the rear of the bus.

She was later convicted and fined $14 in city court. The case has been appealed to Montgomery Circuit Court.

Farm Price Index Remains Unchanged

ALEXANDRIA, La., Feb. 4 (AP) — The mid-January index of farm prices in Louisiana remained unchanged from a month before.

The Louisiana Crop Reporting Service said the index stood at 232 per cent of its 1909-14 base.

The all-commodity index was six per cent or 14 points, below January, 1955.

The crop reporting service said gains over a month ago in prices received by farmers for cotton, cottonseed, soybeans, hay, beef cattle, calves, milk cows and wool were offset by losses in rice, sweetpotatoes, hogs, milk, butterfat, farm chickens and eggs.

The index of prices received by farmers over the United States rose one per cent (three points) during the month ending in mid-January.

The crop reporting service said higher prices for meat animals, tender vegetables, strawberries and potatoes were mainly responsible for the national rise. The national index, at 226 per cent of its 1919-14 average was seven per cent below a year ago.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 —UP—Vice President Richard M. Nixon returned from a South American mission Saturday to find himself the central figure of a bitter political controversy harking back to the 1954 congressional elections.

But Nixon refused to enter the fray. He snapped a crisp "no comment" when reporters asked him what he thought of former President Harry S. Truman's remark that he gets fighting mad when he recalls that Nixon branded him a "traitor" during the 1954 campaign.

Newsmen asked Nixon about Mr. Truman's statement when the Vice President arrived from Rio de Janeiro where he attended the inauguration of Brazil's new president, Juscelino Kubitschek.

Nixon cut off the questioning with this terse reply: "I have no comment on anything Mr. Truman said."

Mr. Truman, speaker Sam Rayburn, and other long time leaders of the Democratic party claim Nixon and some other Republicans impugned their patriotism, honor, and loyalty during his political speeches in 1954.

Some Republicans charged the Democrats with "20 years of treason" during that campaign. The Republican national committee has insisted that a check of Nixon's speeches shows he never called Mr. Truman a traitor.

Nixon has adopted a strategy of remaining aloof from political battles until President Eisenhower reveals whether he will seek reelection. Mr. Eisenhower has hinted that if he runs, he will want Nixon as his running mate again. If the President decides not to seek a second term, Nixon is expected to contend for the nomination.

For this reason, Nixon's close supporters are carrying out a quiet campaign to keep him in the non-political limelight with a more strenuous schedule of speeches and personal appearances. The Latin American mission was not designed for that purpose but fitted into the pattern nevertheless.

Nixon, who talked to newsmen in a freezing rain at national airport, said Brazil is "a major target" for Communist infiltration but her leaders are "aware of the danger" and "will take appropriate steps."

Upp To Succeed Efferson At LSU

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 4 (AP) — The Louisiana State University board of supervisors today chose Dr. Charles W. Upp to succeed Dr. J. Norman Efferson as director of the LSU agricultural experiment station.

Efferson will take over as dean of the college of agriculture July 1 when Dean J. G. Lee retires.

Upp, former head of the poultry industry department, took over his present post as director of resident instruction last June. He has been at LSU since 1928.

A graduate of Oklahoma A&M, Upp received his doctor's degree at Iowa State College. He is a past president of the American Poultry Science Association and has been director of the Louisiana Poultry Improvement Association since 1935.

Farm Price Index Remains Unchanged

ALEXANDRIA, La., Feb. 4 (AP) — The mid-January index of farm prices in Louisiana remained unchanged from a month before.

The Louisiana Crop Reporting Service said the index stood at 232 per cent of its 1909-14 base.

The all-commodity index was six per cent or 14 points, below January, 1955.

The crop reporting service said gains over a month ago in prices received by farmers for cotton, cottonseed, soybeans, hay, beef cattle, calves, milk cows and wool were offset by losses in rice, sweetpotatoes, hogs, milk, butterfat, farm chickens and eggs.

The index of prices received by farmers over the United States rose one per cent (three points) during the month ending in mid-January.

The crop reporting service said higher prices for meat animals, tender vegetables, strawberries and potatoes were mainly responsible for the national rise. The national index, at 226 per cent of its 1919-14 average was seven per cent below a year ago.

Pro-Segregation Rally Scheduled To Hear Eastland

MOTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 4 (AP) —With interest whipped high by the continuing Negro boycott of City Lines buses, a cpacity crowd is expected for a White Citizens' Council rally next week.

Speaker for the meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Thursday, will be U. S. Sen. James Eastland (D-Miss), outspoken foe of desegregation.

The rally will be held at Montgomery's State Agricultural Coliseum.

Luther Ingalls, Montgomery attorney and chairman of the council committee handling arrangements for the rally, said:

"We fully expect to fill the Coliseum to its capacity. We've heard from people throughout the state, and all indications are that a tremendous crowd is going to turn out to hear Senator Eastland's address."

The Coliseum seats approximately 9,000.

Eastland, in the U. S. Senate since 1941, is chairman of the Internal Security subcommittee of the Internal Security subcommittee of the Senate's Judiciary Committee. This group is charged with continuous investigation of Communist conspiracy and isms operations in the United States.

The senator also is on the advisory committee of the Federation for Constitutional Government, an organization dedicated to resisting encroachments of the federal government on states rights.

The Central Alabama Citizens' Council, sponsor of the event, lists 12,000 supporters in its organization. The council is one of a number in the South whose express aim is to preserve segregation legally and by peaceful means.

Membership in the Montgomery council has increased from approximately 100 three months ago, gaining impetus since the bus boycott began last Dec. 5.

The boycott was called after a Negro woman, Rosa Parks, was arrested for violation of the state segregation law in refusing to obey a bus driver's request that she move to the rear of the bus.

She was later convicted and fined $14 in city court. The case has been appealed to Montgomery Circuit Court.

Two Marines Die After Bailing Out Of Burning Plane

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 4—UP—Four Marines ditched their flaming "flying boxcar" over the Atlantic Ocean Saturday but two died enmeshed in their parachute harness in turbulent seas.

"It's a miracle even two were saved," a Navy official said. "They apparently parachuted when they were just a few hundred feet above the water."

Capt. Robert W. Anderson, 31, of West Palm Beach, who was piloting the Miami-based plane and one of the two survivors, said the craft caught fire above five miles out from Miami Beach. He said they fought the blaze until they were opposite Ft. Lauderdale, about 40 miles to the north.

"We just couldn't put it out," he said. "The plane lost altitude from 1,500 to 800 feet and I ordered everybody out."

Two Navy destroyer escorts which happened to be in the area picked up the four men about one hour after they ditched the burning plane. One was dead when picked up and another died in a hospital a few hours later — both victims of their own parachute rigging.

Rescuers said the victims could not stay afloat and apparently couldn't free themselves from their parachutes.

Bus Passengers Hospitalized For Crash Injuries

CLAREMORE, Okla., Feb. 4—UP—Two Greyhound bus passengers were hospitalized here Saturday after the bus in which they were riding collided with a semi-trailer truck on ice-coated U.S. 66 near here.

Injured were Clifford LoMontague, 26, Fort Worth, and Patricia Noweeky, 15, Chicago, Ill. Miss Noweeky suffered a broken leg and LoMontague sustained only minor injuries.

Highway Trooper Owne Strain said the truck, driven by William Lee Wolf, Neosho, Mo., skidded on the icy pavement towards the oncoming bus. The truck missed the bus, but as the bus swung around it hit the rear of the truck, he said.

Earnest Lavee Slaton, 44, Fort Worth, driver of the bus, said 26 passengers were aboard when the accident occurred.

Quarles Indicates

explosive would almost certainly have to be carrying a hydrogen bomb, military observers at the conference said.

They pointed out that American and British bombers dropped 2.7 million tons of TNT on German forces alone in World War II. The largest atomic bomb that has been publicly touted that is equal to "only" 500,000 tons of TNT.

In what could be an answer to expressed congressional fears about Russian military progress, he said the U. S. Air Force "is superior to that of any other nation."

He told of new bombers, supersonic fighters and missiles going into service. And he added that "we have good reason to expect that the air power I have described will continue to be an effective deterrent" to aggression.

Quarles told a "jet age" conference of top government and civil aviation leaders that the United States has forces to meet "global or limited" attack.

"Today a single bomber, or a missile, or even a fighter-bomber can deliver on a target as much explosive force as all the World War II bombers combined," he said.

"I do not believe that we will ever again have to employ our air power and weapons as we did in Korea. If we are again forced into armed combat we will use the weapons most appropriate to targets and missions.

"It must be clear to any aggressor that he can expect to be opposed with the kind of weapons necessary to make his aggression both painful and unprofitable."

The university news bureau said that the demonstration was triggered by burning of a small cross on fraternity row last night in the middle of University Ave.

The crowd, drawn by the fiery cross, broke from a handful to several hundred in a matter of minutes, and soon swelled to over 1,000 students gathered.

The throng of yelling, singing men finally swept to the home of Dr. O. C. Carmichael, university president.

Olla-Jena Road Reported Closed

ALEXANDRIA, La., Feb. 4 (UP)—State highway 127 between Jena and Olla was closed today by order of state police due to flooding conditions brought on by rain of heavy rains in the area.

Police said a two-inch rain last night caused the high water and the road was closed late last night. It remained closed today and officers said rain was still falling in the area in scattered showers today.

A detour was provided but state troopers said they were unable to determine when the section along route 127 would be re-opened due to the continuing rainfall.

agricultural attache in Japan late in 1954 on grounds he was a security risk. This action was based on his connections in the 1930s with the Russian Amtorg Trading Co. and because he has two sisters still living in Russia.

William J. Caldwell, ICA director of information, told a press conference that while Ladejinsky's connection with the Formosa company did not violate U. S. laws, it was not in accordance with Formosa laws.

The International Cooperation Administration called a news conference to announce the resignation of Ladejinsky as a foreign aid specialist in Viet Nam. It acted after the writer of a weekly Washington farm news letter broke the story that Ladejinsky had quit, by request.

The newsletter said that Ladejinsky quit because his business dealings violated government regulations not because of security charges.

Ladejinsky became the center of a major political controversy late in 1954 when the Agriculture Department labeled him a risk and fired him as the U. S. agricultural attache in Tokyo.

Then the administration changed its mind. The International Cooperation Administration, a U. S. agency, gave Ladejinsky security clearance, hired him and sent him to Viet Nam. Later Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson apologized for the security label and fully cleared Ladejinsky.

The Agriculture Department had said it considered Ladejinsky a security risk because he worked for the Russian Amtorg Trading Co. in New York in the early 1930's and because he had two sisters still living in Russia when he said he had not heard from in more than seven years.

ing, though weather forecasters expected it to start breaking in far West Texas Saturday night. Amarillo, the largest city in the Panhandle, reported 16 inches of snow. Many roads were blocked and travel on nearly all was extremely hazardous.

A Clear Santa Fe passenger train en route from Lubbock, Tex., to Clovis, N. M., stalled in a snowbank near Lariat, Tex., just east of the New Mexico line. It managed to break through after a 30 minute delay and continue.

At Lubbock, which had a record 11 inch snowfall, two milkmen serving outlying areas had not been heard from for two days but authorities believed they may have taken shelter at a farmhouse.

Nearly all of the deaths were caused by fires or by motorists turning over or skidding off icy roads. But there was the extraordinary case for this part of the country, of a man dying of a heart attack while shoveling snow.

There also was the case of Larry Gonzales, 16, of Fort Worth, who slid down a hill on a sled into an automobile. Families left gas stoves burning all night and one 93-year-old man and his 81-year-old wife died when a stove burned all the oxygen out of the air of their bedroom.

At Hereford, Tex., in the western Panhandle, 30 miles from the New Mexico line, two feet of snow was reported. Some drifts were eight to 10 feet deep and farmers and ranchers were beginning to call in and report shortages of food and butane gas.

One farmer living west of Hereford telephoned in to say that he had enough fuel and food to last him and his family until Sunday morning and might try to break through the snow with his tractor.

At Amarilo, a theif stole C. E. Carter's automobile from in front of his home, but lost it in the snow. Carter found it a block away, stuck in a drift. The temperature got down to an unofficial four degrees below zero at Alpine in the Guadalupe mountains of Far West Texas.

This is 350 miles south of Hereford. Temperatures of as low as zero were predicted for early Sunday from the Panhandle to El Paso, on the Mexican border. But as cruel as the storm was, it was worth uncalculated millions of dollars to farmers and ranchers.

Until mid-January, the state was caught in one of the worst drouths in its history and the area now covered by snow was in danger of being blown away in dustorms. Now wheat farmers and ranchers were rejoicing.

Five Autos Involved In Mishap

Five vehicles were involved in a highway accident about 1 p.m. Saturday on Cypress street, West Monroe, but only one person was reported injured, according to West Monroe city police.

Q. T. Hollis, 38, of Wellerman Road, West Monroe, was taken by Hall Funeral Home ambulance to the St. Francis Hospital where he was treated for a possible fractured knee, police said.

The accident occurred when, according to police, a pickup truck going east on Cypress near Bell Lane stopped for a city bus and another pickup coming from behind whipped left to avoid the first and stopped partly in the ditch. An automobile traveling west stopped because of the second pickup being on the wrong side of the road, and a second car headed west struck the first car from behind. A third pickup truck, also going west on Cypress, ploughed into the car in front of it.

Hollis was the driver of the third pickup truck.

Damages ran well over $100, police said.

West Monroe Police Officer Bill Pace investigated the multiple - vehicle accident.

Suspect Wanted In Murder Case Here Surrenders

Johnny Williams, 39-year-old Monroe Negro charged with murder in the December 16 pistol-slaying of Julius Jones, Negro, surrendered to sheriff authorities at Marianna, Ark., yesterday according to Chief of Detectives Hugh Tolbert.

Tolbert stated that Williams had been a fugitive from justice shortly after the killing took place at Geno's Bar at 900 Oak street on the night of December 16.

The murder weapon, a large caliber pistol, is thought to be in the possession of Williams, Tolbert stated.

A dispatch sent out to towns surrounding the Marianna, Ark., area by the Monroe Detective Bureau warned that Williams was "armed and dangerous."

Yesterday he meekly gave himself up to Marianna authorities.

Chief Tolbert stated that Williams had signed a waiver of extradition and will be returned for prosecution.

Ouachita Valley Scouts Join With Others In 46th Anniversary Observance

Boy Scouts of the Ouachita Valley Council, 4,032 strong, will celebrate the 46th anniversary of the national organization during Boy Scout Week beginning Monday.

National officials in Washington, D.C., many governors at their state capitals and heads of local communities throughout the nation will help the four million scouts launch their four-year program known as "Onward for God and My Country." Ceremonies noting its beginning will be held around the nation during the coming week.

Scout advancement in the Ouachita Valley Council during 1955 was much better than it was in 1954, according to J. W. Webster, chairman of the advancement committee.

Webster reported, "All districts are holding Courts of Honor, both on a unit and a district level. Each unit has the privilege of holding its own Court of Honor or participating in a District Court of Honor.

"Boards of Review are held regularly by most of the units. All Boards of Review are held on a unit level. These are held as a part of the regular business of a troop committee meeting."

The Scouts are divided into three progressive areas of group work: Cub Scouts, ages 8, 9 and 10; Boy Scouts, ages 11, 12 and 13; and Explorers, 14 years old and up.

Webster, in his report, pointed out that "Cub Scout advancement has also proceeded better than it did last year. All packs are sending in regular advancement reports with an increasing number of awards."

Van Odom, chairman of the leadership training committee, said in his year end report that "During 1955 Leadership training made great strides forward throughout the Council. More training courses were held and more people participated than in any previous year. With the goal in mind of reaching more people, most courses have been held on a local or district basis."

Odom, who is superintendent of Monroe city schools, also stated in his committee report that "Cub Basic courses were held as well as a large number of Den Chief attendance at the Den Mothers courses was very high. A Cub pow-wow was held with all attendence of 31 Cub leaders.

"Boy Scout Leaders basic training has been held throughout the Council with good attendance. Some districts have organized coaching teams to train Scout leaders who are not able to attend regular training courses. A large number of new unit leaders have completed basic training during the year."

Other programs of training also carried out during 1955 included, according to his report: "Commissioners Formal training courses were held in three districts and were well received. Informal sessions were held in all districts for Commissioners. Regular roundtables covering the three phases of Scouting are being held in most districts on a monthly basis."

The Ouachita Valley Council is made up of seven districts, headed by the following executives: Herb McCoggins, Central district; Jim Simpson, Northwest and Southwest districts; Charles Horne Midland and Southeast districts; and Tom Lewis, Eastern and Northern districts.

Jack Pankey, whose office is in the Ouachita parish courthouse, is Scout executive over the entire Council, which at the end of 1955 counted its population at 4,032 Scouts. On December 31, 1954, there were 3,340 Scouts in the Council.

Nuclear Scientist Will Be Speaker At Meeting Here

Dr. Ralph T. Overman of the Oak Ridge (Tenn.) Institute of Nuclear Studies will be guest speaker at a conference on the Northeast State campus on February 13. The meeting is scheduled at 7 p.m. in the president's home, where he will address scientists throughout this region.

An additional talk by the scientist has been set for 9:50 a.m. in Brown Auditorium when he will speak to students, faculty and staff. The public is invited to the meeting.

Dr. Overman is a four lecturer for the South Arkansas Section of the American Chemical Society, and is chairman of the special training section of nuclear studies at Oak Ridge.

The following year he joined the staff of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory as senior research chemist in charge of radiochemical measurements and standardization. He also assisted in setting up the program for production of radioisotopes in the uranium chain-reacting pile present there for distribution to research groups throughout the country.

Dr. Overman became chairman of the Special Training Division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies in 1948. This has resulted in over 2000 mature research workers being trained in techniques of using radioisotopes in research under his direction during the past seven years.

The scientist is a charter member of the American Nuclear Society, and he is active in the American Chemical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Radiation Research Society and the Tennessee Academy of Science. He has served as a member of the subcommittee on radio-chemistry of the National Research Council's Committee on Nuclear Science, and has been elected to membership in numerous national honorary scientific fraternities.

Dr. Overman is listed in the current edition of "American Men of Science," "Who's Who in Chemistry," "Who Knows—What!" and "Leaders in American Science."

chairman of the board, and B. G. Lindsey, now company treasurer. Morgan relinquished active work in the organization about five years ago, but continued on as president. At this time, E. E. Latham became executive vice president of the company. Upon Morgan's death in September, 1955, Latham was made president by votes of the board members.

Morgan was well known in business circles over a wide area of the South. He was once president of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

W. R. Stevenson, store superintendent, has jurisdiction over 19 stores spread over an area all the way across north Louisiana and in South Arkansas.

I. C. Davis, assistant convention leader, is vice president of the company and general supervisor for store operation.

Lee is rounding out six years as manager of the Monroe store. A native of Webster parish, he became manager here in February, 1950.

He said that Monroe is something of a "hub of Morgan Lindsey operations."

honor on Mr. Neville. Yesterday in the Country club at the annual George Washington dinner, this esteemed educator was amazed to be awarded an honor from this group. He received a framed and formidable looking certificate designated as Reward of Merit to an Outstanding Citizen.

Initiated a year ago, this new annual award of the D. A. R. is to be given to specially deserving persons in Monroe. Last year Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitchell were so honored and also Mrs. C. E. Faulk, three persons in this instance being recognized.

We congratulate Mr. Neville, he, whom all honor, must indeed be unusually deserving, and the fine school system of the City of Monroe and the towering Neville High school attest the worth of an unusually esteemed and capable educator. We doubt if his record can be duplicated anywhere else in the state.

Besides the award to Mr. Neville, a similar one was also bestowed upon George Madison, one of the best known and most highly regarded residents of Bastrop, and for many years a member of the State Board of Education. He has also been named as one of the attorneys to aid in revising the Louisiana State Constitution.

He has an exceptionally brilliant war record serving overseas for a long period and emerging as Colonel.

His award was from the Abram Morehouse Chapter of the D.A.R. Incidentally he is a brother of H. Flood Madison, prominent local attorney.

Discussing basic elements of a news story, at a newspaper meeting held in Tallahassee, Fla., Dr. Sidney Kobre pointed out that unsolved social problems result in front page news of crime, divorce, alcoholism, old age, narcotics, housing and mental ill health are all resultant from unsolved problems.

"Crime news," he is quoted as saying, "may be singled out as an example. Instead of seeing the criminal as a bad character, the newsman and the public must see him as a product of social and economic environment."

The professor advocates publishing not only "spot" news but also the background causes for it and the means of treatment to apply.

Newcomers to Monroe are the family of Fred Doolittle, his wife, two daughters and small son. They come from Missouri where Mr. Doolittle was pastor of a church. Here he will assume duties as pastor of the Emmanual Baptist church at Breard and North Fifth streets.

His oldest daughter, Karen, is in junior high; a younger daughter is in the fifth grade at school and the son is only five months old.

A higher diplomatic honor has come to Seymour Glazer, brilliant Monroe young man who has been elevated to the rank of consul at Genoa, Italy with the U. S. State department. Formerly he served there as vice - consul. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Glazer of Monroe.

Mr. Glazer served on the Newsweek staff, prior to entering state department employment. He served three years in the Navy and was educated at Monroe's Junior college (before it became Northeast Louisiana State) and at Louisiana State university, where he received the B. A. degree.

Edgewood Baptist Church is to have a big time today for it is now seven years of age and the Rev. A. 1. New, district missionary for the Baptist church, will be the guest speaker.

This church was organized February 6, 1949 in Millsaps school, with 29 charter members. Later the church purchased a site at 501 Travis street in West Monroe. Today this church is proud of its well established plant which includes perhaps the most modern nursery that any church hereabouts possesses, while another nearby dwelling has been secured and now serves as an adult Sunday school building. Plans are being completed for the erection of a permanent building that will care for 1,000 in Sunday School.

The Sunday school now has enrolled between 400 and 500 members and the church budget totals for the current year more than $20,000.

Edgewood Products will be the first plant to locate in the area.

Ouachita Industries is owned by local stockholders who are interested in providing sites to locate new industry. The organization is not intended as a profit-making enterprise.

Five Autos Involved In Mishap

Five vehicles were involved in a highway accident about 1 p.m. Saturday on Cypress street, West Monroe, but only one person was reported injured, according to West Monroe city police.

Q. T. Hollis, 38, of Wellerman Road, West Monroe, was taken by Hall Funeral Home ambulance to the St. Francis Hospital where he was treated for a possible fractured knee, police said.

The accident occurred when, according to police, a pickup truck going east on Cypress near Bell Lane stopped for a city bus and another pickup coming from behind whipped left to avoid the first and stopped partly in the ditch. An automobile traveling west stopped because of the second pickup being on the wrong side of the road, and a second car headed west struck the first car from behind. A third pickup truck, also going west on Cypress, ploughed into the car in front of it.

Hollis was the driver of the third pick'p truck.

Damages ran well over $100, police said.

West Monroe Police Officer Bill Pace investigated the multiple - vehicle accident.

Suspect Wanted In Murder Case Here Surrender

Johnny Williams, 39-year-old Monroe Negro charged with murder in the December 16 pistol-slaying of Julius Jones, Negro, surrendered to sheriff authorities at Marianna, Ark., yesterday according to Chief of Detectives Hugh Tolbert.

Tolbert stated that Williams had been a fugitive from justice shortly after the killing took place at Gene's Bar at 900 Oak street on the night of December 16.

The murder weapon, a large caliber pistol, is thought to be in the possession of Williams, Tolbert stated.

A dispatch sent out to towns surrounding the Marianna, Ark., area by the Monroe Detective Bureau warned that Williams was "armed and dangerous."

Yesterday he meekly gave himself up to Marianna authorities.

Chief Tolbert stated that Williams had signed a waiver of extradition and will be returned for prosecution.

Ouachita Valley Scouts Join With Others In 46th Anniversary Observance

Boy Scouts of the Ouachita Valley Council, 4,032 strong, will celebrate the 46th anniversary of the national organization during Boy Scout Week beginning Monday.

National officials in Washington, D.C., many governors at their state capitals and heads of local communities throughout the nation will help the four million scouts launch their four-year program known as "Onward for God and My Country." Ceremonies noting its beginning will be held around the nation during the coming week.

Scout advancement in the Ouachita Valley Council during 1955 was much better than it was in 1954, according to J. W. Webster, chairman of the advancement committee.

Webster reported, "All districts are holding Courts of Honor, both on a unit and a district level. Each unit has the privilege of holding its own Court of Honor or participating in a District Court of Honor.

"Boards of Review are held regularly by most of the units. All Boards of Review are held on a unit level. These are held as a part of the regular business of a troop committee meeting."

The Scouts are divided into three progressive areas of group work: Cub Scouts, ages 8, 9 and 10; Boy Scouts, ages 11, 12 and 13; and Explorers, 14 years old and up.

Webster, in his report, pointed out that "Cub Scout advancement has also proceeded better than it did last year. All packs are sending in regular advancement reports with an increasing number of awards."

Van Odom, chairman of the leadership training committee, said in his year end report that "During 1955 Leadership training made great strides forward throughout the Council. More training courses were held and more people participated than in any previous year. With the goal in mind of reaching more people, most courses have been held on a local or district basis."

Odom, who is superintendent of Monroe city schools, also stated in his committee report that "Cub Basic courses were held as well as a large number of Den erge attendance at the Den Mothers courses was very high. A Cub pow-wow was held with all attandence of 31 Cub leaders.

"Boy Scout Leaders basic training has been held throughout the Council with good attendance. Some districts have organized coaching teams to train Scout leaders who are not able to attend regular training courses. A large number of new unit leaders have completed basic training during the year."

Other programs of training also carried out during 1955 included, according to his report: "Commissioners Formal training courses were held in three districts and were well received. Informal sessions were held in all districts for Commissioners. Regular roundtables covering the three phases of Scouting are being held in most districts on a monthly basis."

The Ouachita Valley Council is made up of seven districts, headed by the following executives: Herb McCoggins, Central district; Jim Simpson, Northwest and Southwest districts; Charles Horne Midland and Southeast districts; and Tom Lewis, Eastern and Northern districts.

Jack Pankey, whose office is in the Ouachita parish courthouse, is Scout executive over the entire Council, which at the end of 1955 counted its population at 4,032 Scouts. On December 31, 1954, there were 3,340 Scouts in the Council.

Nuclear Scientist Will Be Speaker At Meeting Here

Dr. Ralph T. Overman of the Oak Ridge (Tenn.) Institute of Nuclear Studies will be guest speaker at a conference on the Northeast State campus on February 13. The meeting is scheduled at 7 p.m. in the president's home, where he will address scientists throughout this region.

An additional talk by the scientist has been set for 9:50 a.m. in Brown Auditorium when he will speak to students, faculty and staff. The public is invited to the meeting.

Dr. Overman is a tour lecturer for the South Arkansas Section of the American Chemical Society, and is chairman of the special training section of nuclear studies at Oak Ridge.

Chemists and engineers from chemical plants, refineries and colleges in the area will hear the speaker in an illustrated lecture on "Chemical Problems and Nuclear Reactors." His address will follow an informal dinner in the college president's home.

Dr. Overman received the bachelor's degree from Kansas State Teachers College, where he also completed graduate study for the master's. He earned the doctorate at Louisiana State University, where he taught after graduation.

In Oak Ridge, he served in 1944 as superintendent of the thermal diffusion plant for the separation of uranium isotopes. The following year he joined the staff of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory as senior research chemist in charge of radiochemical measurements and standardization. He also assisted in setting up the program for production of radioisotopes in the uranium chain-reacting pile present there for distribution to research groups throughout the country.

Dr. Overman became chairman of the Special Training Division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies in 1948. This has resulted in over 2000 mature research workers being trained in techniques of using radioisotopes in research under his direction during the past seven years.

The scientist is a charter member of the American Nuclear Society, and he is active in the American Chemical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Radiation Research Society and the Tennessee Academy of Science. He has served as a member of the subcommittee on radio-chemistry of the National Research Council's Committee on Nuclear Science, and has been elected to membership in numerous national honorary scientific fraternities.

Dr. Overman is listed in the current edition of "American Men of Science," "Who's Who in Chemistry," "Who Knows—What!" and "Leaders in American Science."

chairman of the board, and B. G. Lindsey, now company treasurer. Morgan relinquished active work in the organization about five years ago, but continued on as president. At this time, E. E. Latham became executive vice president of the company. Upon Morgan's death in September, 1955, Latham was made president by votes of the board members.

Morgan was well known in business circles over a wide area of the South. He was once president of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

W. R. Stevenson, store superintendent, has jurisdiction over 19 stores spread over an area all the way across north Louisiana and in South Arkansas.

I. C. Davis, assistant convention leader, is vice president of the company and general supervisor for store operation.

Lee is rounding out six years as manager of the Monroe store. A native of Webster parish, he became manager here in February, 1950.

He said that Monroe is something of a "hub of Morgan Lindsey operations."

honor on Mr. Neville. Yesterday in the Country club at the annual George Washington dinner, this esteemed educator was amazed to be awarded an honor from this group. He received a framed and formidable looking certificate designated as Reward of Merit to an Outstanding Citizen.

Initiated a year ago, this new annual award of the D. A. R. is to be given to specially deserving persons in Monroe. Last year Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitchell were so honored and also Mrs. C. E. Faulk, three persons in this instance being recognized.

We congratulate Mr. Neville, he, whom all honor, must indeed be unusually deserving, and the fine school system of the City of Monroe and the towering Neville High school attest the worth of an unusually esteemed and capable educator. We doubt if his record can be duplicated anywhere else in the state.

Besides the award to Mr. Neville, a similar one was also bestowed upon George Madison, one of the best known and most highly regarded residents of Bastrop, and for many years a member of the State Board of Education. He has also been named as one of the attorneys to aid in revising the Louisiana State Constitution.

He has an exceptionally brilliant war record serving overseas for a long period and emerging as Colonel.

His award was from the Abram Morehouse Chapter of the D.A.R. Incidentally he is a brother of H. Flood Madison, prominent local attorney.

Discussing basic elements of a news story, at a newspaper meeting held in Tallahassee, Fla., Dr. Sidney Kobre pointed out that unsolved social problems result in front page news of crime, divorce, alcoholism, old age, narcotics, housing and mental ill health are all resultant from unsolved problems.

"Crime news," he is quoted as saying, "may be singled out as an example. Instead of seeing the criminal as a bad character, the newsman and the public must see him as a product of social and economic environment."

The professor advocates publishing not only "spot" news but also the background causes for it and the means of treatment to apply.

Newcomers to Monroe are the family of Fred Dootlittle, his wife, two daughters and small son. They come from Missouri where Mr. Doolittle was pastor of a church. Here he will assume duties as pastor of the Emmanual Baptist church at Breard and North Fifth streets.

His oldest daughter, Karen, is in junior high; a younger daughter is in the fifth grade at school and the son is only five months old.

A higher diplomatic honor has come to Seymour Glazer, brilliant Monroe young man who has been elevated to the rank of consul at Genoa, Italy with the U. S. State department. Formerly he served there as vice - consul. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Glazer of Monroe.

Mr. Glazer served on the Newsweek staff, prior to entering state department employment. He served three years in the Navy and was educated at Monroe's Junior college (before it became Northeast Louisiana State) and at Louisiana State university, where he received the B. A. degree.

Edgewood Baptist Church is to have a big time today for it is now seven years of age and the Rev. A. I. New, district missionary for the Baptist church, will be the guest speaker.

This church was organized February 6, 1949 in Millsaps school, with 29 charter members. Later the church purchased a site at 501 Travis street in West Monroe. Today this church is proud of its well established plant which includes perhaps the most modern nursery that any church hereabouts possesses, while another nearby dwelling has been secured and now serves as an adult Sunday school building. Plans are being completed for the erection of a permanent building that will care for 1,000 in Sunday School.

The Sunday school now has enrolled between 400 and 500 members and the church budget totals for the current year more than $20,000.

Ouachita Industries, Inc. owns 250 acres in the industrial tract which is being developed for the establishment of new industrial enterprises. Edgewood Products will be the first plant to locate in the area.

Ouachita Industries is owned by local stockholders who are interested in providing sites to locate new industry. The organization is not intended as a profit-making enterprise.

LaSalle Boys, Marion Girls Win West Monroe Meet

Farmerettes, Host Rebel Quint Lose In Final Contests

The LaSalle High boys of Olla and the Marion High girls emerged as champions of the inaugural West Monroe High School Invitational Basketball Tournament last night as the LaSalle Tigers tripped the Marion girls had polished off Farmerville in a Union parish girls' final, 52-28.

LaSalle's Kenneth Winberry, an all-state football player, and West Monroe's John Ann Painich, one of the area's outstanding girl basketball performers, were acclaimed "most valuable players" in their respective divisions of the tournament and were awarded trophies.

Winberry, who had been one of LaSalle's foremost scorers in earlier tourney games, was held to five points as Rebel guarding concentrated on him in the final, but Lynn Russell broke away to lead the Tiger scoring with 16 points. L. C. Crawford was West Monroe's leader with 11.

Andrews of Marion was a sensation under the nets in the championship final as she scorched the baskets for 38 points, more than enough to account for the victory singlehandedly. Holloway was high scorer for Farmerville with 28.

An all-tournament boys team was named as Redden, Farmerville; Brashier, Marion; Maroney, Ouachita; Winberry, LaSalle; and Huckabay, West Monroe.

Consolations were won by the Ouachita boys of Monroe and the West Monroe girls, the Lions tagging Downsville, 67-40, and the Rebel girls beating Bastrop, 54-30.

The Ouachita boys, upset by West Monroe in the semi-finals, 66-62, were paced by Dickie Crowe's 16 points against Downsville, while the Downsville quint was led by Guice's 12 points as the Lions kept Terral, usually the strong link in Downsville attack, bottled.

Rawls, Painich and Cotton accounted for all points for the West Monroe girls with 22, 19, and 13 respectively against Bastrop and the Reb girls threw up a good defense against Audry Cockrell, the Bastrop star, holding her to four points while McGough led the Morehouse sextet with ten.

In addition to the Rebel upset of Ouachita in the semi-finals, the other semi-windup games saw the LaSalle boys of Olla defeat Downsville, 50-43; the Farmerville girls nose out West Monroe, 42-41; and the Marion girls beat Bastrop, 43-35. Leading team scorers in the semi-finals were Jerry Sanders, West Monroe boys, 21; Bob Whitten, Ouachita, 18; Ken Winberry, LaSalle, 26; Patterson, Downsville, 13; John Ann Painich, West Monroe girls, 13; Holloway and Bridges, Farmerville, 17 and 16 respectively; Andrews and Upshaw, Marion, 21 each; and Cockrell and Horne, Bastrop, 16 and 15 respectively.

Loyola Tumbles To Dayton Quint In 82-62 Scrap

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4 (AP) — Dayton's speedy Flyers combined deadly marksmanship and a tight defense to defeat Loyola of the South 82-62 tonight and chalk up their 15th victory in 16 basketball games.

The Flyers, ranked second in the weekly Associated Press poll, had little trouble in handing Loyola its 12th loss of the season. Dayton hit on 48 per cent of its shots in the first half and posted a 45-26 lead at halftime.

Forward Jim Paxson led the smooth Dayton attack in the first half. He accounted for 14 points as the Flyers held a 10-point plus advantage over the outclasted Wolfpack and steadily mounted the margin.

Paxson and guard Arlen Bockhorn were Dayton's top point producers, each with 18. Loyola's Pete Gaudin connected for 22 points, 10 from the free throw line, to top the game's scorers.

The Flyers have been beaten only once, a 66-64 overtime loss to Louisville last week.

Longhorns Claim First Conference Win; Down Baylor

AUSTIN, Feb. 4—UP—The Texas Longhorns, led by record-breaking scorer Ray Downs' 32 points, won their first Southwest Conference victory of the season Saturday night, downing Baylor 80 to 73.

Downs' spree boosted his total for the year to 412 points, a record for any Longhorn in a single season. The previous mark was 401 points by John Hargis in 28 games during the 1947 season. Downs has played in only 17 games and has seven more to play.

But it was Norman Hooten, star Longhorn guard, who stole the show in the final minutes of the game. With a minute and three seconds left, Texas had only a two-point lead, 75 to 73. Hooten hit five straight free throws to put the game on ice.

The game was nip and tuck most of the way. The Bears led at the half 39 to 35 and the score was tied several times. At one time in the second half, the Bears had a 11-point margin, 64 to 53. The Longhorns rallied to tie it up at 69-all, again at 71 and again at 73-all before going ahead to stay.

Baylor, led by the 28 points of Louis Estes and 17 by Jerry Mallett, connected on 38 per cent of shots from the floor and 65 per cent at the free throw line. Texas hit 43 per cent from the floor, 76 from the free throw line.

In a freshman game, Baylor won 79-77 in double overtime.

Ron Delany Takes Wanamaker Mile With Easy Stride

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—UP—Skinny Ron Delany, the Irish wolfhound from Villanova College, took over with two laps to go and won the Wanamaker Mile by a 15-yard margin in 4:09.5 at the Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

With Wes Santee on the sidelines because of expense account difficulties, the Dublin-born Delany had virtually no competition as he finished 15 yards ahead of Len Truex, former Ohio State ace now in the Air Force. Joe Deady of Washington, D.C., the world three-quarter mile record holder, finished third in the five-man field in a slow race before 13,000 spectators.

The crowd got a much greater thrill earlier as unbeaten Charlie Jenkins of Villanova defeated Olympian Mal Whitfield in the 600-yard run in 1:11.2 and Dave Sime of Duke and Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College also remained unbeaten this year in winning the 60-yard dash and high hurdles.

Calhoun's chore was made easier because perennial hurdle champion Harrison Dillard was on the sidelines with a pulled thigh muscle.

Demons Master Bulldogs, 87-77

NATCHITOCHES, La., Feb. 4 (AP) —Northwestern State kept its lead in the Gulf States Conference basketball race by whipping Louisiana Tech 87-77 tonight.

Major Bosses Again Turn Down Minimum Pay Boost

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—Major league baseball players were rebuffed again today when the club owners refused to boost their minimum salary and re-affirmed a previous statement that the sale of World Series television and radio rights was the province of the commissioner.

The players, turned down on both points last December, had sought to have the minimum salary increased from $6,000 to $7,200 and also wanted full information on negotiations for a new World Series TV contract.

The owners, however, did approve the appointment of a three-man committee in each league to meet with the players. Representatives in a review of the present salary structure, including the unlimited maximum standards.

And Commissioner Ford Frick said he would consult with the pension committee before a new contract is completed. The pension committee consists of two club representatives, John Galbreath of Pittsburgh and Joe Cronin of Boston, and two players, Bobby Feller of Cleveland and Robin Roberts of Philadelphia.

"It looks like an improvement," said Feller, who is in New York for the annual baseball writers' dinner tomorrow night. But he declined to comment further until he has consulted Roberts and J. Norman Lewis, the players' lawyer.

Frick said no date had been set for a meeting with the player representatives to discuss the salary structure but that it probably will not be until after the start of the season.

The current radio - TV contract for the World Series and the All-Star game expires after the 1956 series. It calls for $1,125,000 per year with 60 per cent earmarked for the players' pension fund.

The owners already have agreed to apportion 60 per cent of the new contract to the pension fund through 1951 but say they might want to re-evaluate the 60-40 split after that date. The players have contended that the 60 per cent is their property while the owners have taken the stand that the entire proceeds belong to them and they merely apportion the amount agreed upon to the pension fund.

In other action the leagues established a CY Young Trophy to be awarded to the most valuable pitcher in each league.

The American League also decided to try out in spring exhibition games the doing away of waiting for a pitcher to pitch four balls when a batter is being given an intentional walk.

The LaSalle High boys of Olla and the Marion High girls emerged as champions of the inaugural West Monroe High School Invitational Basketball Tournament last night as the LaSalle Tigers tripped the Marion girls had polished off Farmerville in a Union parish girls' final, 52-28.

LaSalle's Kenneth Winberry, an all-state football player, and West Monroe's John Ann Painich, one of the area's outstanding girl basketball performers, were acclaimed "most valuable players" in their respective divisions of the tournament and were awarded trophies.

Winberry, who had been one of LaSalle's foremost scorers in earlier tourney games, was held to five points as Rebel guarding concentrated on him in the final, but Lynn Russell broke away to lead the Tiger scoring with 16 points. L. C. Crawford was West Monroe's leader with 11.

Consolations were won by the Ouachita boys of Monroe and the West Monroe girls, the Lions tagging Downsville, 67-40, and the Rebel girls beating Bastrop, 54-30.

The Ouachita boys, upset by West Monroe in the semi-finals, 66-62, were paced by Dickie Crowe's 16 points against Downsville, while the Downsville quint was led by Guice's 12 points as the Lions kept Terral, usually the strong link in Downsville attack, bottled.

The Flyers, ranked second in the weekly Associated Press poll, had little trouble in handing Loyola its 12th loss of the season. Dayton hit on 48 per cent of its shots in the first half and posted a 45-26 lead at halftime.

Forward Jim Paxson led the smooth Dayton attack in the first half. He accounted for 14 points as the Flyers held a 10-point plus advantage over the outclassed Wolfpack and steadily mounted the margin.

The Glick - Janssen team fought a nip and tuck battle to the 18th hole before defeating Barbara Little and Nadyne Grannick, both of Milwaukee, 1-up.

The eastern girls pulled ahead three times, only to have their lead melt away each time under the shooting of Miss Grannick.

The Glick - Janssen pair went to the final hole in the quarter-finals yesterday to beat Ann Casey Johnston, Mason City, Iowa, and Wanda Sanches, Baton Rouge, La.

Miss Quast and Miss Jessen defeated Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore and Marge Burns, Greensboro, N.C., 5 and 4 without the loss of a hole.

Miss Quast's putter usually spelled the differences in the two teams. Shes ank a 25-foot putt on the second hole to put her team in the lead. They had a commanding 3-up lead at the end of nine holes and won the 10th and 13th. The match ended when the 14th hole was halved.

Longhorns Claim First Conference Win; Down Baylor

AUSTIN, Feb. 4—UP—The Texas Longhorns, led by record-breaking scorer Ray Downs' 32 points, won their first Southwest Conference victory of the season Saturday night, downing Baylor 80 to 73.

Downs' spree boosted his total for the year to 412 points, a record for any Longhorn in a single season. The previous mark was 401 points by John Hargis in 28 games during the 1947 season. Downs has played in only 17 games and has seven more to play.

But it was Norman Hooten, star Longhorn guard, who stole the show in the final minutes of the game. With a minute and three seconds left, Texas had only a two-point lead, 75 to 73. Hooten hit five straight free throws to put the game on ice.

The game was nip and tuck most of the way. The Bears led at the half 39 to 35 and the score was tied several times. At one time in the second half, the Bears had a 11-point margin, 64 to 53. The Longhorns rallied to tie it up at 69-all, again at 71 and again at 73-all before going ahead to stay.

Baylor, led by the 28 points of Louis Estes and 17 by Jerry Mallett, connected on 38 per cent of shots from the floor and 65 per cent at the free throw line. Texas hit 43 per cent from the floor, 76 from the free throw line.

In a freshman game, Baylor won 79-77 in double overtime.

Ron Delany Takes Wanamaker Mile With Easy Stride

NEW YORK, Feb. 4—UP—Skinny Ron Delany, the Irish wolfhound from Villanova College, took over with two laps to go and won the Wanamaker Mile by a 15-yard margin in 4:09.5 at the Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

With Wes Santee on the sidelines because of expense account difficulties, the Dublin-born Delany had virtually no competition as he finished 15 yards ahead of Len Truex, former Ohio State ace now in the Air Force. Joe Deady of Washington, D.C., the world three-quarter mile record holder, finished third in the five-man field in a slow race before 13,000 spectators.

The crowd got a much greater thrill earlier as unbeaten Charlie Jenkins of Villanova defeated Olympian Mal Whitfield in the 600-yard run in 1:11.2 and Dave Sime of Duke and Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College also remained unbeaten this year in winning the 60-yard dash and high hurdles.

Calhoun's chore was made easier because perennial hurdle champion Harrison Dillard was on the sidelines with a pulled thigh muscle.

Demons Master Bulldogs, 87-77

NATCHITOCHES, La., Feb. 4 (AP) —Northwestern State kept its lead in the Gulf States Conference basketball race by whipping Louisiana Tech 87-77 tonight.

Major Bosses Again Turn Down Minimum Pay Boost

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 —(AP)—Major league baseball players were rebuffed again today when the club owners refused to boost their minimum salary and re-affirmed a previous statement that the sale of World Series television and radio rights was the province of the commissioner.

The players, turned down on both points last December, had sought to have the minimum salary increased from $6,000 to $7,200 and also wanted full information on negotiations for a new World Series TV contract.

The owners, however, did approve the appointment of a three-man committee in each league to meet with the players. Representatives in a review of the present salary structure, including the unlimited maximum standards.

And Commissioner Ford Frick said he would consult with the pension committee before a new contract is completed. The pension committee consists of two club representatives, John Galbreath of Pittsburgh and Joe Cronin of Boston, and two players, Bobby Feller of Cleveland and Robin Roberts of Philadelphia.

"It looks like an improvement," said Feller, who is in New York for the annual baseball writers' dinner tomorrow night. But he declined to comment further until he has consulted Roberts and J. Norman Lewis, the players' lawyer.

Frick said no date had been set for a meeting with the player representatives to discuss the salary structure but that it probably will not be until after the start of the season.

The current radio - TV contract for the World Series and the All-Star game expires after the 1956 series. It calls for $1,125,000 per year with 60 per cent earmarked for the players' pension fund.

The owners already have agreed to apportion 60 per cent of the new contract to the pension fund through 1961 but say they might want to re-evaluate the 60-40 split after that date. The players have contended that the 60 per cent is their property while the owners have taken the stand that the entire proceeds belong to them and they merely apportion the amount agreed upon to the pension fund.

In other action the leagues established a CY Young Trophy t be awarded to the most valcable pitcher in each league.

The American League also decided to try out in spring exhibition games the doing away of waiting for a pitcher to pitch four balls when a batter is being given an intentional walk.

Middlecoff Grabs Phoenix Lead As Amateurs Cool

Ex-Dentist Takes Two-Stroke Edge At 54-Hole Point

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 4—UP—Veteran Cary Middlecoff, making each shot after slow and careful deliberations, turned the table on the "play for fun" amateurs to take a two-stroke lead Saturday with a score of 208 after three rounds of the $15,000 Phoenix Open.

Jim Tom Blair, Jefferson City, Mo., the husky amateur who led at the half-way mark, dropped into a tie for second place with Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y.

Blair, with his driving game badly off form, had a three-over-par 71 Saturday to go with his 136 of Friday. Middlecoff shot a 70 in Saturday's third over the Phoenix Country Club course.

Souchak, former Duke football player, fired a 68 Saturday, and just barely missed an eagle on the 18th hole when his putt rolled to the lip of the cup but did not sink.

Ken Venturi, San Francisco, another amateur who ranked third Friday, fell off Saturday with a 75, dropping into a tie with three others for sixth.

Middlecoff, now playing out of Dallas, Tex., and originally described as the golfing dentist, made the turn in 34, two under par. He bogied the 13th and 14th holes, but came through to sink a two-foot putt on the final hole for a birdie.

The final round will be played Sunday.

Middlecoff, battling a cold throughout the first three rounds of the tourney, had the biggest gallery of the day following him. He responded by posting birdies on the 1st, 7th, 8th and 18th holes. In addition to the bogies on the 13th and 14th, he also went over on the par four, 410 yard 6th hole.

Three strokes behind Middlecoff were Ted Kroll, Bethesda, Md., and Lionel Hebert, Erie, Pa., who led at the end of the first round. Each had scores of 211. Kroll had one of the best rounds of the day, a 68. Hebert posted a 71.

Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif., who won the tournament last year, turned in the finest round of the day—a four under par 67. That gave him a 54-hole score of 212, good enough to tie him with Bo Winniger, Oklahoma City, who had a 68 Saturday and Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., who played the 18 holes in 69.

Landrum Quits, Lumpkin Takes Job At Georgia

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 4 (AP)—Wally Butts, Georgia athletic director and head football coach, today announced the resignation of James D. (Spec) Landrum as freshman football coach and the appointment of Quinton Lumpkin as his successor.

"We are sorry Spec is leaving Georgia," Butts said. "He has done a fine job here in a dual capacity as freshman football coach and recruiting chief since 1952. We wish him luck."

Landrum, 36, turned in his resignation yesterday saying family commitments and a desire for less travel and more coaching prompted the action.

Lumpkin, 41, is a former Georgia star who previously served as freshman coach. Since 1952 he has served as a varsity assistant.

Redate Robinson, Olson Title Scrap For Next April 20

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4 (AP)—The middleweight title bout between champion Ray Robinson and Bobo Olson was reset today for April 20.

Matchmaker Jackie Leonard announced the date and set Wrigley Field as the scene for the 15-round rematch.

Leonard had announced April 27 as the date earlier, but conflicted with the Pacific Coast League baseball schedule caused the moveup.

Arrangements for the match were completed by Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, and Sid Flaherty, Olson's manager, meeting here with Leonard.

The I.B.C. will underwrite a $75,000 guarantee for each fighter, the matchmaker added. They may make more, as they will get 30 per cent of the gate and television money above their guarantees. Television rights will total $100,000.

"The fight should draw 25,000 people and a gate of $200,000," Leonard said.

Ex-titleholder Olson was knocked out in two rounds by Sugar Ray in Chicago last December.

Rex Lane Loses Nod To German In Ten-Rounder

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 4 (AP)—Hans Friedrich of Germany outpointed Rex Layne of Lewiston, Utah, in a crude heavyweight 10-rounder tonight.

The bout was marked by wrestling, shoving and stumbling which drew boos from the crowd of 5,000 in the Frankfurt Festhalle.

But Layne, who decisioned Friedrich in Salt Lake City in 1954, used his 216 1-2 pounds to shove and elbow in the clinches. There were no knock-downs but the heavy Salt Lake City fighter tripped twice during the bout and fell to the floor.

Cook Matched With Glenn

Clarence Cook, the Bastrop papermill worker, attempts to start a new victory string here Tuesday night when he appears in the welterweight main event against Don Glenn, Dallas, Tex., over a ten-round route at Gus Kallio's Arena.

Cook, who had a 22-match victory string snapped by Virgil Akins, now ranked sixth among the world's welterweights, at Dallas, recently, will be battling an up-and coming welter with a career that just about parallels that of the ex-Oak Grove High School puncher.

Glenn, a 147-pounder, has a record of 19 professional fights in which he has scored 16 victories, his last by a third round knockout. Glenn also holds a decision at Houston, Tex., over Kid Henry, a promising young welter.

"The Cook challengers are pouring in," Promoter Kallio said yesterday. "Before his Akins fight Cook was having to hunt for opponents. Now he has a standing order of at least half a dozen if he wants to take them. I don't understand it. But maybe a lot of boys who were afraid of Cook are now feeling they can beat him although Clarence fought one of the best when he faced Akin and beat the St. Louis boy handily enough the first two rounds."

Cook, in earlier planning for Tuesday's card, was supposed to work only a six-rounder with a couple of mid-west battlers taking the ten-round top billing, but Cook fans have changed that.

"It's Cook we want to see, and he should be getting the ten-rounder," was the general complaint Kallio heard on all sides. After all, Cook has been making ten-rounders for some time, and Kallio heeded the advice of his customers.

Dewayne Garris, a promising middleweight from Farmerville who has compiled a good record while fighting on Kallio-promoted cards, is drawing the six-round semi-final assignment to face rugged "Speedy" Painter, a 161-pounder from Dallas, Tex.

A pair of four-round preliminaries match Monroe's up-and-coming Negro fistic stars, Henry Burton, a middleweight, and Jesse Goins, a welter against Dallas opposition. Burton, at 160 pounds, has been matched with Cart Tate, 156, Dallas, and Goins, 141, takes on Ronald Sheffield, 140, of Dallas.

Promoter Kallio also is considering a three-round exhibition for Johnny McKoin, Bastrop lightweight, to start the night's action. An opponent for McKoin may be decided today or tomorrow.

Fight tickets are on advance sale at Don Quinn Recreation Center, Bastrop; Pippin's Cafe, Oak Grove, and Gus Kallio's ticket office, 1101 Jackson street.

Film Says Grier Didn't Commit Sugar Bowl Foul

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4—UP—Negro fullback Bobby Grier was not guilty of pass interference on a controversial play that set up Georgia Tech's 7 to 0 victory over Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl football game here Jan. 2, official films of the contest showed Saturday.

Grier, who was both a hero and a "goat" in the game, was charged with interfering with Tech end Don Ellis on a pass play in the Pittsburgh end zone.

As a result of the penalty, the Engineers received the ball on the Panther one-yard line and quarterback Wade Mitchell, who tossed the pass in the controversial play, went over on the next play for the score to give the Engineer their seventh bowl victory under Coach Bobby Dodd without a loss.

However, observers at a private screening of the game films were convinced Grier, the first Negro to play in the Sugar Bowl football game, was not guilty of pass interference.

At Pittsburgh, Panther Coach Johnny Michelosen dismissed it as "one of those things," and added that "films won't change that 7 to 0 score against us.

Observers saw the disputed play-section of the film 25 times in both slow motion and natural speed. And it showed clearly that Grier did not make bodily contact with Ellis in the end zone — the place it would have had to occur in view of the type of penalty called.

The cameraman picked up Grier and Ellis about the four-yard line and kept the two men in focus throughout the incompleted pass play.

The pictures showed Ellis managed to get behind Grier and had a clear shot at the ball had it been thrown accurately by Mitchell, who was passing from the Pitt 33.

Grier appeared hopelessly out of defensive position in the latter stages of the play. It showed that he stumbled and fell two yards in front of Ellis. No body contact between the two was seen.

However, it was at that point that an official tossed down the red handkerchief, indicating that the foul had been committed there. The fact that Tech received the ball on the one-yard line also indicated the infraction was committed in the end zone.

Further, the films showed that the pass was too high for Ellis to have caught inside the playing area.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—Six University of Florida athletes have been dropped because of academic deficiencies, athletic director Bob Woodruff said today.

In addition, six football players, including star halfback Jackie Simpson of Miami, will not attend the university the second semester this year so they can work to raise their honor point averages to meet new and stiffer university academic regulations.

Woodruff said they could meet Southeastern Conference eligibility requirements provided they successfully complete their summer school work.

In addition to Simpson, those dropping out the second semester include: quarterback Richard Allen of Atlanta; end Bobby Burford of Roanoke, Va.; guard Kaye Green of Sparr, Fla.; tackle Larry Wesley of Fernandina Beach; and center Gene Purcell of Atlanta.

Those dropped by the university for academic deficiencies: Lew Doss of Birmingham, Ala., reserve football center; Tom Lasseter of Lake Wales, reserve guard; Bobby Harrell of Lakeland, reserve end; Jimmy Lindsay of Birmingham, Baetzman of Orlando, freshman tackle; and Lem Mehaffey of Columbus, Ga., freshman guard.

Middlecoff Grabs Phoenix Lead As Amateurs Cool

Ex-Dentist Takes Two-Stroke Edge At 54-Hole Point

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 4—UP—Veteran Cary Middlecoff, making each shot after slow and careful deliberations, turned the table on the "play for fun" amateurs to take a two-stroke lead Saturday with a score of 208 after three rounds of the $15,000 Phoenix Open.

Jim Tom Blair, Jefferson City, Mo., the husky amateur who led at the half-way mark, dropped into a tie for second place with Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y.

Blair, with his driving game badly off form, had a three-over-par 71 Saturday to go with his 136 of Friday. Middlecoff shot a 70 in Saturday's third over the Phoenix Country Club course.

Souchak, former Duke football player, fired a 68 Saturday, and just barely missed an eagle on the 18th hole when his putt rolled to the lip of the cup but did not sink.

Ken Venturi, San Francisco, another amateur who ranked third Friday, fell off Saturday with a 75, dropping into a tie with three others for sixth.

Middlecoff, now playing out of Dallas, Tex., and originally described as the golfing dentist, made the turn in 34, two under par. He bogied the 13th and 14th holes, but came through to sink a two-foot putt on the final hole for a birdie.

The final round will be played Sunday.

Middlecoff, battling a cold throughout the first three rounds of the tourney, had the biggest gallery of the day following him. He responded by posting birdies on the 1st, 7th, 8th and 18th holes. In addition to the bogies on the 13th and 14th, he also went over on the par four, 410 yard 6th hole.

Three strokes behind Middlecoff were Ted Kroll, Bethesda, Md., and Lionel Hebert, Erie, Pa., who led at the end of the first round. Each had scores of 211. Kroll had one of the best rounds of the day, a 68. Hebert posted a 71.

Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif., who won the tournament last year, turned in the finest round of the day—a four under par 67. That gave him a 54-hole score of 212, good enough to tie him with Bo Wininger, Oklahoma City, who had a 68 Saturday and Jimmy Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., who played the 18 holes in 69.

Landrum Quits, Lumpkin Takes Job At Georgia

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 4 (AP)—Wally Butts, Georgia athletic director and head football coach, today announced the resignation of James D. (Spec) Landrum as freshman football coach and the appointment of Quinton Lumpkin as his successor.

"We are sorry Spec is leaving Georgia," Butts said. "He has done a fine job here in a dual capacity as freshman football coach and recruiting chief since 1952. We wish him luck."

Landrum, 36, turned in his resignation yesterday saying family commitments and a desire for less travel and more coaching prompted the action.

Lumpkin, 41, is a former Georgia star who previously served as freshman coach. Since 1952 he has served as a varsity assistant.

Redate Robinson, Olson Title Scrap For Next April 20

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4 (AP)—The middleweight title bout between champion Ray Robinson and Bobo Olson was reset today for April 20.

Matchmaker Jackie Leonard announced the date and set Wrigley Field as the scene for the 15-round rematch.

Leonard had announced April 27 as the date earlier, but conflicted with the Pacific Coast League baseball schedule caused the moveup.

Arrangements for the match were completed by Truman Gibson, secretary of the International Boxing Club, and Sid Flaherty, Olson's manager, meeting here with Leonard.

The I.B.C. will underwrite a $75,000 guarantee for each fighter, the matchmaker added. They may make more, as they will get 30 per cent of the gate and television money above their guarantees. Television rights will total $100,000.

"The fight should draw 25,000 people and a gate of $200,000," Leonard said.

Ex-titleholder Olson was knocked out in two rounds by sugar Ray in Chicago last December.

Cook Matched With Glenn

Clarence Cook, the Bastrop papermill worker, attempts to start a new victory string here Tuesday night when he appears in the welterweight main event against Don Glenn, Dallas, Tex., over a ten-round route at Gus Kallio's Arena.

Cook, who had a 22-match victory string snapped by Virgil Akins, now ranked sixth among the world's welterweights, at Dallas, recently, will be battling an up-and coming welter with a career that just about parallels that of the ex-Oak Grove High School puncher.

Glenn, a 147-pounder, has a record of 19 professional fights in which he has scored 16 victories, his last by a third round knockout. Glenn also holds a decision at Houston, Tex., over Kid Henry, a promising young welter.

"The Cook challengers are pouring in," Promoter Kallio said yesterday. "Before his Akins fight Cook was having to hunt for opponents. Now he has a standing order of at least half a dozen if he wants to take them. I don't understand it. But maybe a lot of boys who were afraid of Cook are now feeling they can beat him although Clarence fought one of the best when he faced Akin and beat the St. Louis boy handily enough the first two rounds."

Cook, in earlier planning for Tuesday's card, was supposed to work only a six-rounder with a couple of mid-west battlers taking the ten-round top billing, but Cook fans have changed that.

"It's Cook we want to see, and he should be getting the ten-rounder," was the general complaint Kallio heard on all sides. After all, Cook has been making ten-rounders for some time, and Kallio heeded the advice of his customers.

Dewayne Garris, a promising middleweight from Farmerville who has compiled a good record while fighting on Kallio-promoted cards, is drawing the six-round semi-final assignment to face rugged "Speedy" Painter, a 161-pounder from Dallas, Tex.

A pair of four-round preliminaries match Monroe's up-and-coming Negro fistic stars, Henry Burton, a middleweight, and Jesse Goins, a welter against Dallas opposition. Burton, at 160 pounds, has been matched with Cart Tate, 156, Dallas, and Goins, 141, takes on Ronald Sheffield, 140, of Dallas.

Promoter Kallio also is considering a three-round exhibition for Johnny McKoin, Bastrop lightweight, to start the night's action. An opponent for McKoin may be decided today or tomorrow.

Fight tickets are on advance sale at Don Quinn Recreation Center, Bastrop; Pippin's Cafe, Oak Grove, and Gus Kallio's ticket office, 1101 Jackson street.

Rex Lane Loses Nod To German In Ten-Rounder

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 4 (AP)—Hans Friedrich of Germany outpointed Rex Layne of Lewiston, Utah, in a crude heavyweight 10-rounder tonight.

The bout was marked by wrestling, shoving and stumbling which drew boos from the crowd of 5,000 in the Frankfurt Festhalle.

But Layne, who decisioned Friedrich in Salt Lake City in 1954, used his 216 1-2 pounds to shove and elbow in the clinches. There were no knock-downs but the heavy Salt Lake City fighter tripped twice during the bout and fell to the floor.

Film Says Grier Didn't Commit Sugar Bowl Foul

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4—UP—Negro fullback Bobby Grier was not guilty of pass interference on a controversial play that set up Georgia Tech's 7 to 0 victory over Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl football game here Jan. 2, official films of the contest showed Saturday.

Grier, who was both a hero and a "goat" in the game, was charged with interfering with Tech end Don Ellis on a pass play in the Pittsburgh end zone.

As a result of the penalty, the Engineers received the ball on the Panther one-yard line and quarterback Wade Mitchell, who tossed the pass in the controversial play, went over on the next play for the score to give the Engineer their seventh bowl victory under Coach Bobby Dodd without a loss.

However, observers at a private screening of the game films were convinced Grier, the first Negro to play in the Sugar Bowl football game, was not guilty of pass interference.

At Pittsburgh, Panther Coach Johnny Michelosen dismissed it as "one of those things," and added that "films won't change that 7 to 0 score against us.

Observers saw the disputed play-section of the film 25 times in both slow motion and natural speed. And it showed clearly that Grier did not make bodily contact with Ellis in the end zone — the place it would have had to occur in view of the type of penalty called.

The cameraman picked up Grier and Ellis about the four-yard line and kept the two men in focus throughout the incompleted pass play.

The pictures showed Ellis managed to get behind Grier and had a clear shot at the ball had it been thrown accurately by Mitchell, who was passing from the Pitt 33.

Grier appeared hopelessly out of defensive position in the latter stages of the play. It showed that he stumbled and fell two yards in front of Ellis. No body contact between the two was seen.

However, it was at that point that an official tossed down the red handkerchief, indicating that the foul had been committed there. The fact that Tech received the ball on the one-yard line also indicated the infraction was committed in the end zone.

Further, the films showed that the pass was too high for Ellis to have caught inside the playing area.

Scholastic Woes Claim 6 Florida Football Players

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Feb. 4 (AP)—Six University of Florida athletes have been dropped because of academic deficiencies, athletic director Bob Woodruff said today.

In addition, six football players, including star halfback Jackie Simpson of Miami, will not attend the university the second semester this year so they can work to raise their honor point averages to meet new and stiffer university academic regulations.

Woodruff said they would be given an opportunity to raise their honor point averages in extension courses and in summer school.

Woodruff said they could meet Southeastern Conference eligibility requirements provided they successfully complete their summer school work.

In addition to Simpson, those dropping out the second semester include: quarterback Richard Allen of Atlanta; end Bobby Burford of Roanoke, Va.; guard Kaye Green of Sparr, Fla.; tackle Larry Wesley of Fernandina Beach; and center Gene Purcell of Atlanta.

Those dropped by the university for academic deficiencies: Lew Doss of Birmingham, Ala., reserve football center; Tom Lasseter of Lake Wales, reserve guard; Bobby Harrell of Lakeland, reserve end; Jimmy Lindsay of Birmingham, Baetzman of Orlando, freshman tackle; and Lem Mehaffey of Columbus, Ga., freshman guard.

U.S. Runs Second In Hockey; Third In Four-Man Bob

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Feb. 4 —(AP)—Soviet Russia climaxed its domination of the Winter Olympic games by cutting Canada 2-0 for the Olympic hockey championship tonight and the surprising U.S team won the silver medal for second place with a 9-4 vengeance victory over Czechoslovakia.

Dick Dougherty, a GI from International Falls, Minn., who was one of the University of Minnesota's greatest stars, pulled a three-goal "hat trick" in the final period to put the skids under the Czech team, which had upset the Yanks in a preliminary tournament.

Russia, ending a Canadian hockey nomopoly broken only once before in the last 36 years, wound up the tournament unbeaten with five straight victories.

The United States held a 4-1 mark with Canada following in third place with 3-2. Then followed Sweden 1-3-1, Czechoslovakia 1-4 and Germany 0-4-1 in that order. Sweden and Germany tied 1-1 in their final games.

It was a bitter blow to the favored Canadians, who had been strong favorites to take the hockey crown. They didn't win a gold medal in the games, which end tomorrow with ski jumping on Italia Hill.

In other championship events today, Franz Kapus, a 46-year-old Swiss chauffeur who said it was his final competitive race, won the four-man bobsled title with two more neck-risking runs down the crumbling Tofana chute and a quartet of hardy Russian skiers snapped a longtime Scandinavian monopoly by winning the 40-kilometer cross-country relay.

The two gold medals today, making a cluster of six, boosted Russia's point total to 121 and made them the runaway winners of unofficial team honors. Austria was second with 71½ and others tapered off from there.

The United States, with five points in hockey and four in the four-man bobsled on the brilliant third place finish of Art Tyler of Rochester, N.Y., went into a tie with Switzerland for fourth place with 54½.

The ski jumps tomorrow can't produce a serious challenger to the Russian over-all lead. The ski jumping titles traditionally are the property of the Finns, Swedes and Norwegians.

The American hockey team was jubiliant over its surprise finish. "Everyone picked us for fourth or fifth", said Coach John Mariucci of Minneapolis. "But we fooled 'em."

Dougherty was happy over his three last period goals but he said, "I finally got going but it was a little too late."

After beating the Czechs, the Americans sat in the stands and cheered loudly for their North American brothers.

"I'd rather have finished third than to have had the Russians win," said Willard Ikola, Eveleth, Minn., goalie who didn't play today.

The Americans played heads-up aggressive hockey against the Czechs, keeping the offensive from the moment of Weldon Olson's first goal in the opening period. Gordon Christian of Warroad, Minn. made two goals with spectacular rink-length forays and other goals were added by Bill Cleary of Cambridge, Mass., Dick Meredith of Minneapolis, and John Mayasich, of Eveleth, Minn., who also contributed four assists.

The hard-fought Russia - Canada game, marked by repeated Canadian penalties, was decided on a second period goal by Yuriy Kryloy and a last period shot by Alexander Arov. The Russians' body-checking and goal tending kept the Canadians at bay.

Frank Kapus, a florid Swiss daredevil who drives automobiles for a living and bobsleds for fun, won the four-man championship with a record run down Tofana's crumbling suicidal chute where he broke his back two years ago — then announced his retirement. His total time for four runs was 5 minutes, 10.44 seconds.

America's No. 1 sled, driven by Art Tyler, Rochester, N.Y., physicist, finished third behind Italy's Eugenio Monti in 5:12.39 while the U.S. No. 2 entry, with Jim Bickford of Saranac Lake, N.Y., at the helm, was 19th in a field of 21, in 5:25.16.

After Tyler heard his time announced he took a cue from Kapus and said he also was quitting. He threw his helmet to his 14-year-old son and said, "take over, Doug."

Four hardy Russians, each covering 6¼ miles, won the 40-kilometer (25 miles) cross-country ski race. They stood off a great finishing challenge by the Finns to triumph in 2 hours, 15 minutes and 30 seconds.

It was the first time a non-Scandinavian country — Finland, Sweden or Norway —had not won the specialty since it was started in the games 32 years ago.

Finland was second in 2:16.31, followed by Sweden, 2:17.42.

An American foursome made an unexpectedly good showing, finishing 12th in 2:32.04. The team was composed of Ted Farwell, Montague City, Mass.; Andy Miller, McCall, Idaho; Larry Damon, Burlington, Vt., and Marvin Crawford, Denver.

The approximately two - mile bobsled run at Mt. Tofana was so pocked with holes and related perils that Kapus, the winner, almost forfeited the title after whizzing down the course in a record 1:17.09 on his third trip.

"I don't think I'll make the fourth run," he said. "Somebody might get killed."

But he was persuaded to do so a clearcut victory—a 2.34 second edge over Monti, the Italian jet pilot, who registered 5:12.10. Then Kapus announced: "This was my last run—I'm through, I'm retiring."

Tyler said afterwards:

"It was terribly bumpy all the way our front axil seems to have got knocked on our last run and looks out of shape. They patched up the holes but the patches don't hold when the next sled rattles over them."

The race for third place had been a dog-fight between Tyler and Max Angst, 34-year-old butcher from Zürich, Switzerland.

Angst's crew was thrown into the air and landed with a jar back in the sled, while the skillful Swiss regained control. But valuable split seconds were lost, and the sled finished fourth. Although bruised and sore, the sledders were not seriously hurt.

Spanish nobleman Alfonso De Portago, the millionaire sportsman who took up bobsledding just for the kicks, found a sense of humor in the neck - risking runs which brought him home in ninth place.

"I should have brought my golf," he commented wryly. "Eighteen holes."

Tyler's crew included William Dodge of New York, Tom Butler of Albuquerque, N.M., and Jim Lamy of Saranac Lake, N.Y., the brakeman. Their runs today were 1:1.25 and 1:18.52.

Bickford, a 43-year-old forest ranger in his fourth Olympics, had final runs of 1:21.22 and 1:20.50. His crew included Donald Jacques of Bayonne, N.J., Lawrence McKillip of Saranac Lake, N.Y., and Maj. Hubert Miller of Charlottesville, La.

Miller complained that the holes weren't marked properly and said: "We got banged back and forth on our last run. Thank God we're down."

Louisiana 'Cap To Ja Ja With Happy Go Lucky 2nd

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4 —(AP)— James L. Paddock's 4-year-old Ja Ja splashed through the stretch today to score a two-length victory over the favored Happy Go Lucky in the $13,475 Louisiana Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

The victory was the first for the son of War Jeep, who has been in the money only once in four previous starts at the Fair Grounds winter meeting.

But, Ja Ja responded strongly to jockey Ralph Borgemenke's stretch urging and caught Happy Go Lucky and eighth of a mile from home.

Ja Ja's stablemate, Nonnie Jo, also turned in a strong finish to take show money, four lengths behind Happy Go Lucky.

The paddock entry went to the post at 7-1 and returned $16.40, $5.80 and $3.80. The entry paid more than place by finishing first and third.

Happy Go Lucky, who went to the post as the 7-5 favorite of the crowd of 12,429, returned $3.20 and $2.60.

Leather Kid, from the Reverie Knoll farm, streaked to the lead as the 10-horse field broke from the gate. Ernest Landiche's Jim's Whim went up on the pace with Leather Kid as Ja Ja trailed in sixth place.

Around the first turn and into the back stretch, Leather Kid still set a burning pace over the gooey track, with the running order the same.

Leather Kid was still on top around the final turn of the mile and one-sixteenth feature, but Jim's Whim was only a half length behind as Happy Go Lucky moved into contention. Leather Kid was through a quarter of a mile from home and the orange and black colors of Harold Bockman went to the top as Happy Go Lucky took over the lead with Ja Ja running third.

Borgemenke took Ja Ja to the middle of the track for firmer footing and went to the whip, chasing Happy Go Lucky at the eighth pole to win going away.

Ja Ja's time for the distance was 1:48 3-5 over the track turned into a quagmire by overnight and morning rains.

Paddock, who operates a Dayton, Ohio, automobile agency, collected $9,650 for Ja Ja's triumph and trainer V. R. (Tennessee) Wright saddled his 41st winner of the meeting in Ja Ja.

The wagering for the nine-race card totaled $362,619, despite intermittent showers that held attendance down.

Allen Quits Ohio State Cage Team To Enter Dayton

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Feb. 4—UP—Mike Allen, a skyscraping center, quit Ohio State's basketball team a huff Saturday to enter the University of Dayton. His coach, Floyd Stahl, leveled a blanket charge of "tampering."

Allen, a six-foot, eight-inch scoring whiz in high school at New Lexington, Ohio, St. Aloysius two years ago, spurned offers from more than 60 colleges to enroll at Ohio State.

Since then, however, he has been primarily warming the bench. Allen told friends there were "other things" involved, too.

Allen said he would enroll at Dayton on Monday. The Flyers currently are ranked No. 2 in the United Press coaches ratings of the nation's basketball teams.

Stahl charged that Allen had "been encouraged to quit school here and enroll in Dayton." Stahl named no names, but said "tampering certainly was there."

"I don't want to accuse Coach (Tom) Blackburn of it until I have had an opportunity to talk with him," Stahl said. Blackburn and his Dayton crew was in New Orleans where the Flyers met Loyola Saturday night.

Stahl said that another player, who later was identified as John Snider, a sophomore forward from Defiance, Ohio, had also been "encouraged" to leave Ohio State and enter Dayton. Snyder left the campus two days ago, but reconsidered and told friends he had decided to stick at Ohio State.

Another potential Ohio State star, Bill Uhl, left Ohio State as a freshman to enter Dayton in February, 1952. Uhl, nearly seven feet tall, has averaged some 18 points a game in 15 games.

Backs Big Need As L.S.U. Opens Spring Football

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 4 (AP) — Coach Paul Dietzel of Louisiana State University will open spring football practice Monday. His big need is backs with breakaway speed.

Despite gaping holes in the backfield, prospects are for an improved record next fall, even though the schedule includes Sugar Bowl champ Georgia Tech, Cotton Bowl winner Mississippi, and Texas A&M, potential Southwest Conference champion. LSU won three, lost five and tied two last year.

From the forward wall that played on even terms against Maryland, Georgia Tech and Mississippi, eleven of the top 15 men return. These include all-Southeastern Conference tackle Earl Leggett, a 265-pound threat for all-America honors. Mississippi will be all-SEC end Joe Tuminello.

LSU also is well fortified at quarterback with M. C. Reynolds who was the SEC's fourth ranking passer as a sophomore.

But LSU's best five running backs, fullbacks O. K. Ferguson and Larry King and halfbacks Chuck Johns, Vince Gonzalez and Don Stinson, graduate in June, Joe May is the top runner returning.

In an effort for quick backfield help, Dietzel grabbed three top junior college prospects and expects to land a fourth.

Already attending LSU are three top halfbacks, Jerry Johnston and Ron Williams, regulars on the Jones, Miss., Junior College Little Rose Bowl team last fall, and Olin Renfroe, Junior College all-America at Hinds, Miss., in 1951.

Fullback Jimmy Taylor, rated a potential great as an LSU freshman in 1954, is expected to return in the fall from Hinds.

Irish Fight Fans Riot When Their Favorite Beaten

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 4 (AP) — Fight fans rioted tonight after Charlie Hill, a determined Scot, won the British featherweight title from Billy Kelly, an Irishman.

At the end of the close 15-round bout, referee Tom Little of London, raised Hill's hand. A roar of protest went up from the 15,000 at King's Hall and the ring suddenly was showered with bottles, chairs, tomatoes and old shoes.

While men shouted "We want Kelly," women in the crowd screamed and fainted. Police charged the rioters with night sticks. A dozen fans were treated for injuries. None was seriously hurt.

Police escorted the two fighters and the referee out of the arena. Hill weighed 125 3-4 and Kelly 125 1-2.

Over the last two seasons, Duke Snider of the Brooklyn Dodgers has driven in more runs than any other major leaguer. He has sent in 266 tallies.

77-Player Squad Will Report For Tulane Workouts

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4 (AP) — Tulane will open spring football practice Monday with the largest varsity squad since two-platoon days.

The 77 candidates include 25 lettermen and are made up of 19 next-year seniors, 16 juniors and 42 sophomores.

Returning regulars are quarterback Gene Newton, halfback Tommy Warner, fullback Ronny Quillian, ends Charles Mackay and Will Billon, tackles Daltgn Truax and Emmett Zelenka and center Don Miller.

The missing regulars are star guards Tony Sardisco and Bryan Burnthorne, and halfback Otis Gilmore.

The workouts will end with the annual intrasquad game on March 3.

Coach Andy Pilney expects to spend much time on improving the Greenie passing game that accounted for only 45 yards per game last season, against 203 per game running.

"We definitely should be improved," Pilney said in going over the 1956 outlook. "With the exception of the middle of the line, there is more experience at every position. Our depth also is much more encouraging."

Marquette Picks Druze To Succeed Ousted Grid Tutor

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 4 (AP)—Johnny Druze, who captained Fordham's famed "Seven Blocks of Granite" and has helped cement Notre Dame's gridiron successes as end coach, today became head football coach at Marquette University.

He takes over field command from F. L. "Frosty" Ferzacca, who was relieved of the post, after two sorry seasons, with a year to go on a three-year contract at $10,000 annually.

Druze, 41-year old native of Newark, N. J., was hand picked for the job by Laurence A. "Moon" Mullins, who was named Marquette's athletic director two weeks ago today. Like Druze, Mullins has a solid Notre Dame background, having played on the late, great Knute Rockne's undefeated powerhouses of 1929 and 1930.

The balding newcomer to the head coaching ranks told a press conference his contract, "a gentlemen's agreement still to be signed," is for three years at $11,000-per-year.

Longhorns Select Frosh Tutor Head Basketball Coach

AUSTIN, Feb. 4—UP—Marshall Hughes, freshman basketball coach at the University of Texas, was elevated Saturday to the head coach spot, effective at the end of the current season.

Hughes will succeed Thurman (Slue) Hull, who resigned in mid January, effective at the close of the present campaign.

The announcement was made by Athletic Director Dana X. Bible, who said Hughes will assume additional responsibilities immediately. Hughes has served as freshman coach for seven seasons, and Hull is now in his fifth year as head coach.

Hughes' record as freshman coach, prior to Saturday night's clash with the Baylor Cubs, was 58 victories against 20 defeats. His best season was 1955, when the Shorthorns won 11 and lost only one.

Hughes, advancing steadily since entering the coaching field, served as a junior high school coach at Port Arthur briefly before entering military service, and after his release coached one year each at Rosenberg and Arlington high schools.

A graduate of North Texas State College in 1941, Hughes received a masters' degree there in 1946, moving then to Tarleton State College for three years as coach, where he had been a student a decade earlier.

He was a four-sport letterman at Stephenville high school, and lettered in both basketball and tennis at Tarleton and North Texas State.

Hughes has done graduate work at the University of Texas and the University of Colorado toward a doctorate in education.

Bible said Hughes "has made the university a very efficient and successful freshman coach. Certainly he deserves a promotion. Equally important, he is of high moral character and a good influence on the boys."

NO NOISE OR SHOOTING

MACCLENNY, Fla. (AP)—Baker county commissioners wanted to ban hunting on Sunday. However, the commission attorney advised that such a regulation probably wouldn't stand up because state licenses list Sunday as a legal hunting day. So the commissioners found an ancient blue law forbidding loud noises, such as the discharge of firearms on Sunday. They instructed Sheriff Asa Coleman Jr. to enforce it.

Russia's Hockey Win Tops Olympic Rise

U.S. Runs Second In Hockey; Third In Four-Man Bob

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy, Feb. 4 —(AP)—Soviet Russia climaxed its domination of the Winter Olympic games by cutting Canada 2-0 for the Olympic hockey championship tonight and the surprising U.S team won the silver medal for second place with a 9-4 vengeance victory over Czechoslovakia.

Dick Dougherty, a GI from International Falls, Minn., who was one of the University of Minnesota's greatest stars, pulled a three-goal "hat trick" in the final period to put the skids under the Czech team, which had upset the Yanks in a preliminary tournament.

Russia, ending a Canadian hockey nomopoly broken only once before in the last 36 years, wound up the tournament unbeaten with five straight victories.

The United States held a 4-1 mark with Canada following in third place with 3-2. Then followed Sweden 1-3-1, Czechoslovakia 1-4 and Germany 0-4-1 in that order. Sweden and Germany tied 1-1 in their final games.

It was a bitter blow to the favored Canadians, who had been strong favorites to take the hockey crown. They didn't win a gold medal in the games, which end tomorrow with ski jumping on Italia Hill.

In other championship events today, Franz Kapus, a 46-year-old Swiss chauffeur who said it was his final competitive race, won the four-man bobsled title with two more neck-risking runs down the crumbling Tofana chute and a quartet of hardy Russian skiers snapped a longtime Scandinavian monopoly by winning the 40-kilometer cross-country relay.

The two gold medals today, making a cluster of six, boosted Russia's point total to 121 and made them the runaway winners of unofficial team honors. Austria was second with 7½ and others tapered off from there.

The United States, with five points in hockey and four in the four-man bobsled on the brilliant third place finish of Art Tyler of Rochester, N.Y., went into a tie with Switzerland for fourth place with 54½.

The ski jumps tomorrow can't produce a serious challenger to the Russian over-all lead. The ski jumping titles traditionally are the property of the Finns, Swedes and Norweigians.

The American hockey team was jubiliant over its surprise finish. "Everyone picked us for fourth or fifth", said Coach John Mariucci of Minneapolis. "But we fooled 'em."

Dougherty was happy over his three last period goals but he said, "I finally got going but it was a little too late."

After beating the Czechs, the Americans sat in the stands and cheered loudly for their North American brothers.

"I'd rather have finished third than to have had the Russians win," said Willard Ikola, Eveleth, Minn., goalie who didn't play today.

The Americans played heads-up aggressive hockey against the Czechs, keeping the offensive from the moment of Weldon Olson's first goal in the opening period. Gordon Christian of Warroad, Minn. made two goals with spectacular rink-length forays and other goals were added by Bill Cleary of Cambridge, Mass., Dick Meredith of Minneapolis, and John Mavasich, of Eveleth, Minn., who also contributed four assists.

The hard-fought Russia - Canada game, marked by repeated Canadian penalties, was decided on a second period goal by Yuriy Krylov and a last period shot by Alexander Arov. The Russians' body-checking and goal tending kept the Canadians at bay.

Frank Kapus, a florid Swiss daredevil who drives automob'les for a living and bobsleds for fun, won the four-man championship with a record run down Tofana's crumbling suicidal chute where he broke his back two years ago — then announced his retirement. His total time for four runs was 5 minutes, 10.44 seconds.

America's No. 1 sled, driven by Art Tyler, Rochester, N.Y., physicist, finished third behind Italy's Eugenio Monti in 5:12.39 while the U.S. No. 2 entry, with Jim Bickford of Saranac Lake, N.Y., at the helm, was 19th in a field of 21, in 5:25.16.

From the forward wall that played on even terms against Maryland, Georgia Tech and Mississippi, eleven of the top 15 men return. These include all-Southeastern Conference tackle Earl Leggett, a 265-pound threat for all-America honors. Mississippi will be all-SEC end Joe Tuminello.

LSU also is well fortified at quarterback with M. C. Reynolds who was the SEC's fourth ranking passer as a sophomore.

But LSU's best five running backs, fullbacks O. K. Ferguson and Larry King and halfbacks Chuck Johns, Vince Gonzalez and Don Stinson, graduate in June, Joe May is the top runner returning.

In an effort for quick backfield help, Dietzel grabbed three top junior college prospects and expects to land a fourth.

Already attending LSU are three top halfbacks, Jerry Johnston and Ron Williams, regulars on the Jones, Miss., Junior College Little Rose Bowl team last fall, and Olin Renfroe, Junior College all-America at Hinds, Miss., in 1954.

Fullback Jimmy Taylor, rated a potential great as an LSU freshman in 1954, is expected to return in the fall from Hinds.

Irish Fight Fans Riot When Their Favorite Beaten

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 4 (AP) — Fight fans rioted tonight after Charlie Hill, a determined Scot, won the British featherweight title from Billy Kelly, an Irishman.

At the end of the close 15-round bout, referee Tom Little of London, raised Hill's hand. A roar of protest went up from the 15,000 at King's Hall and the ring suddenly was showered with bottles, chairs, tomatoes and old shoes.

While men shouted "We want Kelly," women in the crowd screamed and fainted. Police charged the rioters with night sticks. A dozen fans were treated for injuries. None was seriously hurt.

Police escorted the two fighters and the referee out of the arena. Hill weighed 125 3-4 and Kelly 125 1-2.

77-Player Squad Will Report For Tulane Workouts

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4 (AP) — Tulane will open spring football practice Monday with the largest varsity squad since two-platoon days.

The 77 candidates include 25 lettermen and are made up of 19 next-year seniors, 16 juniors and 42 sophomores.

Returning regulars are quarterback Gene Newton, halfback Tommy Warner, fullback Ronny Quillian, ends Charles Mackay and Will Billon, tackles Daltgn Truax and Emmett Zelenka and center Don Miller.

The missing regulars are star guards Tony Sardisco and Bryan Burnthorne, and halfback Otis Gilmore.

The workouts will end with the annual intrasquad game on March 3.

Coach Andy Pilney expects to spend much time on improving the Greenie passing game that accounted for only 45 yards per game last season, against 203 per game running.

"We definitely should be improved," Pilney said in going over the 1956 outlook. "With the exception of the middle of the line, there is more experience at every position. Our depth also is much more encouraging."

Marquette Picks Druze To Succeed Ousted Grid Tutor

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 4 (AP)—Johnny Druze, who captained Fordham's famed "Seven Blocks of Granite" and has helped cement Notre Dame's gridiron successes as end coach, today became head football coach at Marquette University.

He takes over field command from F. L. "Frosty" Ferzacca, who was relieved of the post, after two sorry seasons, with a year to go on a three-year contract at $10,000 annually.

Druze, 41-year old native of Newark, N. J., was hand picked for the job by Laurence A. "Moon" Mullins, who was named Marquette's athletic director two weeks ago today. Like Druze, Mullins has a solid Notre Dame background, having played on the late, great Knute Rockne's undefeated powerhouses of 1929 and 1930.

The balding newcomer to the head coaching ranks told a press conference his contract, "a gentlemen's agreement still to be signed," is for three years at $11,000-per-year.

Longhorns Select Frosh Tutor Head Basketball Coach

AUSTIN, Feb. 4—UP—Marshall Hughes, freshman basketball coach at the University of Texas, was elevated Saturday to the head coach spot, effective at the end of the current season.

Hughes will succeed Thurman (Slue) Hull, who resigned in mid January, effective at the close of the present campaign.

The announcement was made by Athletic Director Dana X. Bible, who said Hughes will assume additional responsibilities immediately. Hughes has served as freshman coach for seven seasons, and Hull is now in his fifth year as head coach.

Hughes' record as freshman coach, prior to Saturday night's clash with the Baylor Cubs, was 58 victories against 20 defeats. His best season was 1955, when the Shorthorns won 11 and lost only one.

Hughes, advancing steadily since entering the coaching field, served as a junior high school coach at Port Arthur briefly before entering military service, and after his release coached one year each at Rosenberg and Arlington high schools.

A graduate of North Texas State College in 1941, Hughes received a masters' degree there in 1946, moving then to Tarleton State College for three years as coach, where he had been a student a decade earlier.

He was a four-sport letterman at Stephenville high school, and lettered in both basketball and tennis at Tarleton and North Texas State.

Hughes has done graduate work at the University of Texas and the University of Colorado toward a doctorate in education.

Bible said Hughes "has made the university a very efficient and successful freshman coach. Certainly he deserves a promotion. Equally important, he is of high moral character and a good influence on the boys."

NO NOISE OR SHOOTING

MACCLENNY, Fla. (AP)—Baker county commissioners wanted to ban hunting on Sunday. However, the commission attorney advised that such a regulation probably wouldn't stand up because state licenses list Sunday as a legal hunting day. So the commissioners found an ancient blue law forbidding loud noises, such as the discharge of firearms on Sunday. They instructed Sheriff Asa Coleman Jr. to enforce it.

Fred Petty, chairman of the Monroe Area Industrial Development Corporation's membership committee, announced yesterday that one - third of the contact assignments have been completed by members of the MAIDCO board of directors, although the membership drive does not officially open until Monday.

Members of the MAIDCO board have accepted the responsibility of pushing this year's membership drive.

Petty declared early response "very encouraging."

He returned to predict that "all assignments in the current membership drive may be completed by Wednesday." The drive officially lasts through Friday, when a report meeting was scheduled for 4 p.m. Petty indicated that it may be possible to hold the report meeting earlier in the waak.

Baton Rouge Man Gets Award From State's Jaycees

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Louisiana Junior Chamber of Commerce tonight presented its Distinguished Service Award for outstanding community service in 1955 to Edward Joseph Steimel of Baton Rouge.

The 31-year-old Steimel is executive director of the Public Affairs Research Council.

Steve Graham of Baton Rouge, chairman of the awards committee, said Steimel's chief contribution to his community's welfare was his work with handicapped children, principally in the field of cerebral palsy.

Steimel deserves most of the credit for the development of the Cerebral Palsy Center of Greater Baton Rouge, Graham said. He was the organization's first president and now is campaign director. Steimel also helped establish the Cerebral Palsy Foundation, Graham said.

Steimel showed his interest in community welfare programs by attending 175 civic meetings during 1955, Graham said.

The Baton Rouge Downtown Kiwanis Club sponsored Steimel.

Lybass and Joiner were apprehended by Little Rock, Ark., authorities earlier this week and returned to Monroe, according to Chief Tolbert.

The unclaimed motor is described as a 25 hp. Johnson. Any Rayville person believing this to be his motor may contact Hugh Tolbert, Chief of Monroe detective department.

Rainach Calls For

the traditional principles of the American government."

He said the key to this battle is the registration of unqualified Negroes in the South. "Integration is nit the overall aim," he said, "It is simply bait to retain support of the Negro voting bloc.

"If we lose this struggle, which I am sure will take from 10 to 20 years to resolve, we will not only lose our fight for segregation; we will lose many other American institutions, including the rights of the states, freedom of individuals and right to own private property."

Education, said Rainach, is the only solution to victory. "We must educate the people as to the true situation and we must awaken a rebirth of spirit in behalf of principals which made our nation great. Our biggest enemy is complacency."

Rainach said the same struggle is being waged on an international basis, and said the movement "had its origin in Moscow."

"The Daily Worker, official publication of the Communist party in the U.S., editorialized on Dec. 9 for occupation of the state of Mississippi by federal troops," said Rainach.

"It also on the same date editorialized for registration of every Negro person in Mississippi, regardless of their qualifications. This editorial is typical of a vast amount of documentary evidence I have in my files, and the publications of other radical organizations throughout the U.S. are echoing the Daily Worker's cries to occupy the South."

Rainach said the goal of those organizations is to get 450,000 Negroes — 32 per cent of the total vote—registered to vote in Louisiana. In some parishes, he said, this goal has already been reached. He said St. Landry has 40 per cent Negro registrants and that St. John the Baptist has 41 per cent. In Red River, 38.3 per cent of the registered voters are Negroes, compared to only 11.8 per cent in Caddo. Ouachita parish has about 18 per cent.

He said the results of bloc vote in Louisiana "is clearly evident in the recent Democratic primary election, as made clear by results in the two predominately Negro precincts in Shreveport."

According to The Shreveport Times compilation of election figures, Earl Long received 1,151 votes compared to a combined total of 155 for his four opponents in the two precincts referred to by Rainach. A similar situation was evidenced in Monroe.

"If we lose this struggle in the South, the South will change from the most conservative section of the United States to the most radical," warned Rainach.

"No longer will there be a group of conservative senators and congressmen in the U.S. Congress to obstruct the complete socialization of the U.S. government.

"The public opinion must be aroused to demand that laws on voting be applied fully to all registrants. We are in this position because the public has not been fully informed and we have grown lax over the years."

Rainach said the voting laws setting down qualifications were place in the Louisiana constitution in 1898. He said Louisiana had 100,000 Negro registrants in 1890, and that the number of Negro registrants dropped to 5,000 within ten years.

He pointed to a similar situation which existed in Mississippi, a state that had adopted Louisiana's voting laws almost entirely. When the Supreme Court decision was handed down, Rainach said, 40,000 Negroes were registered in Mississippi.

"I understand that within six months after the enforcement of the voting laws adopted from Louisiana, Mississippi's registration of Negro voters dropped to 25,000, and since then has dropped to 10,000," said Rainach.

"This was accomplished through the impartial enforcement of provisions for registration in laws almost identical to ours," he declared.

Rainach declared that "islands of resistance" —mostly in the 4th, 5th, 8th, and 1st congressional districts, constitute the state's "main hope for successful resistance statewide to the scheme to take over the state and local government."

Rainch listed voting laws as the provisions which registrars of voters have not complied with fully and said they have enabled the registration of "vast numbers" of unqualified Negroes.

1. A registrant in all cases must be able to establish his identity whenever the registrant is not known personally.

The purpose of this law, said Rainach, is to prevent persons with qualifications registering for unqualified people.

2. A voter shall have been a bonafide resident of the state for two years. If the registrar does not know this, he shall establish the fact.

The purpose of this law is to prevent outsiders from coming in at the last moment and registering so as to affect the outcome of an election. Rainach said this practice was common in the South during Reconstruction Days.

3. The constitution prescribes a form of application which each registrant shall use in applying to register to vote. This form must be entirely written, dated and signed by the applicant in the presence of the registrar without any assistance.

The purpose of the law, according to Rainach, is to determine an applicant's literacy, and is aimed at preventing registrants from bringing a sample form and copying it.

4. The laws provide that a registrant shall be of good character and shall understand the duties and obligations of citizenship under a Republican form of government. The registrars are required to establish the character of a registrant to prevent the registration of criminals and other persons of questionable character.

It also provides that the registrant establish an understanding of and loyalty to the American form of government, and to further show that the registrant understands this, it requires that he "be able to read any clause in this constitution, or the constitution of the United States, and to give a reasonable interpretation thereof."

Rainach said the only exemption made by the constitution is a specific provision for persons who are blind or otherwise incapacitated and who are of a sufficiently high intellectual level, though not able to read or write, to be registered. In this case, the registrar may register the person without a filling out of the forms.

"Registrars are specifically required to comply with all other requirements," said Rainach.

Northeast Offers Spanish Course To Aid Travelers

Organization of the class is set for Wednesday at 7 p.m. in room 201 A of the Library Building.

People are kinder to the visitor if he can speak the native language in a Spanish country. This is the response which Miss Hazel Mitchell found during her stays in various places where she studied and traveled. Miss Mitchell, assistant professor of Spanish at Northeast, will offer the course which carries no college credit.

The need of Spanish has increased with more vacations being spent in Mexico, Cuba, and Guatemala, the instructor explained. Then there are the travelers who go to Spain or South America. "Louisiana, in particular, is increasing her communication with Latin American countries, hence the greater interest and value of a knowledge of the Spanish language."

Students in the Spanish for Travelers class will learn such practical things as making reservations, buying a ticket, monetary units, making hotel arrangements and hints on shopping. Also included will be knowledge of programs—cultural and sports—and menus, which call for such different food than the American hotel or restaurant offers.

Geography, including pronunciation of names, will be a big factor in the study. The person who prepares to travel will be taught to read signs pertaining to highways, terminals, railways, plane service, shows and shops.

Miss Mitchell has found Spanish countries fascinating, and she thinks there will be almost as much interest in a class which assists others to prepare for happy traveling in such lands.

She studied last summer at the University of Madrid. Other work has been done at the National University of Mexico City, the University of Havana, which she attended on a scholarship from the Institute of Education, and in Cuba. She has traveled in Central American countries and throughout South America with the exception of Paraguay.

Besides teaching Spanish at Northeast, Miss Mitchell carried out some experimental teaching of this language to fourth grade pupils at Ouachita Parish Grammar School, and experiment which proved the ability of young students to learn foreign language.

Case Defiant

other persons involved in the affair.

Legally, Case could have refused to answer FBI questions. The Constitution stipulates that senators are not required to account, outside the Senate, for remarks they make on the Senate floor.

Acting Attorney General William P. Rogers announced that the FBI, acting at his request, had "interviewed" Case.

Rogers said he had instructed the FBI to "conduct such other investigations as may be necessary" to enable the Justice Department to "determine whether there has been a violation of federal laws."

A Justice Department spokesman said the FBI investigation was Rogers' own idea, and was not requested by any member of the Senate.

Rogers is in charge of the department in the absence of Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., who has been on an official visit to Puerto Rico.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) had announced earlier that leaders of both parties would act Monday to set up a special investigating committee unless Case agreed to give "full particulars" of the affair.

Case told reporters after a secret parley with Senate GOP leaders that he will "welcome an investigation by any properly-constituted authority."

Charges $2,500 Offered

The furore grew out of his charge on the Senate floor Friday that a lawyer had offered him a $2,500 campaign contribution on the assumption that he would vote for passage of the pending natural gas exemption bill.

Case said flatly that "I'm not going to give the name" by the Monday deadline set by Johnson. He said that simply announcing the lawyer's identity, without a formal investigation, would "serve no purpose."

Case also emphasized that it was other senators—not himself — who used the term "attempted bribe" to describe the affair.

Case said he ordered the money returned and now planned to vote against the bill.

The proposed investigation was announced after Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.), sponsor of the controversial gas bill, asserted that the attempted bribing charge had created a situation in which "anyone who votes for this bill (will be) suspected of having received such a campaign contribution."

The bill, passed by the House in a close vote last year, would remove independent natural gas producers from utility-type, federal price regulation. Supporters had previously believed that the chances for Senate passage were good, but the alleged bribery scandal raised doubts about the outcome in a scheduled showdown vote Monday afternoon.

Johnson, who has been a principal backer of the bill, told reporters after an emergency conference with Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland and others that the Senate leadership is determined to have a full airing of "any attempted bribery."

"The inference raised in this matter reflects upon the integrity of the Senate itself," Johnson said. "Unless the issue is resolved, it will haunt the Senate for years to come—beclouding the outcome of the (gas bill) vote."

He said the Senate leadership believes "the man's name should be made public and if any attempted bribery was involved, the case should be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

Case has steadfastly refused to divulge the identity of the attorney who he said, offered the money through a mutual friend. Johnson commented that Case was asked "11 times" Friday to reveal the name.

"Unless the senator from South Dakota voluntarily divulges the name of the fellow—and the impropriety if any," Johnson added, "the Senate is going to investigate."

He said the committee would have the "full authority of the Senate itself" in its attempt to "get the facts."

Johnson made the announcement after conferring with Knowland, Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.), chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, and Sen. Earle C. Clements (D-Ky.), assistant Democratic leader.

Johnson said he will move Monday, before Senate debate on the gas bill resumes, to set up a committee of two Republicans and two Democrats to conduct the inquiry. The proposal could be approved immediately by unanimous consent.

If there is an objection, he said, the issue will be raised again after the gas bill has been voted up or down. At that point a single objection could not block action.

Johnson commented that the special committee procedure was similar to that adopted when the Senate investigated the conduct of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and later censured him.

Drivers Escape Injury In Crash

A two-car accident at North Fourth and Pine, West Monroe, at 9:40 a.m. Saturday resulted in considerable damage to the cars, but no personal injuries to the occupants, West Monroe police reported last night.

Drivers of the cars were identified as Claude D. Dupree, 21, of 1513 Joe Bill street, West Monroe and Victor Pete Johnson, 40, of 809 Clayton street, West Monroe.

The accident occurred, police said, when Dupree was headed north on North Fourth and Johnson came off Pine and the two cars collided. Damage was estimated at over $100.

West Monroe Police Officer Floyd Temple investigated the accident. Both drivers were charged with reckless driving and causing a wreck.

Baton Rouge Man Gets Award From State's Jaycees

BATON ROUGE, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Louisiana Junior Chamber of Commerce tonight presented its Distinguished Service Award for outstanding community service in 1955 to Edward Joseph Steimel of Baton Rouge.

The 34-year-old Steimel is executive director of the Public Affairs Research Council.

Steve Graham of Baton Rouge, chairman of the awards committee, said Steimel's chief contribution to his community's welfare was his work with handicapped children, principally in the field of cerebral palsy.

Steimel deserves most of the credit for the development of the Cerebral Palsy Center of Greater Baton Rouge, Graham said. He was the organization's first president and now is campaign director. Steimel also helped establish the Cerebral Palsy Foundation, Graham said.

Steimel showed his interest in community welfare programs by attending 175 civic meetings during 1955, Graham said.

The Baton Rouge Downtown Kiwanis Club sponsored Steimel.

Police Seeking Owner Of Outboard Motor

The Monroe Detective Department has a stolen, unclaimed Rayville outboard motor in its possession, according to Chief Hugh Tolbert.

Discovery of the Rayville theft came after interrogation of two transient men, Billy Lybass and William K. Joiner. Earlier this week the pair admitted to the theft of a Monroe outboard motor and a Winnsboro motor, Tolbert said.

Lybass and Joiner were apprehended by Little Rock, Ark., authorities earlier this week and returned to Monroe, according to Chief Tolbert.

The unclaimed motor is described as a 2½ h.p. Johnson. Any Rayville person believing this to be his motor may contact Hugh Tolbert, Chief of Monroe detective department.

Rainach Calls For

the traditional principles of the American government."

He said the key to this battle is the registration of unqualified Negroes in the South. "Integration is nit the overall aim," he said, "It is simply bait to retain support of the Negro voting bloc.

"If we lose this struggle, which I am sure will take from 10 to 20 years to resolve, we will not only lose our fight for segregation; we will lose many other American institutions, including the rights of the states, freedom of individuals and right to own private property."

Education, said Rainach, is the only solution to victory. "We must educate the people as to the true situation and we must awaken a rebirth of spirit in behalf of principals which made our nation great. Our biggest enemy is complacency."

Rainach said the same struggle is being waged on an international basis, and said the movement "had its origin in Moscow."

"The Daily Worker, official publication of the Communist party in the U.S., editorialized on Dec. 9 for occupation of the state of Mississippi by federal troops," said Rainach.

"It also on the same date editorialized for registration of every Negro person in Mississippi, regardless of their qualifications. This editorial is typical of a vast amount of documentary evidence I have in my files, and the publications of other radical organizations throughout the U.S. are echoing the Daily Worker's cries to occupy the South."

Rainach said the goal of those organizations is to get 450,000 Negroes — 32 per cent of the total vote—registered to vote in Louisiana. In some parishes, he said, this goal has already been reached. He said St. Landry has 40 per cent Negro registrants and that St. John the Baptist has 41 per cent. In Red River, 38.3 per cent of the registered voters are Negroes, compared to only 11.8 per cent in Caddo. Ouachita parish has about 18 per cent.

He said the results of bloc voting in Louisiana "is clearly evident in the recent Democratic primary election, as made clear by results in the two predominately Negro precincts in Shreveport."

According to The Shreveport Times compilation of election figures, Earl Long received 1,151 votes compared to a combined total of 155 for his four opponents in the two precincts referred to by Rainach. A similar situation was evidenced in Monroe.

"If we lose this struggle in the South, the South will change from the most conservative section of the United States to the most radical," warned Rainach.

"No longer will there be a group of conservative senators and congressmen in the U.S. Congress to obstruct the complete socialization of the U.S. government.

"The public opinion must be aroused to demand that laws on voting be applied fully to all registrants. We are in this position because the public has not been fully informed and we have grown lax over the years."

Rainach said the voting laws setting down qualifications were place in the Louisiana constitution in 1898. He said Louisiana had 100,000 Negro registrants in 1890, and that the number of Negro registrants dropped to 5,000 within ten years.

He pointed to a similar situation which existed in Mississippi, a state that had adopted Louisiana's voting laws almost entirely. When the Supreme Court decision was handed down, Rainach said, 40,000 Negroes were registered in Mississippi.

"I understand that within six months after the enforcement of the voting laws adopted from Louisiana, Mississippi's registration of Negro voters dropped to 25,000, and since then has dropped to 10,000," said Rainach.

"This was accomplished through the impartial enforcement of provisions for registration in laws almost identical to ours," he declared.

Rainach declared that "islands of resistance" —mostly in the 4th, 5th, 8th, and 1st congressional districts, constitute the state's "main hope for successful resistance statewide to the scheme to take over the state and local government."

Rainch listed voting laws as the provisions which registrars of voters have not complied with fully and said they have enabled the registration of "vast numbers" of unqualified Negroes.

1. A registrant in all cases must be able to establish his identity whenever the registrant is not known personally.

The purpose of this law, said Rainach, is to prevent persons with qualifications registering for unqualified people.

2. A voter shall have been a bonafide resident of the state for two years. If the registrar does not know this, he shall establish the fact.

The purpose of this law is to prevent outsiders from coming in at the last moment and registering so as to affect the outcome of an election. Rainach said this practice was common in the South during Reconstruction Days.

3. The constitution prescribes a form of application which each registrant shall use in applying to register to vote. This form must be entirely written, dated and signed by the applicant in the presence of the registrar without any assistance.

The purpose of the law, according to Rainach, is to determine an applicant's literacy, and is aimed at preventing registrants from bringing a sample form and copying it.

4. The laws provide that a registrant shall be of good character and shall understand the duties and obligations of citizenship under a Republican form of government. The registrars are required to establish the character of a registrant to prevent the registration of criminals and other persons of questionable character.

It also provides that the registrant establish an understanding of and loyalty to the American form of government, and to further show that the registrant understands this, it requires that he "be able to read any clause in this constitution, or the constitution of the United States, and to give a reasonable interpretation thereof."

Rainach said the only exemption made by the constitution is a specific provision for persons who are blind or otherwise incapacitated and who are of a sufficiently high intellectual level, though not able to read or write, to be registered. In this case, the registrar may register the person without a filling out of the forms.

"Registrars are specifically required to comply with all other requirements," said Rainach.

Northeast Offers Spanish Course To Aid Travelers

Organization of the class is set for Wednesday at 7 p.m. in room 201 A of the Library Building.

People are kinder to the visitor if he can speak the native language in a Spanish country. This is the response which Miss Hazel Mitchell found during her stays in various places where she studied and traveled. Miss Mitchell, assistant professor of Spanish at Northeast, will offer the course which carries no college credit.

The need of Spanish has increased with more vacations being spent in Mexico, Cuba, and Guatemala, the instructor explained. Then there are the travelers who go to Spain or South America. "Louisiana, in particular, is increasing her communication with Latin American countries, hence the greater interest and value of a knowledge of the Spanish language."

Students in the Spanish for Travelers class will learn such practical things as making reservations, buying a ticket, monetary units, making hotel arrangements and hints on shopping. Also included will be knowledge of programs—cultural and sports—and menus, which call for such different food than the American hotel or restaurant offers.

Geography, including pronunciation of names, will be a big factor in the study. The person who prepares to travel will be taught to read signs pertaining to highways, terminals, railways, plane service, shows and shops.

Miss Mitchell has found Spanish countries fascinating, and she thinks there will be almost as much interest in a class which assists others to prepare for happy traveling in such lands.

She studied last summer at the University of Madrid. Other work has been done at the National University of Mexico City, the University of Havana, which she attended on a scholarship from the Institute of Education, and in Cuba. She has traveled in Central American countries and throughout South America with the exception of Paraguay.

Besides teaching Spanish at Northeast, Miss Mitchell carried out some experimental teaching of this language to fourth grade pupils at Ouachita Parish Grammar School, and experiment which proved the ability of young students to learn foreign language.

other persons involved in the affair.

Legally, Case could have refused to answer FBI questions. The Constitution stipulates that senators are not required to account, outside the Senate, for remarks they make on the Senate floor.

Acting Attorney General William P. Rogers announced that the FBI, acting at his request, had "interviewed" Case.

Rogers said he had instructed the FBI to "conduct such other investigations as may be necessary" to enable the Justice Department to "determine whether there has been a violation of federal laws."

A Justice Department spokesman said the FBI investigation was Rogers' own idea, and was not requested by any member of the Senate.

Rogers is in charge of the department in the absence of Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr., who has been on an official visit to Puerto Rico.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) had announced earlier that leaders of both parties would act Monday to set up a special investigating committee unless Case agreed to give "full particulars" of the affair.

Case told reporters after a secret parley with Senate GOP leaders that he will "welcome an investigation by any properly-constituted authority."

Charges $2,500 Offered

The furore grew out of his charge on the Senate floor Friday that a lawyer had offered him a $2,500 campaign contribution on the assumption that he would vote for passage of the pending natural gas exemption bill.

Case said flatly that "I'm not going to give the name" by the Monday deadline set by Johnson. He said that simply announcing the lawyer's identity, without a formal investigation, would "serve no purpose."

Case also emphasized that it was other senators—not himself — who used the term "attempted bribe" to describe the affair.

Case said he ordered the money returned and now planned to vote against the bill.

The proposed investigation was announced after Sen. J. W. Fulbright (D-Ark.), sponsor of the controversial gas bill, asserted that the attempted bribing charge had created a situation in which "anyone who votes for this bill (will be) suspected of having received such a campaign contribution."

The bill, passed by the House in a close vote last year, would remove independent natural gas producers from utility-type, federal price regulation. Supporters had previously believed that the chances for Senate passage were good, but the alleged bribery scandal raised doubts about the outcome in a scheduled showdown vote Monday afternoon.

Johnson, who has been a principal backer of the bill, told reporters after an emergency conference with Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland and others that the Senate leadership is determined to have a full airing of "any attempted bribery."

"The inference raised in this matter reflects upon the integrity of the Senate itself," Johnson said. "Unless the issue is resolved, it will haunt the Senate for years to come—beclouding the outcome of the (gas bill) vote."

He said the Senate leadership believes "the man's name should be made public and if any attempted bribery was involved, the case should be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law."

Case has steadfastly refused to divulge the identity of the attorney who he said, offered the money through a mutual friend. Johnson commented that Case was asked "11 times" Friday to reveal the name.

"Unless the senator from South Dakota voluntarily divulges the name of the fellow—and the impropriety if any," Johnson added, "the Senate is going to investigate."

He said the committee would have the "full authority of the Senate itself" in its attempt to "get the facts."

Johnson made the announcement after conferring with Knowland, Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.), chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, and Sen. Earle C. Clements (D-Ky.), assistant Democratic leader.

Johnson said he will move Monday, before Senate debate on the gas bill resumes, to set up a committee of two Republicans and two Democrats to conduct the inquiry. The proposal could be approved immediately by unanimous consent.

If there is an objection, he said, the issue will be raised again after the gas bill has been voted up or down. At that point a single objection could not block action.

Johnson. commented that the special committee procedure was similar to that adopted when the Senate investigated the conduct of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) and later censured him.

Drivers Escape Injury In Crash

A two-car accident at North Fourth and Pine, West Monroe, at 9:40 a.m. Saturday resulted in considerable damage to the cars, but no personal injuries to the occupants, West Monroe police reported last night.

Drivers of the cars were identified as Claude D. Dupree, 21, of 1513 Joe Bill street, West Monroe and Victor Pete Johnson, 40, of 809 Clayton street, West Monroe.

The accident occurred, police said, when Dupree was headed north on North Fourth and Johnson came off Pine and the two cars collided. Damage was estimated at over $100.

West Monroe Police Officer Floyd Temple investigated the accident. Both drivers were charged with reckless driving and causing a wreck.

he likes to keep up with the times—last year's

The LOOKLESS OOF is a retailer married to last year's business — to last year's stock, last year's ideas, last year's problems.

He can't see an opportunity two inches away, and wouldn't know a trend from a banana.

What he has learned from experience is what to do in case the past should ever return.

Fortunately the OOF is a rare creature.

Most retailers know that selling means keeping in tune with the times.

They're sensitive to changes in customer preferences, and re-stock their shelves accordingly.

They're quick to take advantage of manufacturers' newspaper advertising — by featuring the product in their own store displays . . . and by including the brand in their own newspaper ads.

Since they themselves advertise in newspapers, they know that any manufacturer who does the same is really in earnest — and really is out to win the market.

A modern retailer knows that the best advertising is the kind that reaches all his customers.

And he likes the manufacturer who thinks the same.

All business is local . . . and so are all newspapers!

FIRST VENTURE FOR BIG DRILLING PLATFORM—Now drilling its first exploratory well in the search for oil in Louisiana coastal waters is this gigantic permanent drilling platform placed into operation by Shell Oil Co. Twenty-nine steel piles penetrating the sea bottom for 140 feet support a drilling deck 82 by 96 feet, large enough to hold all the pipe, mud and cement needed. The derrick can drill six wells and then be shifted along the deck to drill six more. Atop the crew quarters, which are capable of accommodating 30 men, is a heliport. The structure is in 48 feet of water about 45 miles from the coast of St. Mary parish in Eugene Island Area Field 128, Block 116, which is leased jointly with Union Producing Co. Oil Companies Budget Billions For Expansion

HOUSTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Oil companies have budgeted billions for 1956 expansions and development.

Financial reports on 1955 indicates a record year and forecast a bright 1956.

Crude and product prices probably will be a bit higher.

Continental Oil Co. boosted its gasoline prices in Texas this week by one-half cent a gallon.

L. F. McCollum (Continental) president, predicted rising costs of labor and steel would make an industrywide crude price hike inescapable within 12 months.

McCollum said Continental plans to spend about 700 million dollars on capital expenditures the next five years.

M. J. Rathbone, president of Standard Oil Co. (NJ) told stockholders Jersey spent about 850 million dollars on capital investments last year and expects to spend about $1,200,000,000 this year.

Sidney Swensrud, chairman for Gulf Oil Corp., said Gulf's 1956 capital outlays probably will be greater than the 280 million dollars spent in 1955.

Frank Porter, president of the American Petroleum Institute, estimated the domestic industry's 1955 expenditures for improvement and development would approximate $5,400,000,000, bringing the post war total to about 38 billion.

A survey by the Oil and Gas Journal indicated a 1956 outlay of $5,676,000,000, up 22 per cent over last year. The magazine forecasts that drilling and producing capital expenditures will account for three billion dollars, natural gas over one billion, refining 850 million, marketing 411 million and transportation 210 million.

NOTICE

To The People Of Ward 1

It has come to my attention that rumors concerning whiskey and beer are being circulated in this ward. I want to take this means of expressing my views of the subject.

1. I Do Not Drink.
2. I Do Not Want Whiskey or Beer Back In Ward One.
3. Whiskey and Beer Can Never Come Back To Ward One Except By A General Election, Voted On By All The People.
4. I Will Fight Vigorously and Vote Against Any Effort To Bring Whiskey Back.

It is maliciously circulated that I want it back so I can sell it in my place of business. If you, the voters of Ward 1 were ever to vote whiskey back, Ward's Cafe could never sell it. The law states that it can't be sold within 500 feet of churches or schools. My place is within this distance of the Baptist Church and A. L. Smith School.

The Second Primary is to be held on Feb. 21st. Your vote and support will be earnestly appreciated.

Signed, A. P. WARD, JR.

FIRST VENTURE FOR BIG DRILLING PLATFORM—Now drilling its first exploratory well in the search for oil in Louisiana coastal waters is this gigantic permanent drilling platform placed into operation by Shell Oil Co. Twenty-nine steel piles penetrating the sea bottom for 140 feet support a drilling deck 82 by 96 feet, large enough to hold all the pipe, mud and cement needed. The derrick can drill six wells and then be shifted along the deck to drill six more. Atop the crew quarters, which are capable of accommodating 30 men, is a heliport. The structure is in 48 feet of water about 45 miles from the coast of St. Mary parish in Eugene Island Area Field 128, Block 116, which is leased jointly with Union Producing Co. Oil Companies Budget Billions For Expansion

HOUSTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Oil companies have budgeted billions for 1956 expansions and development.

Financial reports on 1955 indicates a record year and forecast a bright 1956.

Crude and products prices probably will be a bit higher.

Continental Oil Co. boosted its gasoline prices in Texas this week by one-half cent a gallon.

L. F. McCollum (Continental) president, predicted rising costs of labor and steel would make an industrywide crude price hike inescapable within 12 months.

McCollum said Continental plans to spend about 700 million dollars on capital expenditures the next five years.

M. J. Rathbone, president of Standard Oil Co. (NJ) told stockholders Jersey spent about 850 million dollars on capital investments last year and expects to spend about $1,200,000,000 this year.

Sidney Swensrud, chairman for Gulf Oil Corp., said Gulf's 1956 capital outlays probably will be greater than the 280 million dollars spent in 1955.

Frank Porter, president of the American Petroleum Institute, estimated the domestic industry's 1955 expenditures for improvement and development would approximate $5,400,000,000, bringing the post war total to about 38 billion.

A survey by the Oil and Gas Journal indicated a 1956 outlay of $5,676,000,000, up 22 per cent over last year. The magazine forecasts that drilling and producing capital expenditures will account for three billion dollars, natural gas over one billion, refining 850 million, marketing 411 million and transportation 210 million.

NOTICE

To The People Of Ward 1

It has come to my attention that rumors concerning whiskey and beer are being circulated in this ward. I want to take this means of expressing my views of the subject.

1. I Do Not Drink.
2. I Do Not Want Whiskey or Beer Back In Ward One.
3. Whiskey and Beer Can Never Come Back To Ward One Except By A General Election, Voted On By All The People.
4. I Will Fight Vigorously and Vote Against Any Effort To Bring Whiskey Back.

It is maliciously circulated that I want it back so I can sell it in my place of business. If you, the voters of Ward 1 were ever to vote whiskey back, Ward's Cafe could never sell it. The law states that it can't be sold within 500 feet of churches or schools. My place is within this distance of the Baptist Church and A. L. Smith School.

The Second Primary is to be held on Feb. 21st. Your vote and support will be earnestly appreciated.

MISS LILLIAN PATRICIA WHITE'S engagement and approaching marriage to Ira Wayne Noland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Noland of Lake Providence, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. White of this city. The wedding will be solemnized at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, March 3, at the First Methodist Church in Monroe.

Miss Kathleen Fox Becomes Bride Of John R. Harrison

Among interesting weddings of the winter season was that of Miss Kathleen Elizabeth Fox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Slavens Fox, to John Riley Harrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Matthews Harrison, of San Antonio, Tex.

The ceremony took place in the home of the bride on January 24, at 10 o'clock in the morning, with the Reverend W. H. McFadden, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church officiating before members of the immediate families and a few close friends. The wedding music was presented by Mrs. Florence Allbritton, at the piano, and Eloy Fominaya, violinist.

The vows were said in the music room before an improvised altar of tall candelabra, garlanded with smilax, and holding lighted tapers. Standards of calla lilies stood on each side.

Mr. Fox gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of candlelight satin was made on long torso lines. Alencon lace frosted with seed pearls, outlined the rounded neckline. Unpressed pleats at the waist formed softness in the full floor length skirt. She wore a veil of Rose Pointe lace belonging to her great grandmother and carried a bouquet of white orchids and valley lilies. Her only ornament was an heirloom necklace of pearls.

Mrs. Lawrence Fox was matron of honor and the bride's only attendant. Her dress was of aqua colored taffeta trimmed in matching lace. She carried Ophelia roses.

Mr. Lawrence Fox, brother of the bride, was Mr. Harrison's best man.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mrs. Fox chose for her daughter's wedding an early spring frock of navy sheer and a corsage of sweetheart roses. Bouquets of Ophelia roses were used throughout the reception rooms and in the dining room on the serving table. The bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake decorated with tiny calla lilies and lilies of the valley. Matching compotes of confections were placed at one end of the table and from the coffee service, at the opposite end, Mrs. L. T. Snyder, grandmother of the bride, poured.

After their wedding trip the young couple will reside at 2561 N. McGregor Drive, Houston, Tex., where both are students at the University of Houston. The bride traveled in a suit of beige wool. Her small hat was brown as were her other accessories. She wore an orchid from her bouquet.

Azalea Trail Festival Opens In Mobile Today

With Springtime only a few weeks away, Mobilians are making preparations now for the city's great annual floral celebration, the Azalea Trail Festival.

If the calculations are correct, the weather should be balmy for the opening day of the festival—Sunday, Feb. 5—and the first jewel-like blossoms on millions of azalea bushes should be making their first appearance.

And even if the flowers are a bit reluctant, visitors will be able to join in the revelry of Mobile's fabulous Mardi Gras (Fat Tuesday) Day. Usually the flowers are in time for the carnival festivities which include parades day and night, costuming, street dancing, and many other activities.

Even though the festival gets off to a great start with the Mardi Gras celebration, the major feature is the coronation of Miss America as queen of the Azalea Trail Festival.

The 1956 coronation is scheduled Sunday, March 4, at Ladd Memorial Stadium and featured on the two-hour program will be Eddie Fisher, one of the nation's top TV stars; Ted Malone, radio and TV commentator; and three other Miss Americas, Yolande Betbeze, 1951 Miss America; Evelyn Margaret Ay, 1954 Miss America, and Lee Ann Meriwether, 1955 Miss America.

During the entire two month festival, there will be all kinds of special events: music, drama, sports, etc. However, the major attraction at any Azalea Trail Festival is the vast array of flowers, literally millions of azaleas on every street with the 35-mile Azalea Trail route as the great showplace.

The Azalea Trail Festival is sponsored by the Mobile Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The big news in Federated Club work this month is the G.F.W.C. Carribean Cruise and Pan-American Conference. Club women from over the U. S. will sail from New York on February 6 and return February 23, attending the Pan-American Conference in San Jose, Costa Rica, February 15 and 16. The Conference will be held at the University of Costa Rica. The program will include women's contributions to good Inter-American understanding, the Status of Women, and the Meaning of True Democracy. The American Ambassador to Costa Rica, the Honorable Robert F. Woodward, will speak on the technical assistance program. The president of Costa Rica, Senor Jose Figuerres, will discuss the economic development of Costa Rica.

The president's wife, Senora Karen de Figuerres, as well as the American embassy and the minister of foreign relations, will each entertain the delegates. Clubwomen from the Latin American countries will attend the conference.

Mrs. B. V. Todd, of Lake Arthur, La., immediate past president of L.F.W.C. and presently serving as G.F.W.C. chairman of subscriptions, Clubwoman Magazine, will represent Louisiana at the Pan American conference.

February is "Report Month" in Federation. Reports of work accomplished must be tabulated and reported — starting on the club level and following through to General Federation of Womn's Clubs level. Only in prompt and proper reporting may the cumulative efforts of some 11,000,000 clubwomen be credited to our great organization.

Welcome to Louisiana Federation, the following new clubs: Lyceum Club, Lake Charles. President, Mrs. R. Eric Vige. Occasio Club, Shreveport. President, Mrs. Lloyd L. Waite. Suburban Woman's Club, Arabi. President, Mrs. Irvin Janseen, Jr. The Altrusian Club, New Iberia. President, Mrs. E. J. Engel.

Additional clubs in the state, entered in the community achievement contest are: 1. L'Heure d'Amie, Lafayette. 2. Allied Arts Club, Shreveport. 3. North Highlands Woman's Club, Shreveport. 4. Les Amis Club, New Iberia. 5. Vinton Literary Club, Vinton. 6. Kuwot Study Club, Morringsport. 7. Young Women's Service Club, Arcadia. 8. Grand Isle Woman's Club, Grand Isle.

The purpose of this contest: to improve conditions in communities throughout the U. S. and abroad. Valuable prizes are offered to the high score clubs—but every club wins by contributing service to local communities.

District and Club News:

Woman's Club of Greenwood reports progress on their project of improving the Town Square to be used as a children's playground.

Young Women's Service Club, Arcadia, reports they sponsored a rummage sale and cleared $225.00 for their projects. They have chosen, as a project: "Improving the Recreational Facilities for the Young People of Arcadia."

From Fifth District: Mrs. Tom Leos, president of the Magnolia Study Club, reports the organization of a new club—Twin City Study Club, of Monroe.

The Altrurian Book Club, West Monroe, held a silver anniversary tea in the home of Mrs. S. H. Humphries, honoring charter members, Mrs. C. E. Faulk, Mrs. R. B. Henry, and Mrs. D. C. Metcalf.

We are deeply grieved to learn of the death of 17-year-old Charles Henry Nolan of January 2, a victim of coronary thrombosis. Charles, an unusually brilliant senior at Oak Ridge High School, was the son of our friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Nolan, Oak Ridge. Mrs. Nolan is a member of L. F. W. C. Board of Directors.

From Sixth District: Sixth District has been working enthusiastically on the anti-litter campaign. They have distributed 1000 litter bags.

The eight clubs in and near Bogalusa had a splendid meeting at Pine Tree Inn, Bogalusa. Their program was on "Know Your America."

The Bacon Rouge Clubs presented a United Nations Day program on TV. Each club was represented on the program.

Mrs. B. G. Sitton, president of sixth district, represented her district at a meeting celebration the 25th anniversary of the Sullivan Memorial Trade School.

Convention time is almost on us. Conventions in the districts will be held during the month preceding the L.F.W.C. 57th Annual Convention in Alexandria April 5-6-7, 1956, and the G.F.W.C. will hold its 65th Annual Convention in Kansas City, Mo., May 14-18, 1956.

This is election year for all levels of federation. Nominations will soon be made public, and keen interest is being evidenced in the forthcoming list of clubwomen who will be nominated as candidates for offices of leadership of Federated Club work.

Girl Scout News

By now most of our readers know that the Girl Scout office has been moved to 513 Breard. Drop in and see for yourselves how nice everything looks. There's more parking room and the new location makes the office more convenient for many parts of town. Now that the office will serve the surrounding parishes when the Silver Waters Council is chartered, it has become important to be more centrally located. We'll miss the old house, in a way, when it is moved away from the corner we have long associated with Girl Scouting.

It always pleases us to hear of troops carrying out activities together. It just sounds more Girl Scouty. Recently Troop 35, as one of the homemaking activities in second class, invited Troop 9 to visit on a regular meeting day. In preparation, the hostess troop planned to make introductions, to serve refreshments, and to plan games. The guests in turn helped the hostesses with a craft project.

Mrs. E. J. Norman is leader of Troop 35, which is made up of sixth-grade girls at Crosley School. Mrs. Bill Hanson is the new assistant leader. Leader of Troop 9 is Mrs. G. P. Jordan and the girls are sixth-graders at Mitchell School. Next year the girls will go to the same school, which makes it even nicer for them to get together.

Needless to say, Troop 9 expects to return the invitation. Their leader says her girls are the outdoor type, who love to hike and explore, cook out, and bring back all the curiosities they find. What could be more fun than an outdoor activity together.

Lake Monroe, "going places and doing things." Troop 2, under the leadership of Mrs. Louis Masur and Mrs. George Wright, Jr., has planned several trips for the spring. Carrying out one of them, the troop visited the museum at Northeast State College, where they paid special attention to the Indian relics.

Another program activity has been the making of telephone cards on which the girls have placed phone numbers. They've had fun and worthwhile activity practicing how to make calls in emergencies.

The Girl Planning Board set February 21 for its next meeting. At that time they will bring back ideas from their troops on Girl Scout Week and the Juliette Low Fund. They also discussed the cookie sale, set for February 27-March 17.

Frozen Pre-Cooked Foods Are Safe

Many people get quite concerned over the possibility of food poisoning from frozen foods stored over the recommended period.

Studies on growth and toxin production of the botulinum bacillus (clostridium botulinum) in precooked frozen food have brought out these facts.

Incubation temperature, incubation period, botulinum spore level were investigated in relation to the development of toxin in chicken-a-la-king. No toxin was found in samples that had been frozen, stored at 10 degrees F for 20 to 36 days and examined immediately after defrosting. No toxins were found in samples held at 50 degrees F for five days after frozen storage. Toxins were found however, in some of the samples held at 86 degrees F for two to five days.

This is a fine time to select your camellia plants as they are in bloom now.

First Annual Home Show, Spring Festival Planned

Monroe's First Annual Home Show and Spring Festival plans officially got underway yesterday when W. L. Dean, president, Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders, regional chapter of National Association of Home Builders, signed the first contract for exhibitor's space. The show which is under direct auspices of the Association, will be held at the Fair Grounds May 8 through 13 and will utilize both buildings as well as a huge circus type tent which will be used to house the larger exhibits.

The six day exposition will present for the first time all the items that go into the building, landscaping, furnishing, decorating, repairing and maintaining the typical Monroe home.

Home owners, prospective home owners, and all visitors will find on display a vast array of the newest in materials, products and services that make for pleasant and gracious living. Integral factors such as plumbing, lighting, appliances, air conditioning, furniture and services will be prominently displayed.

Daily ntertainment features, contests and even a cooking school for the ladies are plus attractions being planned by the committee.

Members of the Home Show Committee and president Dean were recent visitors to the Annual Convention of the National Association of Home Builders in Chicago where they observed at first hand and learned many of the techniques of presenting the newest and best in building to the public.

Tom MacKay, vice president, Row and Associates, New Orleans, national home show producers, will direct production of the Monroe Home Show for the Northeast Louisiana Association of Home Builders.

Advance offices for the show have been opened at 506 North Third St.

Army Engineers Okay Plans For Helena Bridge

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — UP —Army Engineers put their okay on plans and a site for an $11 million bridge across the Mississippi river near Helena, Ark.

Col. E. B. Downing, district engineer, said a Kansas City engineering firm, Howard, Needles, Tammen and Gergendoff, will supervise construction.

The bridge is a joint project of the Arkansas and Mississippi highway departments.

It will be built about two miles south of Helena and will be financed mainly through revenue bonds. Toll collections will be used to retire the bonds.

The bridge will be about one mile in length.

Arkansas highway officials said the action cleared the way for "completion of plans and the taking of bids for construction."

Arkansas will build about one-half mile of approach road south of Helena while Mississippi will build about six miles of connecting road between the new bridge and highway 61 between Tunica and Clarksdale, Miss.

'Family Of Week' In Cal. Has Local Parents

"The Family of the Week", according to "The Valley Bomber", California publication, is composed of Major and Mrs. Winston E. Moore, and comprises also two sons Gene and Nathan. Mrs. Moore was before her marriage, Miss Mary Jane Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Davis, 1811 N. Fourth St., of Monroe.

An entire page in the "Valley Bomber" is devoted to the unusual achievements of Major Moore who from a Brockton (Mass.) high school, where he starred as clarinet player, he has advanced in the U.S. Army to the rank of Major. He was one of the first men to join the 4017th which recently observed its first birthday. In his line of duty, the major has taught men to fly practically every bomber used in SAC.

It took just 13 years for the major to advance to his present position in the Army.

After he graduated from high school, Major Moore decided on life in the army and enlisted in the air corps in November 1942. As he wanted to fly, he was sent to Syracuse university for a semester where he brushed up on the basic courses required for a pilot, such as math, physics, and general science. After this semester he took cadet training with the Central Training command, doing most of his studying in Texas.

Upon completing his training, he was assigned as instructor on the B-17 and B-29 in Louisiana. In June 1944, he met his wife-to-be. In May 1945 they were married. Miss Davis was a graduate of Louisiana State University in 1945.

In 1947, while Major Moore was stationed in Keesler AFB, Miss., Winston E. Moore was born. Soon after he became a father, the major went on a "six week" TDY to Germany, which stretched into seven months. During this time he flew 143 C-24 flights on the famous Berlin airlift.

The major's return to the States in 1949 launched him on a long training mission. He studied the B-29 and B-36 at Rapid City, S. Dak., then moved to Ellington AFB, Houston, Tex. for navigation instruction, then sharpened his knowledge of radar, bombardment and navigation techniques at Mather AFB, Calif.

"The Big Chance", found Major Moore at the Boeing plant in Wichita, Kans. in 1951 as he become proficient on the new B-47. In December 1951, a second son, Nathan, was born. After he completed the course, he was assigned to the 305th Bomb Wing MacDill AFB, Fla. as instructor pilot. In 1953 the family moved to Barksdale AFB, La., where Major Moore served with the 301 and 376th Bomb Wings.

Major Moore was one of the first men to train on SAC's newest bomber, the B-52 as he attended the B-52 ground course held by the Boeing Aircraft Company in Seattle, Wash. Concerning the B-52 he said: "It's the finest aircraft I've ever flown."

Mrs. Moore indicated, the story told, her attachment for the air force. "My father was a resident engineer who would build a road or bridge and then move on."

This couple is exceptionally fond of their two sons, Gene the oldest, at eight years, already shows indication that he would like to follow in his father's footsteps, and the younger one, Nathan, delights in Davy Crockett tales of adventure.

Powdered dry mustard, mixed with butter, adds flavor to cold meat sandwiches. It's good with canapes too.

Gov. Kennon Short One Convict-Valet

BATON ROUGE — UP — Gov. Robert Kennon was short one valet today.

Earl Shaw, 48-year-old Negro trusty convict from the state penitentiary, is back at Angola after "he fouled up" by stealing a state police truck, picking up a girl friend and then wrecking the truck.

Shaw took the truck from behind the governor's mansion and picked up long-time friend Cecilia Mathews for an evening of fun. But he rammed into a car and the car's occupants grabbed him when he tried to run.

Miss Mathews suffered a broken leg in the accident.

State police said, "He fouled up." So back to prison he went.

But the governor's pants situation may not be too pressing today. He is off on a hunting trip and doesn't even know that his valet is gone.

THE HOME SHIFT—

Gladiolas Take 100 Days To Bloom

The little yellow butter cups and paper white narcissus are blooming along with the flowering quince. What an interesting combination! Especially if you have the white quince. I cut two stems Saturday, put them in a holder in a flat bowl and had a beautiful arrangement. The branches are so stiff and modern. No fading over, limp and droopy.

I'm sure you know the quince comes in white and pale pink to red. After this shrub has bloomed is the time to prune. Cut oldest canes, down low where they come out of the ground. Now is the time to fertilize. Spray with oil emulsion after the danger of freeze is over, when you spray other camellias, azaleas, gardenias, hedges and ligustrum.

Back to the bulbs. The early buttercups and paper white narcissus are among our most satisfactory bulbs. They respond to care but will stay in the same place for years and bloom their hearts out for us, if neglected. They bloom early when we're just hungry for color in the garden and house.

Other Garden Jobs

If you're interested in planting a moss tree, the varieties recommended for North Louisiana are Elliot, Jeanette, Stuart, Desirable, Schley. In answer to questions about the Madan the specialists say it is slow on rich heavy soils, if you like a lacey air to look at and a fast growing tree. It lacks quality, however, and does not last many years.

Gladiolas can be planted the last of February. If you wish, you can plant corms every two weeks, through March, to have blooms over a long period. If you're planning a special event, like a wedding or tea, and want gladiolas for decoration, allow one hundred days from time of planting to time of bloom. Check varieties in your seed stores and nurseries. They usually have pictures for you to select from. Glads like a rich, loamy soil. Ask the seedsman how deep to plant. If planted too shallow the plants fall over in the dirt. Of course, it's best to stake glads.

February is a good month to plant dahlias. Stake at time of planting so as not to injure the tubers later on.

This is the ideal month to plant, prune and spray roses. Spray not only the plant but the ground around. Use fresh mulch. Sprays recommended for leaf spot are: Bordeaux mixture, Diathane Z-78, Tri basic copper sulphate, Fermate or Manzote. It is wise to mix some nicotine product with the spray to get the aphids.

As your camellias quit blooming, fertilize with 8-8-8 or 5-10-5. Use one handful for each foot of height. A three foot plant would need three handsful, a five foot plant, five handsful, etc. That's a single handful and not double.

When you're pruning and digging up overflow plants, pass these on to a new home owner. Can you remember the days when you were a new gardener? You cherish the memories of each plant, bulb or cutting given you.

Style Tips

While in New Orleans, I noted the store windows were featuring sapphire blue, navy, reds, new black, the beige family on into yellow. A new shade was Marsh Beige, named for Louisiana's marshes, shown with parakeet blue. Many of the linens were trimmed in satin, often just a tiny corded bias around collars, cuffs and pockets. As in the shops here, the ensemble was featured — either the linen suit or print dress with linen coat. Many coats were of the duster type.

The teen-agers still prefer the full skirt, but the sheath was cergenly leading. Sheath for formal in lace, beaded or sequined linen—sheath for street and general wear. Much embroidered linen and polished cotton was shown. All of these mentioned items you'll find in your local shops, too.

Patterns featured the torso look, the tight fitted bodice and the old fashion skirt waist dress—but with the fitted skirt. Pockets—high and the set in type are seen on most dresses — even afternoon and dinner. The new cottons are simply out of this world, appropriate for every occasion from house dresses to dresses for tea with Mamie.

State Flower Show

Over a cup of coffee, Lucille Hunt told me about plans for the State Flower Show in Ruston Saturday, March 3 and Sunday, March 4. Sunday is a nice day for the family who likes to take a ride in the afternoon. Believe me that's a ride to Ruston that will be well worth taking.

Mr. John Wright reminded growers last Wednesday on "Open House" to grow their house plants and select horticulture speciman with care. Mr. Wright, Mrs. Hunt and others have worked diligently on this show, so study your schedule and make your entries. We're honored to have the State Flower Show in northeast Louisiana.

Food News

The average American family spends about twenty-five per cent of its income for food. As incomes have risen so has the amount spent. This has not always meant that families were buying more food, but that they were demanding more marketing services along with the food purchases.

Prepared mixes, partially prepared mixes, frozen food, specially packaged foods — these are the services that consumers now demand and seem willing to pay for. The cost of these services, added to the price of food, is an important factor in widening the spread between what the farmer receives for the food he sells and the price consumers pay for what they buy.

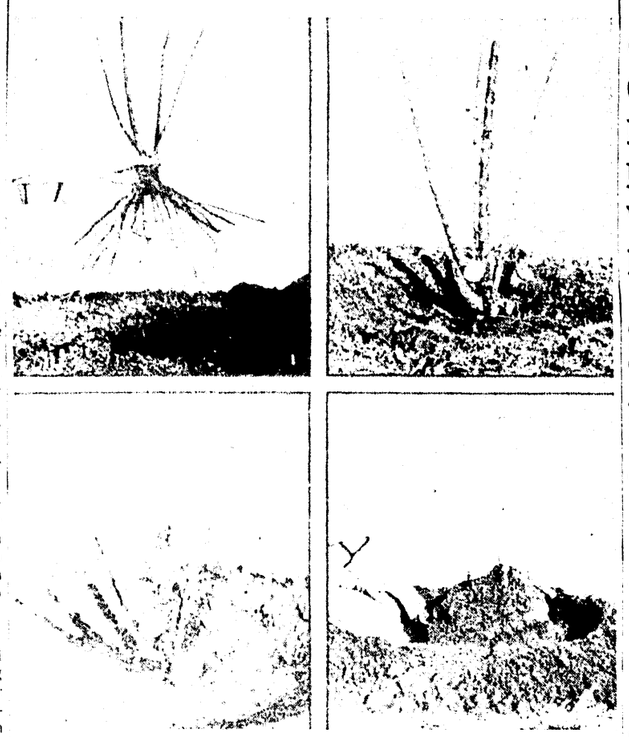
The amount spent for food by most consumers is enough to provide them with the food they need for good nutrition but unfortunately it is not always spent for these items. Not everyone knows what foods supply the nutrients they need. Some are not yet convinced that the kind of food eaten is as important as the amount. Tune in each Friday on "Open House" for marketing news as it applies to the housewife, with food values and food preparation.

Announcements

Your "Open House" shows for next week are as follows: Monday, Mrs. Ona Blondin from Lincoln Parish will either cane a chair or cover a cushion for a divan or chair; Tuesday, Ruth Gully from West Carroll will demonstrate "Pictures in the Home." Wednesday, Mary Margaret will bring the three blue ribbon flower arrangements and we'll have some gardening; Thursday, we'll select and buy material for a coat; Friday is Marketing Day with Mildred and Mammy.

See you next Sunday.

How To Plant A Rosebush



THIS IS WHAT A GOOD No. 1 rosebush looks like. Note the sturdy main canes (upper left) and the healthy fibrous root system. First step is to dig a hole deep enough to allow the roots to spread. Next place the plant so that the junction of the root and bud union will be about one inch above ground level (upper right) after hole is filled in. Spread the roots, cover with top soil and firm soil around plant, leaving a basin for watering. Now your rose is planted, and if it has not already been pruned at the nursery, (lower left) you must cut it back now. About 8 or 10 inches above bud union is a good height. Last step; in order to protect newly planted rose from freezing in colder climates or drying out in milder ones while in its early stages, mound soil well up over bud union as shown.

For Exhibitors And Judges

Point Scoring Camellias

DR. R. H. HANCHEY
Louisiana State University

(Reprinted from the Louisiana Garden Newsletter, Volume VI, Number 6, through the courtesy of Dr. Hanchey.)

Different flower forms in camellias and the fact that one plant may produce blooms of different forms make classification BY VARIETY the best plan. There may be a class of one if worthy.

Single Type, means a single flower form with five to nine petals outside stamens and pistils. Its center with petals and calyx removed is a cylinder which when broken in two pieces shows no vegetative parts. The cylinder of staminate and pistillate parts with its petals and calyx form a perfect flower. "Kimberly" is an example and a high percentage of seedlings fall into this group.

Semi-Double, is similar to single but has ten or more, usually fourteen to twenty petals. Examples are "Imura" "Sarasa" and Ville de Nantes".

Incomplete Double, show fewer stamens than semis and reproductive parts sometimes go vegetative. There are three divisions: 1. Small Petals or Petaloids as "Chandleri Elegans"; 2. Large Petals or Petaloids as "Woodville Red" and "Mrs. Chas Cobb", sometimes called peony form; and 3. Large and Small Petals and Petaloids with "Lindsey Neil" and P'ingst originations as examples. The variegate "Elizabeth LeBey" won Tri-color in the recent New Orleans show.

Complete Doubles are divided into Complete and Incomplete Imbricated.

Complete Imbricated, with petals from outermost part of bloom which overlap like shingles on a roof leaving a small or no bud in the center, include "Alba Plena", "Pink Perfection", "Sarah Frost", "La Peppermint" "Cheerfulness" and a rare blossom of Debutante and Rubra Virginalis. While petals on the above varieties turn down and a curled petal is a fault, on "Laurel Leaf" all petals should should turn up or cup.

Complete Double Incomplete Imbricated, with petals which overlap like shingles on a roof, retain a large unopen center or bud. They usually are past their peak before opening but when they open the tendency is to show a pistil and stemens. "Purple Dawn" or Mathotianas have good substance and keeping qualities but the texture is a bit coarse. Do not judge C. M. Hovey or other visur varities placed in Purple Dawn Class. Favor purple over rose color.

Irregular Doubles, or peony types are represented by "Prof. Sargent" and "Debutante". Anthers and stamens if present are concealed. Other factors being equal favor a specimen with no anthers showing. Compact blossems keep better than those loosely formed.

Tiered Flower Form, with petals cupped up, describes "Lady Hume's Blush", "K. Sawada" and Candidissima which are star-like.

Many spots win over one or two in variegated classes. "Effington White" or "Waterloo" show fine texture at peak. Sun scale, malformed leaves and white scale not removed in grooming are faults. Gold anthers are at peak, tannish ones indicate age. Dr. Hanchey picks up specimens to judge condition and foliage. Condition of "Albana Plena" is tied up with substance and texture. Petals should fold back, not curl, faults are large centers, brown flecks due to environment and droop or will caused by low temperature or age.

American Camellia Society's Scale of Points is: Color 25, Form and Size 35, Substance and Texture 20, Condition 15, Foliage 5. Scale of Points for Louisiana Camellia Society are 15, 20, 10, 40 and 15. Drs. Kimbrough and Hanchey recommend 20, 25, 10, 40, 5. Spray and fertilize March 1st.

The available time for planting shrubs is relatively limited, so know what you are going to plant and where you are going to plant it. Make a plan now for addition to your shrub plantings.

February is the most important month of all in the feeding schedule for camellias, since the plants must have ample food when the buds are set for next year's bloom.

To repair a thin lawn, the sooner the seed is sown, the better the chances for success. You don't need to wait until the frost is out of the ground.

Garden Club Of Ruston Hilites Week's Events

Members of the Suburban Garden Club of Ruston staged a beautiful flower show at the Garden Center this week. All exhibits were point scored by an accredited judge. In the horticulture section blue ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. C. B. White for narcissus grand soleil d'or, Mrs. Robert Wilder for Mahonia (Oregon Holly Grape). Mrs. White was also awarded a ribbon for red flowering quince.

Mrs. John A. Wright took top honors in the arrangement section. The arrangement was triangular in design featuring yellow, green and brown. Budding hydrangea stalks in brown established the line and tied in with the brown free form container. The line was continued with brilliant yellow marigolds (greenhouse grown) in graduated sizes. Bright green nephtytis foliage was placed at the base unifying the container with the design.

Mrs. J. D. Murry was awarded second place. An oval black footed container was used for the lovely line mass design of red flowering quince and Professor Sargent camellias. Simplicity of line and a minimum amount of plant material were emphasized in this arrangement.

Mrs. R. L. Vining designed a most colorful composition using dried plant material. The triangular design was placed in a modern oval container of a soft brown shade. The pattern was established with sea oats in a soft beige shade. The line was accented with brilliant yellow straw flowers, with a group of bronze red straw flowers as the center of interest. A spray of wheat was placed within the pattern background adding airiness and depth. Naturally dried magnolia leaves were placed low in the agreement. These were a natural light brown shade and provided transition in form and color. This permanent arrangement would be a welcome addition to any room.

Mr. John A. Wright, flower show school chairman announces the date for Flower Show School IV in Ruston. April 24, 25, and 26. Mrs. Ione Talbert of Fort Worth will teach arranging and flower show practice. Mrs. Talbert will be available to clubs in the Fifth District for lectures and workshops the week of April 16. If your club is interested in having Mrs. Talbert as a speaker, please contact her direct: Mrs. Ione Talbert, 2901 May Street, Forth Worth 10, Texas.

Here are other important dates for your calendar: Of course, the annual convention and eighth state flower show, March 3 and 4 in Ruston on the Louisiana Tech Campus. March 13. The Shreveport Garden Club Council will present Mrs. W. Harrel Wilson of Greenville, S. C. in a lecture demonstration on design in flower arranging, time 2-4 p.m. at the States Exhibit Auditorium. Mrs. Wilson is nationally known and it's promises to be an outstanding event. Tickets on sale at the Garden Center. Elsewhere on the garden page you will find a fine article by Dr. R. H. Hanchey of LSU on camellias for exhibit in flower shows. Don't miss it.

Start pruning now. Begin with grapes because they may lose a good deal of sap if pruned later in the spring. Prune the hardiest plants now, the tender ones later. Shrubs that bloomed in the summer should have last year's wood removed.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

Mulches Are Must For Dry Season

A real winter drought is about as unusual as "hen's teeth" in the south, but that is what we have been having all the way from San Antonio to Baltimore since autumn. When your columnist was in New Orleans a few weeks ago, people were as excited over a shower that came up as they are in the dry states. Even if there is a great deal of spring rainfall, we may not catch up by summer.

Any planting that has been done since September needs watching and watering. Shrubs that were set out after Christmas will need a weekly watering with the nozzle off. It is always a good practice to make circular dams of soil at the outer edge of the holes of freshly planted shrubs and trees in winter. In times of drought, it is really necessary to have these little reservoirs. They will hold the water as you pour it in full force with no nozzle on the hose. When each reservoir has been filled once or twice, you will know exactly how much watering has been done. The speed at which the water soaks in, too, will indicate how dry your soil is.

Mulches are certainly going to be a "must" this year. Even if the rainfall should be more than our "normal" amount, we have to remember that in many communities, the water table has been far below normal for several years. We can hardly expect conditions to return to what they were five years ago until we are well into another "wet cycle" again. Wells that went dry in the country three years back are still not producing. The experience of the big industries, of the farmer, the forester and even the home gardener have taught us the real value of water in this country. In times of protracted drought, water may well have to be rationed in towns and cities. The only defense the gardener has for his beloved plants when this happens is deep soil preparation, plenty of humus in the soil when it is prepared for planting and mulches over the soil at all times.

When banks of sterile subsoil are planted with ground covers or with such plants as daylilies, it is necessary to make either little furrows or good sized holes and fill them with the richest soil you can find. The holes can be dug with a post hole digger or with a nursery spade for larger plants. After the planting has been completed, topsoil and fertilizer should be scattered over the bank several inches deep. Straw or pine needles or even dry leaves should then be spread over the whole bank. If the bank is a very steep one, it may be necessary to peg down chicken wire over the plants and mulch to hold them in place while the plants are taking hold. Little short pegs or stakes can be driven into the ground throughout the bank planting to hold it together if wire is not to be used. The wire will disappear, however, as the plants grow over it.

In the South, all hardy vegetables such as rooterops and greens can be sown now, if you watch weather and soil conditions. Planting, in cold, wet ground, especially during the rainy season, shows up in poor results all season long.

Louisiana College Plans Focus Week

PINEVILLE, Feb. 4 (Special)—Louisiana college's annual Focus week, featuring the theme, "In All Thy Ways — God," is scheduled for Feb. 13-17 and will be sponsored jointly by the L. C. administration and the Department of Student Work of the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board.

George C. Herndon, dean of student affairs, who is directing the week, explained that the program "is patterned to relate Christian faith to daily living. Seeking God's will in professional and personal decisions will be kept in focus by our team of able Christian leaders representing many areas of life."

This nine-man team will be headed by Dr. G. Kearie Keegan, secretary of the Southern Baptist Student Department of the Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn. He will serve as coordinator of the five-day event.

Gladiolas Take 100 Days To Bloom

The little yellow butter cups and paper white narcissus are blooming along with the flowering quince. What an interesting combination! Especially if you have the white quince. I cut two stems Saturday, put them in a holder in a flat bowl and had a beautiful arrangement. The branches are so stiff and modern. No falling over, limp and droopy.

I'm sure you know the quince comes in white and pale pink to red. After this shrub has bloomed is the time to prune. Cut oldest canes, down low where they come out of the ground. Now is the time to fertilize. Spray with oil emulsion after the danger of freeze is over, when you spray other camellias, azaleas, gardenias, hedges and ligustrum.

Back to the bulbs. The early buttercups and paper white narcissus are among our most satisfactory bulbs. They respond to care—but will stay in the same place for years and bloom their hearts out for us, if neglected. They bloom early when we're just hungry for color in the garden and house.

Other Garden Jobs

If you're interested in planting a pecan tree, the varieties recommended for North Louisiana are Elliot, Jennings, Stuart, Desirable, Schley. In answer to questions about the Mahan: the specialists say it is okay on rich heavy soils, if you like a large nut to look at and a fast growing tree. It lacks quality, however, and does not last many years.

Gladiolas can be planted the last of February. If you wish, you can plant corms every two weeks, through March, to have blooms over a long period. If you're planning a special event, like a wedding or tea, and want gladiolas for decoration, allow one hundred days from time of planting to time of bloom. Check varieties in your seed stores and nurseries. They usually have pictures for you to select from. Glads like a rich, loamy soil. Ask the seedsman how deep to plant. If planted too shallow the plants fall over in the dirt. Of course, it's best to stake glads.

February is a good month to plant dahlias. Stake at time of planting so as not to injure the tubers later on.

This is the ideal month to plant, prune and spray roses. Spray not only the plant but the ground around. Use fresh mulch. Sprays recommended for leaf spot are: Bordeaux mixture, Diathane Z-78, Tri basic copper sulphate, Fermate or Manzote. It is wise to mix some nicotine product with the spray to get the aphids.

As your camellias quit blooming, fertilize with 8-8-8 or 5-10-5. Use one handful for each foot of height. A three foot plant would need three handsful, a five foot plant, five handsful, etc. That's a single handful and not double.

When you're pruning and digging up overflow plants, pass these on to a new home owner. Can you remember the days when you were a new gardener? You cherish the memories of each plant, bulb or cutting given you.

Style Tips

While in New Orleans, I noted the store windows were featuring saphire blue, navy, reds, new black, the beige family on into yellow. A new shade was Marsh Biege, named for Louisiana's marshes, shown with parakeet blue. Many of the linens were trimmed in satin, often just a tiny corded bias around collars, cuffs and pockets. As in the shops here, the ensemble was featured — either the linen suit or print dress with linen coat. Many coats were of the duster type.

The teen-agers still prefer the full skirt, but the sheath was certainly leading. Sheath for formal in lace, beaded or sequined linen—sheath for street and general wear. Much embroidered linen and polished cotton was shown. All of these mentioned items you'll find in your local shops, too.

Patterns featured the torso look, the tight fitted bodice and the old faithful shirt waist dress—but—with the fitted skirt. Pockets—high and the set in type are seen on most dresses — even afternoon and dinner. The new cottons are simply out of this world, appropriate for every occasion from house dresses to dresses for tea with Mamie.

State Flower Show

Over a cup of coffee, Lucille Hunt told me about plans for the State Flower Show in Ruston Saturday, March 3 and Sunday, March 4. Sunday is a nice day for the family who likes to take a ride in the afternoon. Believe me that's a ride (to Ruston) that will be well worth taking.

Mr. John Wright reminded growers last Wednesday (on "Open House") to grow their house plants and select horticulture speciman with care. Mr. Wright, Mrs. Hunt and others have worked diligently on this show, so study your schedule and make your entries. We're honored to have the State Flower Show in northeast Louisiana.

Food News

The average American family spends about twenty-five per cent of its income for food. As incomes have risen so has the amount spent. This has not always meant that families were buying more food, but that they were demanding more marketing services along with the food purchases.

Prepared mixes; partially prepared mixes, frozen food, specially packaged foods — these are the services that consumers now demand and seem willing to pay for. The cost of these services, added to the price of food, is an important factor in widening the spread between what the farmer receives for the food he sells and the price consumers pay for what they buy.

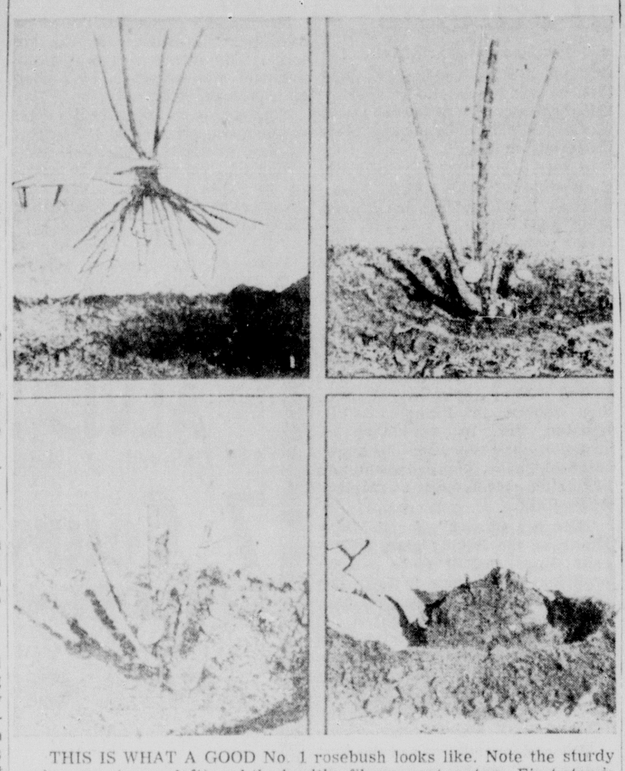
The amount spent for food by most consumers is enough to provide them with the food they need for good nutrition but unfortunately it is not always spent for these items. Not everyone knows what foods supply the nutrients they need. Some are not yet convinced that the kind of food eaten is as important as the amount. Tune in each Friday on "Open House" for marketing news as it applies to the housewife, with food values and food preparation.

Announcements

Your "Open House" shows for next week are as follows: Monday, Mrs. Ona Blondin from Lincoln Parish will either cane a chair or cover a cushion for a divan or chair; Tuesday, Ruth Gully from West Carroll will demonstrate "Pictures in the Home." Wednesday, Mary Margaret will bring the three blue ribbon flower arrangements and we'll have some gardening; Thursday, we'll select and buy material for a coat; Friday is Marketing Day with Mildred and Mammy.

See you next Sunday.

How To Plant A Rosebush



THIS IS WHAT A GOOD No. 1 rosebush looks like. Note the sturdy main canes (upper left) and the healthy fibrous root system. First step is to dig a hole deep enough to allow the roots to spread. Next place the plant so that the junction of the root and bud union will be about one inch above ground level (upper right) after hole is filled in. Spread the roots, cover with top soil and firm soil around plant, leaving a basin for watering. Now your rose is planted, and if it has not already been pruned at the nursery, (lower left) you must cut it back now. About 8 or 10 inches above bud union is a good height. Last step; in order to protect newly planted rose from freezing in colder climates or drying out in milder ones while in its early stages, mound soil well up over bud union as shown.

Point Scoring Camellias

DR. R. H. HANCHEY
Louisiana State University

(Reprinted from the Louisiana Garden Club Newsletter, February 1956 Horticulture Notes by Sara G. Gladney.)

Different flower forms in camellias and the fact that one plant may produce blooms of different forms make classification BY VARIETY the best plan. There may be a class of one if worthy.

Single Type, means a single flower form with five to nine petals outside stamens and pistils. Its center with petals and calyx removed is a cylinder which when broken in two pieces shows no vegetative parts. The cylinder of staminate and pistillate parts with its petals and calyx form a perfect flower. "Kimberly" is an example and a high percentage of seedlings fall into this group.

Semi-Double, is similar to single but has ten or more, usually fourteen to twenty petals. Examples are "Imura" "Sarasa" and Ville de Nantes".

Incomplete Double, show fewer staments than semi-s and reproductive parts sometimes go vegetative. There are three divisions: 1. Small Petals or Petaloids as "Chandleri Elegans"; 2. Large Petals or Petaloids as "Woodville Red" and "Mrs. Chas. Cobb", sometimes called peony form; and 3. Large and Small Petals and Petaloids with "Lindsey Neil" and Pfingstl originations as examples. The variegate "Elizabeth LeBey" won Tri-color in the recent New Orleans show.

Complete Doubles are divided into Complete and Incomplete Imbricated.

Complete Inbricated, with petals from outermost part of bloom which overlap like shingles on a roof leaving a small or no bud in the center, include "Alba Plena", "Pink Perfection", "Sarah Frost", "La Peppermint" "Cheerfulness" and a rare blossom of Debutante and Rubra Virginalis. While petals on the above varieties turn down and a curled petal is a fault, on "Laurel Leaf" all petals should should turn up or cup.

Complete Double Incomplete Inbricated, with petals which overlap like shingles on a roof, retain a large unopen center or bud. They usually are past their peak before opening but when they open the tendency is to show a pistil and stemens. "Purple Dawn" or Mathotianas have good substance and keeping qualities but the texture is a bit coarse. Do not judge C. M. Hovey or other visur varities placed in Purple Dawn Class. Favor purple over rose color.

Irregular Doubles, or peony types are represented by "Prof. Sargent" and "Debutante". Anthers and stamens if present are concealed. Other factors being equal favor a specimen with no anthers showing. Compact blossoms keep better than those loosely formed.

Tiered Flower Form, with petals cupped up, describes "Lady Hume's Blush", "K. Sawada" and Candidissima which are star-like.

Many spots win over one or two in variegated classes. "Effington White" or "Waterloo" show fine texture at peak. Sun scale, malformed leaves and white scale not removed in grooming are faults. Gold anthers are at peak, tannish ones indicate age. Dr. Hanchey picks up specimens to judge condition and foliage. Condition of "Albana Plena" is tied up with substance and texture. Petals should fold back, not curl, faults are large centers, brown flecks due to environment and droop or wilt caused by low temperature or age.

American Camellia Society's Scale of Points is: Color 25, Form and Size 35, Substance and Texture 20, Condition 15, Foliage 5. Scale of Points for Louisiana Camellia Society are 15, 20, 10, 40 and 15. Drs. Kimbrough and Hanchey recommend 20, 25, 10, 40, 5. Spray and fertilize March 1st.

The available time for planting shrubs is relatively limited, so know what you are going to plant and where you are going to plant it. Make a plan now for addition to your shrub plantings.

The Sounding Board

By JOHN CALE

Unless a good duck caller may be classified as a musical artist, Thursday night's weather was not very conducive to concert-going.

But attendance at the Twin City Symphony's second concert at Brown Hall was good. And, while this column has been critical of the size of audiences at any musical events, loyalty and enthusiasm shown by the everygrowing number who do attend is indeed praiseworthy.

Note to the powers that be: boys and girls of the many high school bands in the area would benefit by hearing our orchestra perform. The organization has reached a point where any instrumentalist could pick up valuable information on phrasing and shading. These qualities hold the attention of any listener whether he be a casual music lover or perhaps a festival judge.

The program was well balanced: A Mozart overture (Don Giovanni), a Haydn symphony (the "Oxford" in G Major), a Liszt symphonic poem (Les Preludes), a Delius work (On Hearing the First Cuckoo in Spring), and Gershwin's Overture to "Of Thee I Sing."

Many who were on hand for the orchestra's very first concert gave a nod of satisfaction after the finale of the Haydn symphony. It is one thing to hear an established orchestra do a finished job. But the thrill is even greater when a home grown plant begins to bloom.

A constructive remark or two at my own risk: The Don Giovanni Overture lacked the vigor of a composition written in one night and performed the next afternoon; the horns had some difficulty in the trio section of the Minuet of the Haydn symphony but warmed up adequately in the Liszt number after intermission; there was some good woodwind playing after the first movement of the Haydn symphony; in fact, the first oboe and clarinet players did some first class work on the solo passages in Les Preludes.

The strings carry the burden of virtually all orchestral pieces, and the fact that they have improved steadily must be mentioned.

It is understood that the Twin City Symphony plans at least one more concert this season. Make plans to attend even if it rains again.

Confederates Do Not Want Yankee Funds

ATLANTA —UP— Southerners rallied to defend the three surviving Confederate veterans Saturday from the "insult" of getting Yankee money to pay their medical bills.

Officials of the United Daughters of the Confederacy declared the fading old soldiers can get along without the pension proposals being considered by a House Judiciary subcommittee, thank you!

Southern congressmen introduced the proposals because Congress last year voted to pay the medical expenses of the last surviving veteran of the Union Army, Albert Woolson, Duluth, Minn.

If Florida's spry, 108-year-old William A. (Uncle Bill) Lundy needs medical aid he would be last to admit it.

Lundy, of Laurel Hill, Fla., gets a state pension, as do 113-year-old Walter E. Williams of Franklin, Tex., and John Salling, 108, of Slant, Va.

Mrs. Earl R. Ramsey, UDC president in Texas, said her organization took a firm stand last November against accepting federal aid of any kind for her state's last surviving Confederate veteran.

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Feb. 4 (Special) — The possibility of setting up a teen-age safety organization within the parish was discussed by local school representatives, who met with Forrest Gaines, state supervisor of safety education, last week. Four Persons Die In Wisconsin As Farm House Burns

SOLON SPRINGS, Wis.—UP — Four persons, including three children, were killed early Saturday in a fire which burned a farm home near here.

Victims were identified as Cecil Grover, 52, and three children of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Shaw, Julia, 12, Johnny, 9, and Anna, 3. The children's parents were in Eau Claire attending the funeral of a friend.

The Shaw farm home, 6 1-2 miles west of here, was burned to the ground by the blaze, which apparently was caused by an overheated wood stove.

Inexpert Hypnotism Is Said Dangerous

CHICAGO, FFeb. 4—UP—Hypnotism unless used by an expert can do irreparable harm, a New York psychiatrist warned Friday.

Dr. James A. Brussel, Willard, N. Y., said a "quack" can do "irreparable harm by his ability to produce hyponotic effects which he doesn't understand and doesn't know how to use."

Writing in the February issue of "Today's Health," published by the American Medical Association, Brussell said hypnotism is useful when used by trained specialists.

But he warned against the indiscriminate use of hypnotism by lay persons to "cure" symptoms, physical and mental, and to develop delusions such as "mastery of the mind."

Population's Shift Causes Church Worry

The shift of America's population from the rural areas to the nation's cities, and the building of new cities out of yesterday's farms and forests, pose almost insurmountable problems to the churches of both city and country home missions executives of the Methodist Church report to the denomination's Board of Missions.

Adding to the problems of the churches in both areas, they say, are the rapidly-growing population, the increase of children of church and school age in the postwar year and the unpredictability of shifts of people due to industrial and agricultural changes.

"In the past one hundred years," says Dr. Robert A. McKibben, of the Board's department of city work, "America's population has grown from 23,000,000 to 155,000,000. During this same century a significant shift of population has taken place. In 1850, 10 per cent of our people lived in communities of 10,000 and over; by 1950 more than 50 per cent of our citizens lived in communities of over 10,000 population. The large metropolitan areas of our country have borne the brunt of this increase and shift in population."

"The changing population areas have made necessary many churches in and near small towns," reports Dr. Glen E. Sanford, superintendent of the department of town and country work. "People are moving in from the farms and villages, creating large new housing areas. Also, many towns of the south and southwest from 2,500 to 10,000 have small industrial development. Our people are divided not only by race, but by class, occupation, culture and economy, often making necessary the establishing of small churches to serve the various groups."

The flight of people to new suburbs, new tensions arising from cultural and racial conflicts, the tendency to plan housing for only low income groups in the "inner city," the decline of property value — church as well as residential, the need for clergymen who are trained specifically to work among these new residents, the pressing need for able administrators to successfully guide our churches in adapting to this new environment for the next quarter of a century, the failure of church bodies to produce an effective cooperation of work in the "inner city"; these are some of the current difficulties faced by city missionaries and denominational leaders, according to Dr. McKibben.

Rev. Paul Yount Assigned To Post, Mission Board

The Rev. Paul W. Yount, Jr., former North Carolina pastor and former missionary to Japan, has been elected assistant secretary of missionary personnel of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church.

Mr. Yount, who had been an assistant in personnel since last June, was elected assistant secretary at the Board's annual meeting in mid-January at Buck Hill Falls, Pa. He will continue on the staff of the Board's Joint Committee on Missionary Personnel. He is in charge of recruiting men for special term (three-year) mission service and works with high school and college students who have expressed an interest in the missionary vocation.

A native of Hickory, N.C., Mr. Yount spent most of his early life in Charlotte, and attended Duke University and the Yale Divinity School. After two years at Yale, he went to Japan as a three-year missionary, where he taught at Aoyama Gakuin, a Christian school in Tokyo.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I am due to graduate from college in June. How can I know what God's will is for my life? P. L. S.

ANSWER: God has a definite plan for your life. It may be that He is calling you to serve Him as a minister, a missionary, a teacher. But remember this: if He wants you to be a storekeeper, or laborer, or lawyer, then that is His high calling for you and you should accept it and try to honor Him just as fully in that occupation as any other. For those who truly wish to know what God's will for them really is, there is a very simple way to find out: Surrender your heart and life to Him and be willing to follow His will, regardless of what it may prove to be. God cannot be fooled, and He will know whether your question is sincere, or not. He has promised us many times in the Bible to give leading to those who ask Him for it in faith. Here is one promise: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways, acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths." Here is the promise of God Himself and He will honor it. Surrender your heart to Him and to His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ; ask Him to show you His holy will for your life and He will surely lead you. Trust Him. He will never fail you.

Church Property Of Methodists Totals Big Sum

During the past three years, the Methodist Church has spent $298,171,817 in the building of churches and parsonages in the United States, according to Dr. Bonneau P. Murphy, of Philadelphia, executive secretary for church extension. This sum, he says, was approximately one-third the total raised by the Methodist Church for all purposes.

The value of all local Methodist Church property in the United States in 1940 was $676,578,884, Dr. Murphy says. In 1953 it had increased to $1,857,497,971 — almost threefold. The indebtedness on the property was $59,791,413 in 1940 and only $82,318,462 in 1953. "When the entire Church is considered, the ratio of debt to the total value seems small," he adds.

During the last fiscal year, Dr. Murphy reports, the Board has granted $1,199,446 in donations toward 610 building projects for new congregations; and has made loans of $1,663,366 to assist congregations in 361 building projects.

Bible Words for Today

MATTHEW 10:16—"Lo, I send you out as sheep in the midst of wolves; so be wise as serpents and innocent as doves." (RSV)

When Jesus said these words to his apostles, he was summing up for them in a vivid but concise way one of the most difficult disciplines in life. Ever since the Hebrews had told the story of the fall of man, the serpent had been the symbol of that kind of sophisticated wisdom which knows its way around a cynical world. Jesus was saying to his disciples, "Don't let your goodwill blind you to the hard realities of life."

In the New Testament the dove is a symbol of the Spirit of God. To be innocent as a dove is to renounce the cynicism you understand, to outthink the wolves that would devour you, but refuse to use your knowledge for purposes other than the will of God. Jesus not only taught this; he lived it. Our world, so often filled with wolves, needs Christians who have such canny innocence.

Population's Shift Causes Church Worry

The shift of America's population from the rural areas to the nation's cities, and the building of new cities out of yesterday's farms and forests, pose almost insurmountable problems to the churches of both city and country home missions executives of the Methodist Church report to the denomination's Board of Missions.

Adding to the problems of the churches in both areas, they say, are the rapidly-growing population, the increase of children of church and school age in the postwar year and the unpredictability of shifts of people due to industrial and agricultural changes.

"In the past one hundred years," says Dr. Robert A. McKibben, of the Board's department of city work, "America's population has grown from 25,000,000 to 155,000,000. During this same century a significant shift of population has taken place. In 1850, 10 per cent of our people lived in communities of 10,000 and over; by 1950 more than 50 per cent of our citizens lived in communities of over 10,000 population. The large metropolitan areas of our country have borne the brunt of this increase and shift in population."

"The changing population areas have made necessary many churches in and near small towns," reports Dr. Glen F. Sanford, superintendent of the department of town and country work. "People are moving in from the farms and villages, creating large new housing areas. Also, many towns of the south and southwest from 2,500 to 10,000 have small industrial development. Our people are divided not only by race, but by class, occupation, culture and economy, often making necessary the establishing of small churches to serve the various groups."

The flight of people to new suburbs, new tensions arising from cultural and racial conflicts, the tendency to plan housing for only low income groups in the "inner city," the decline of property value — church as well as residential, the need for clergymen who are trained specifically to work among these new residents, the pressing need for able administrators to successfully guide our churches in adapting to this new environment for the next quarter of a century, the failure of church bodies to produce an effective cooperation of work in the "inner city"; these are some of the current difficulties faced by city missionaries and denominational leaders, according to Dr. McKibben.

Rev. Paul Yount Assigned To Post, Mission Board

The Rev. Paul W. Yount, Jr., former North Carolina pastor and former missionary to Japan, has been elected assistant secretary of missionary personnel of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church.

Mr. Yount, who had been an assistant in personnel since last June, was elected assistant secretary at the Board's annual meeting in mid-January at Buck Hill Falls, Pa. He will continue on the staff of the Board's Joint Committee on Missionary Personnel. He is in charge of recruiting men for special term (three-year) mission service and works with high school and college students who have expressed an interest in the missionary vocation.

A native of Hickory, N.C., Mr. Yount spent most of his early life in Charlotte, and attended Duke University and the Yale Divinity School. After two years at Yale, he went to Japan as a three-year missionary, where he taught at Aoyama Gakuin, a Christian school in Tokyo.

'Fill A Pew' Will Be In Order In Southside Today

The Southside Methodist church will observe the beginning of the world - wide church attendance movement on Sunday, today, with the "Fill a Pew" plan. Pew captains have been named and already their helpers are at work. Rev. Lea Joyner states that she expects a tremendous increase in interest and attendance through the campaign which will last through Easter Sunday.

All members and friends of South side are expected and urged to participate in the attendance movement and make a combined effort in having filled pews at all the services.

God Is the Answer is the theme of the movement.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I am due to graduate from college in June. How can I know what God's will is for my life? P. L. S.

ANSWER: God has a definite plan for your life. It may be that He is calling you to serve Him as a minister, a missionary, a teacher. But remember this: if He wants you to be a storekeeper, or laborer, or lawyer, then that is His high calling for you and you should accept it and try to honor Him just as fully in that occupation as any other. For those who truly wish to know what God's will for them really is, there is a very simple way to find out: Surrender your heart and life to Him and be willing to follow His will, regardless of what it may prove to be. God cannot be fooled, and He will know whether your question is sincere, or not. He has promised us many times in the Bible to give leading to those who ask Him for it in faith. Here is one promise: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways, acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths." Here is the promise of God Himself and He will honor it. Surrender your heart to Him and to His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ; ask Him to show you His holy will for your life and He will surely lead you. Trust Him. He will never fail you.

A missionary rally is scheduled for Monday evening at 7:30 at which the Rev. Kenneth Short will be speaker. The Rev. Short, a pioneer in the field of missionary work in Borneo, will speak in the behalf of "Speed-The-Light," a missionary program of the denomination's youth which supplies vehicla lahge Assembly of God church in equipment to missionaries.

In addition to his service in Borneo, the Rev. Short has also been connected with the Far East Broadcasting Company in Manila, evangelized throughout the Philippines, served as pastor in Nassua in the Bahamas, and served as editor of a missionary magazine. The public is invited to hear him.

A state-wide ministers' seminar will begin Monday afternoon at one o'clock and continue for two weeks. Assemblies of God ministers from all over Louisiana will gather to study "Pentecostal Truths", a doctrinal course taught by the Rev. U. S. Grant, pastor of a large Asstmbly of God church in Kansas City, Kansas. Another course will be "Homiletics", the art of preparing and delivering sermons, taught by the local pastor, the Rev. Phil Johnson. There will be four classes daily, morning and afternoon, during the two weeks period. The seminar will be under the direction of the district superintendent, the Rev. L. C. Ashbrook.

Church Property Of Methodists Totals Big Sum

During the past three years, the Methodist Church has spent $298,171,817 in the building of churches and parsonages in the United States, according to Dr. Bonneau P. Murphy, of Philadelphia, executive secretary for church extension. This sum, he says, was approximately one-third the total raised by the Methodist Church for all purposes.

The value of all local Methodist Church property in the United States in 1940 was $676,578,884, Dr. Murphy says. In 1953 it had increased to $1,857,497,971 — almost threefold. The indebtedness on the property was $59,791,413 in 1940 and only $82,318,462 in 1953. "When the entire Church is considered, the ratio of debt to the total value seems small," he adds.

During the last fiscal year, Dr. Murphy reports, the Board has granted $1,199,446 in donations toward 610 building projects for new congregations; and has made loans of $1,663,366 to assist congregations in 361 building projects.

Bible Words for Today

MATTHEW 10:16—"Lo, I send you out as sheep in the midst of wolves; so be wise as serpents and innocent as doves," (RSV)

When Jesus said these words to his apostles, he was summing up for them in a vivid but concise way one of the most difficult disciplines in life. Ever since the Hebrews had told the story of the fall of man, the serpent had been the symbol of that kind of sophisticated wisdom which knows its way around a cynical world. Jesus was saying to his disciples, "Don't let your goodwill blind you to the hard realities of life."

In the New Testament the dove is a symbol of the Spirit of God. To be innocent as a dove is to renounce the cynicism you understand, to outthink the wolves that would devour you, but refuse to use your knowledge for purposes other than the will of God. Jesus not only taught this; he lived it. Our world, so often filled with wolves, needs Christians who have such canny innocence.

In Hollywood

By Jimmy Fidler

Works Of Art

HOLLYWOOD, February 4 — Back from a four-month tour of Europe, Tony Curtis and his wife, Janet Leigh, brought with them a collection of art paintings and prints worthy of any connoisseur. When I arrived at their home, high in the mountains overlooking Hollywood, I found the living-room cluttered with wrappings, wooden casings and paintings, all over the place. Tony was studying one, in particular.

"Janet and I fell in love with this canvas," he said, "the minute we saw it!" The painting was an arresting study in various shades of blue. Tony went on: "We think this one will probably be the determining factor in the color scheme in our new living-room."

As he went through one after another of the works of art, he and his wife gathered together from the Flea Market in Paris and from the studios of some of Europe's most important modern painters — it occurred to me, that while other young movie couples return from location trips loaded down with tiger skins, bongo drums and such useless trophies these two had concentrated on objects to make their home more liveable and beautiful.

Tony and Janet expect their first baby in July and there are even a few nice watercolors which will adorn the walls of the nursery.

Tony told me he didn't like to be thought of as an art collector.

"After all," he pointed out, "I'm just a newcomer. I can't afford to spend ten thousand dollars on a painting by an old master—and even if I could, I wouldn't buy it just to be able to say I own one. That's like pasting a check for $10,000 on your wall and saying, 'Look, everybody, I can afford to spend a fortune on an old master'! I don't go for that routine. Neither does Janet. We want to have pictures that fit our economic level — and pictures that we like to live with. And when you get right down to it, what difference does it make if you spend ten dollars or ten thousand dollars for a painting—or for anything else in your life, as long as it is something you want to live with"

Janet nodded in agreement. "With the baby coming," she said, "we're trying to find another house, with more room. We may have to build one. But whatever we do, we're not going overboard. We're young and we're starting our family. We don't want to lose all the fun of growing up together—with worrying about mortgages and big bills. Tony and I enjoy life according to our own tastes. We don't go around buying things because somebody else tells us they are the things that matter. If they don't matter to us — we want no part of them."

"That's what I mean about the old paintings," Tony chimed in. "We don't want to turn our house into a museum. And that's what it would be — if we only got the things the critics said were O.K. No matter what it is, from your favorite breakfast food to a fine painting, if it doesn't fit into your personal scheme of things — it won't bring you any pleasure, and if you have to go into a financial hole just to be in the swim you'll hate it before you're through."

These two youngsters are obviously not following a Hollywood glamour pattern in their private lives. Because they enjoy art they buy paintings. And when they can't find one they really like — Tony gets busy with his own oils, and produces one!

"I'm not very good yet," he says. "I'm still too impressionable and imitative. But I don't care — I have fun doing it, and I find it more relaxing than anything else when I'm not making a picture."

What impressed me more than their attractive home, their evident enjoyment of life and their sense — which is far beyond their years — was their humility. That word has been overdone, I know, but in this case there is no other that fits as well. Tony's approach to his work is humble — he's not in any sense the temperamental star who wants what he wants, for no reason at all. Both Curtis and Miss Leigh feel this way about everything. Their own appraisal of themselves, is rather inspiring and could serve as an excellent example to other "young-marrieds" in the movie colony.

STAMPS

Alexander Hamilton (1757-1804), first secretary of the treasury and brilliant statesman in our early history, appears on a new $5 black stamp to be issued March 19. It will be the 15th of the new regular U. S. series. First day city will be Paterson, N. J.

Depicted on the stamp is a likeness of Hamilton reproduced from a photograph of a painting by John Trumball. The original painting belongs to the Mellon Collection, National Art Gallery, Washington, D. C.

Paterson was picked as the place of issue because Hamilton was responsible for selecting the site of the city.

Stamp collectors desiring first day cancellations of the $5 stamp may send their self-addressed envelopes to the postmaster at Paterson, N. J. with money order remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, prior to March 19. The outside envelope to the postmaster should be marked "First Day Covers."

When the second portion of the Alfred H. Caspary collection was sold in New York last month, collectors and dealers paid $296,189.50. This is the largest sum ever realized for a single auction. The record one day sale occurred in the first auction last November when the Caspary U. S. Postmaster Provisionals went for $225,340.50. The third section of the sale is scheduled for March 5-7. This portion will contain mostly Confederate Postmaster Provisionals.

Record Reviews

M-G-M has produced a new Dixieland album that is a little out of the ordinary in that it presents combo-style jazz instrumentals on a big-band scale.

Leroy Holmes, one of the better arrangers, and his musicians turn out a surprisingly good big-band version of "The Shiek of Araby," which has been a standby for the smaller groups. The clarinet break is strictly in the New Orleans style.

The album, "Strictly from Dixie" also stars Bob Haggart and His All Star Band, Lou Garity and his All Stars and Singer Art Lund.

Haggart, one of the "Who's Who" boys in the Dixieland book, heads up a big band that produces music that sounds more like swing than jazz, but even the purists won't object. Haggart moves closer to standard jazz on "Baby, Won't You Please Come Home," one of his four numbers.

The four McGarity numbers, which include "Mobile Mamma" and "Birmingham Shuffle," are, as the title of the album proclaims, strictly from Dixie, and the clarinet work sounds more like New Orleans than Alabama.

Lund vocalizes on two standards, "Maple Leaf Rag" and "Sugarfoot Rag," in a pleasing manner.

Another fine jazz album comes from Good Time Jazz Records. It's called "Lu Watters' Yerba Buena Jazz Band, 1942 Series" and consists of oldies. Watters perhaps was the biggest factor in the revival of Dixieland, and these recordings were among his outstanding contributions.

Watters chose to stick to the jazz classics, but he used much imagination. For instance, he eliminated the traditional clarinet break from "High Society" but came up with a lot of drive, even in slow tempo.

Some notable singles: Kapp is offering two versions of a French tune that could be a sleeper. Eddie Albert and Sondra Lee sing "Little Child" in English with much wistfulness, and Tania and Eddie Constantine sing it in French. "L'Homme et L'Enfant," with as much feeling. . . . "The Little White Duck" and "The Fox," sung by Dorothy Olsen on an RCA-Victor single, are numbers children will want to hear many times. . . . "Stomping at the Savoy" is done up fine on the Mercury label by Jerry Mercer and his Orchestra and Bill Haley and his Comets have another good rock and roll coupling with "See You Later, Alligator" and "The Paper Boy" on the Decca label.

TV Notes

At least three Abraham Lincolns will be available to TV viewers the week end of the Emancipator's birthday. An old hand at this impersonation, Raymond Massey, will serve the CBS spectacular, "The Day Lincoln Was Shot," the night of Feb. 11. "Omnibus" again will show its favorite Lincoln, Royal Dano, the afternoon of Feb. 12. That night, "General Electric Theater" will offer John Ireland in the role in its version of E. P. Conkle's play, "Prologue to Glory."

The "Voice of Firestone" program on ABC will be an hour instead of half an hour long March 19, starting at the usual 8:30 p.m., to accommodate a special show called "Springtime U.S.A." Actress Helen Hayes will serve as narrator, and there will be a studio full of top concert artists.

"Kraft Theater" has purchased TV dramatization rights in "Profiles in Courage," currently popular book by U. S. Sen. John F. Kennedy (D.-Mass.) and will present a TV play built on one of its eight profiles of politicians who have refused to compromise their principles.

The Motion Picture Academy nominations for Oscars will be on the NBC network Feb. 18, starting at 9 p.m. The network will carry the awards ceremonies on March 21 beginning at 10:30 p.m.

Gordon McRae, screen and television singing star, got his start in the New York studios of NBC as a page boy. He got his first break with Horace Heidt.

The new name of the CBS "Morning Show," when Will Rogers, Jr., takes it over on Feb. 20, will be "Good Morning!"

Gene Rodney, producer of the "Father Knows Best" series, has this sign in his Hollywood office: "Everyone has 20-20 hindsight."

To prevent candles from smoking and to lengthen their life, coat with soapsuds by rolling them between well-lathered hands. Don't touch the wicks. Dry before lighting them.

Oak Ridge Water Rates Will Be Raised In 1956

OAK RIDGE, Feb. 4 (Special)— The amount of water consumed will be a determining factor in the city water rates of Oak Ridge during 1956, according to Mayor J. M. Files and the town council.

Under the old schedule, payments were based on the number of water outlets for each subscriber, but the new schedule considers the number of outlets and the water demand of each.

The change is expected to bring an increase in water rates in Oak Ridge.

When pouring vegetable soup, make an extra amount and freeze some in an ice cube tray for storage in the deep freeze. A frozen cube will make a hurry-up cup of soup.

EDWIN O'CONNOR

BOOKS

Off the Book Beat — "I am not a politician," declares the author of "The Last Hurrah," a novel about a politician.

"I've never even been a City Hall reporter," continues Edwin O'Connor, whose story of Frank Skeffington, governor of a mythical state — mythical like Massachusetts, say — reeks of City Hall corridors, State House back rooms, ward politics and party machines.

"Nobody in my family has been active in politics," says this winner of the Atlantic novel prize, of a Reader's Digest digest, and of the votes of the Book-of-the-Month Club — as well as the votes of the general reading public.

"But I am Irish," says O'Connor, native of Rhode Island, graduate of Notre Dame, resident of Boston where he does a TV column for the Globe, and visitor to Dublin. He's that rare author of political novels: a man with no political ax to grind, who isn't against the rich, the poor, the party, democracy, conservatism, radicalism. He's only for the Irish.

Smiling, eager, his feet up on his publisher's desk, he explained that he wanted to do a book about the Irish, so he figured it had to be political.

"Few people have been so loyal to their leaders as the Irish," he believes. "But leaders of the stamp of the local boss who could do everything for his constitutents are on the way out. The able ones realize it, too. So the book had to be done quickly, to catch them."

Not that he writes quickly—this was a four-year job, along with the business of earning a living. But it's a fond book, a nostalgic one, and often a very funny one — "For a humorless man to write about the Irish is an absurdity," says O'Connor, a man with the wrinkles which laughter forms around the eyes and mouth.

In Hollywood

Works Of Art

HOLLYWOOD, February 4 — Back from a four-month tour of Europe, Tony Curtis and his wife, Janet Leigh, brought with them a collection of art paintings and prints worthy of any connoisseur. When I arrived at their home, high in the mountains overlooking Hollywood, I found the living-room cluttered with wrappings, wooden casings and paintings, all over the place. Tony was studying one, in particular.

"Janet and I fell in love with this canvas," he said, "the minute we saw it!" The painting was an arresting study in various shades of blue. Tony went on, "We think this one will probably be the determining factor of the color scheme in our new living-room."

As he went through one after another of the works of art, he and his wife gathered together from the Flea Market in Paris, and from the studios of some of Europe's most important modern painters — it occurred to me, that while other young movie couples return from location trips loaded down with tiger skins, bongo drums and such useless trophies these two had concentrated on objects to make their home more liveable and beautiful.

Tony and Janet expect their first baby in July and there are even a few nice watercolors which will adorn the walls of the nursery!

Tony told me he didn't like to be thought of as an art collector.

"After all," he pointed out, "I'm just a newcomer. I can't afford to spend ten thousand dollars on a painting by an old master—and even if I could, I wouldn't buy it just to be able to say I own one. That's like pasting a check for $10,000 on your wall and saying, 'Look, everybody, I can afford to spend a fortune on an old master!' I don't go for that routine. Neither does Janet. We want to have pictures that fit our economic level — and pictures that we like to live with. And when you get right down to it, what difference does it make if you spend ten dollars or ten thousand dollars for a painting—or for anything else in your life, as long as it is something you want to live with"

Janet nodded in agreement. "With the baby coming," she said, "we're trying to find another house, with more room. We may have to build one. But whatever we do, we're not going overboard. We're young and we're starting our family. We don't want to lose all the fun of growing up together—with worrying about mortgages and big bills. Tony and I enjoy life according to our own tastes. We don't go around buying things because somebody else tells us they are the things that matter. If they don't matter to us — we want no part of them."

"That's what I mean about the old paintings," Tony chimed in. "We don't want to turn our house into a museum. And that's what it would be — if we only got the things the critics said were O.K. No matter what it is, from your favorite breakfast food—to a fine painting, if it doesn't fit into your personal scheme of things — it won't bring you any pleasure, and if you have to go into a financial hole, just to be in the swim—you'll hate it, before you're through."

These two youngsters are obviously not following a Hollywood glamour pattern, in their private lives. Because they enjoy art they buy paintings. And when they can't find one they really like — Tony gets busy with his own oils, and produces one!

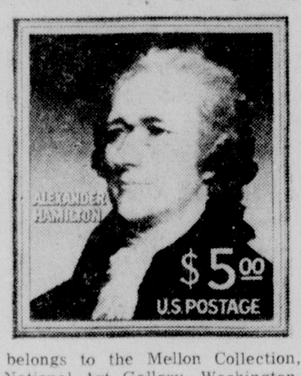
"I'm not very good yet," he says, "I'm still too impressionable and imitative. But I don't care — I have fun doing it, and I find it more relaxing than anything else when I'm not making a picture."

What impressed me more than their attractive home, their evident enjoyment of life and their sense — which is far beyond their years—was their humility. That word has been overdone, I know, but in this case there is no other that fits as well. Tony's approach to his work is humble — he's not in any sense the temperamental star who wants what he wants, for no reason at all. Both Curtis and Miss Leigh feel this way about everything. Their own appraisal of themselves, is rather inspiring and could serve as an excellent example to other "young-marrieds" in the movie colony.

STAMPS

Alexander Hamilton (1757-1804), first secretary of the treasury and brilliant statesman in our early history, appears on a new $5 black stamp to be issued March 19. It will be the 15th of the new regular U. S. series. First day city will be Paterson, N. J.

Depicted on the stamp is a likeness of Hamilton reproduced from a photograph of a painting by John Trumball. The original painting



belongs to the Mellon Collection, National Art Gallery, Washington, D. C.

Paterson was picked as the place of issue because Hamilton was responsible for selecting the site of the city.

Stamp collectors desiring first day cancellations of the $5 stamp may send their self-addressed envelopes to the postmaster at Paterson, N. J. with money order remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, prior to March 19. The outside envelope to the postmaster should be marked "First Day Covers."

When the second portion of the Alfred H. Caspary collection was sold in New York last month, collectors and dealers paid $296,-189.50. This is the largest sum ever realized for a single auction. The record one day sale occurred in the first auction last November when the Caspary U. S. Postmaster Provisionals went for $225,-340.50. The third section of the sale is scheduled for March 5-7. This portion will contain mostly Confederate Postmaster Provisionals.

Record Reviews

M-G-M has produced a new Dixieland album that is a little out of the ordinary in that it presents combo-style jazz instrumentals on a big-band scale.

Leroy Holmes, one of the better arrangers, and his musicians turn out a surprisingly good big-band version of "The Shiek of Araby," which has been a standby for the smaller groups. The clarinet break is strictly in the New Orleans style.

The album, "Strictly from Dixie" also stars Bob Haggart and His All Star Band, Lou Garity and his All Stars and Singer Art Lund.

Haggart, one of the "Who's Who" boys in the Dixieland book, heads up a big band that produces music that sounds more like swing than jazz, but even the purists won't object. Haggart moves closer to standard jazz on "Baby, Won't You Please Come Home," one of his four numbers.

The four McGarity numbers, which include "Mobile Mamma" and "Birmingham Shuffle," are, as the title of the album proclaims, strictly from Dixie, and the clarinet work sounds more like New Orleans than Alabama.

Lund vocalizes on two standards, "Maple Leaf Rag" and "Sugarfoot Rag," in a pleasing manner.

Another fine jazz album comes from Good Time Jazz Records. It's called "Lu Watters' Yerba Buena Jazz Band, 1942 Series" and consists of oldies. Watters perhaps was the biggest factor in the revival of Dixieland, and these recordings were among his outstanding contributions.

Watters chose to stick to the jazz classics, but he used much imagination. For instance, he eliminated the traditional clarinet break from "High Society" but came up with a lot of drive, even in slow tempo.

Some notable singles: Kapp is offering two versions of a French tune that could be a sleeper. Eddie Albert and Sondra Lee sing "Little Child" in English with much wistfulness, and Tania and Eddie Constantine sing it in French, "L'Homme et L'Enfant," with as much feeling. . . . "The Little White Duck" and "The Fox," sung by Dorothy Olsen on an RCA-Victor single, are numbers children will want to hear many times. . . . "Stomping at the Savoy" is done up fine on the Mercury label by Jerry Mercer and his Orchestra and Bill Haley and his Comets have another good rock and roll coupling with "See You Later, Alligator" and "The Paper Boy" on the Decca label.

TV Notes

At least three Abraham Lincolns will be available to TV viewers the week end of the Emancipator's birthday. An old hand at this impersonation, Raymond Massey, will serve the CBS spectacular, "The Day Lincoln Was Shot," the night of Feb. 11. "Omnibus" again will show its favorite Lincoln, Royal Dano, the afternoon of Feb. 12. That night, "General Electric Theater" will offer John Ireland in the role in its version of E. P. Conkle's play, "Prologue to Glory."

The "Voice of Firestone" program on ABC will be an hour instead of half an hour long March 19, starting at the usual 8:30 p.m., to accommodate a special show called "Springtime U.S.A." Actress Helen Hayes will serve as narrator, and there will be a studio full of top concert artists.

"Kraft Theater" has purchased TV dramatization rights in "Profiles in Courage," currently popular book by U. S. Sen. John F. Kennedy (D.-Mass.) and will present a TV play built on one of its eight profiles of politicians who have refused to compromise their principles.

The Motion Picture Academy nominations for Oscars will be on the NBC network Feb. 18, starting at 9 p.m. The network will carry the awards ceremonies on March 21 beginning at 10:30 p.m.

Gordon McRae, screen and television singing star, got his start in the New York studios of NBC as a page boy. He got his first break with Horace Heidt.

The new name of the CBS "Morning Show," when Will Rogers, Jr., takes it over on Feb. 20, will be "Good Morning!"

Gene Rodney, producer of the "Father Knows Best" series, has this sign in his Hollywood office: "Everyone has 20-20 hindsight."

To prevent candles from smoking and to lengthen their life, coat with soapsuds by rolling them between well-lathered hands. Don't touch the wicks. Dry before lighting them.

Oak Ridge Water Rates Will Be Raised In 1956

OAK RIDGE, Feb. 4 (Special)—The amount of water consumed will be a determining factor in the city water rates of Oak Ridge during 1956, according to Mayor J. M. Files and the town council.

Under the old schedule, payments were based on the number of water outlets for each subscriber, but the new schedule considers the number of outlets and the water demand of each.

The change is expected to bring an increase in water rates in Oak Ridge.

When pouring vegetable soup, make an extra amount and freeze some in an ice cube tray for storage in the deep freeze. A frozen cube will make a hurry-up cup of soup.

BOOKS DONATED TO SCHOOL—Members of the Altrusa Club of Monroe and West Monroe are shown above presenting a set of Childcraft and World Book Encyclopedia to the library of the Cerebral Palsy school at Selman Field. EDWIN O'CONNOR

Off the Book Beat — "I am not a politician," declares the author of "The Last Hurrah," a novel about a politician.

"I've never even been a City Hall reporter," continues Edwin O'Connor, whose story of Frank Skeffington, governor of a mythical state — mythical like Massachusetts, say — reeks of City Hall corridors, State House back rooms, ward politics and party machines. "Nobody in my family has been active in politics," says this winner of the Atlantic novel prize, of a Reader's Digest digest, and of the votes of the Book-of-the-Month Club — as well as the votes of the general reading public.

"But I am Irish," says O'Connor, native of Rhode Island, graduate of Notre Dame, resident of Boston where he does a TV column for the Globe, and visitor to Dublin. He's that rare author of political novels: a man with no political ax to grind, who isn't against the rich, the poor, the party, democracy, conservatism, radicalism. He's only for the Irish.

Smiling, eager, his feet up on his publisher's desk, he explained that he wanted to do a book about the Irish, so he figured it had to be political.

"Few people have been so loyal to their leaders as the Irish," he believes. "But leaders of the stamp of the local boss who could do everything for his constitutents are on the way out. The able ones realize it, too. So the book had to be done quickly, to catch them."

Not that he writes quickly—this was a four-year job, along with the business of earning a living. But it's a fond book, a nostalgic one, and often a very funny one — "For a humorless man to write about the Irish is an absurdity," says O'Connor, a man with the wrinkles which laughter forms around the eyes and mouth.

Alan Ladd pays a visit to the headquarters of Edward G. Robinson and his killer-assistant, Paul Stewart, in a scene from the new Warner Bros. thriller, "Hell On Frisco Bay." Joanne Dru also stars in the film which opens today at the Paramount Theater.

'Hell On Frisco Bay' Is New Alan Ladd Thriller

"Hell On Frisco Bay," a new melodrama starring Alan Ladd, Edward G. Robinson and Joanne Dru comes to the screen of the Paramount Theatre today. The film serves as a lively basis for Ladd's second Jaguar Production for Warner Bros.

"Hell On Frisco Bay" is said to chronicle the adventures of an ex-police officer framed for murder . . .a murder which sets off a long series of waterfront killings.

Ladd, after a ten year lapse, dons the trenchcoat which was his trademark in earlier films, to play the role of the embittered ex-cop in his relentless search for the truth. He made his reputation wearing the same coat in the early '40s in the film, "This Gun For Hire," in which he played a cold - blooded professional killer. This success was quickly followed by "The Glass Key."

Exteriors for "Hell On Frisco Bay" were shot in their actual locales . . . along San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf, on San Francisco Bay, at San Quentin Prison, on the Golden Gate Bridge and on the streets throughout San Francisco.

Edward G. Robinson once again assumes the role of a tough gang-leader who rules over the tough Fisherman's Wharf with the iron rule of force and violence. Robinson brings much experience to the role.

Advance notice has been given a climactic fight scene between Ladd and Robinson that promises to keep theatregoers on seats' edge. The two fight it out aboard a widly careening speedboat, racing blindly across the San Francisco Bay.

Joanne Dru, one of Hollywood's most beautiful women, is cast as Ladd's night club singer wife. Miss Dru, a New York model and dancer before she became a film actress, most recently completed work on another Warner Bros. film, "Sincerely Yours," starring the man who set a smile to music, Liberace.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

There is much fun and health to be had from sports and games.

Don't Discard Sports—They Help You Keep Good Health

Many middle-aged women ignore the value of games and sports in the constant struggle to remain youthful and lovely—both in energy and in spirit.

A lot of women would enjoy sports if they would just take the time to try them. Others are missing much because long ago they dropped the habit of sports and games. There is much fun and health to be had from these.

Many young women, once most active in swimming, tennis, bowling, dancing and other forms of exercise, gradually give the whole thing up after their marriage, or soon after the first baby arrives. This is easily explained. The young mother may not be able to afford a baby sitter often. Perhaps all the young couple can afford is to have one infrequently while they go out for an evening or afternoon together.

However, many women who could continue their interest in sports fail to do so because, as we mentioned, they get out of the habit. Yet it is an observable fact that outdoor women remain youthful in appearance much longer than those who become sedentary.

We should plan to take at least one sport down the years with us. As to sports generally, we may have to change them every few years. When we are older we will have to drop tennis for golf, give up badminton singles and play doubles only and so forth.

Mat exercises are wonderful for your figure and health but they do not take the place of outdoor competitive games. These stir up the circulation and have the element of play added. Grownups need this kind of play just as children do, maybe more so.

In the excitement of the game you will forget your worries and tensions and will recover some of that youthful zest. Naturally you must play games which are suited to your age but there are many you can begin at any age if you are in good health.

Tomorrow I will suggest some of the games and sports which you might enjoy.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Hobbies," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 66 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

The bidding:

South, 6 spades; West, pass; North, 7 spades; East, Pass.

South, Pass; West, Double; North, Pass; East Pass.

South, Pass.

Opening lead: King of clubs.

The science of card valuation is something more than the mere memorization of a point count table. There are many times when an other-wise glamorous card is plainly recognizable as worthless, as witness today's hand.

The bidding is given as it actually occurred, but the recriminations between partners have not been included. North contended that when partner could open vulnerable with six spades he surely had the right to raise once with three gilt-edged tricks. South insisted that it couldn't be wrong for him to bid a slam when he had it laydown in his own hand, and that North should not have regarded South's bid as an invitation to go on to seven. Who is guilty?

I am not impressed with North's argument. He calculated that partner could win 12 tricks and he could win three bringing the total to 15. On that line of reasoning he should have contracted for nine spades. Obviously, however, one of his aces is useless, because South would not have opened with a slam if he had two losers. Well, if one of the aces is useless, isn't it barely possible that the other one is useless too.

One thing appears to be a certainty: The South hand has one loser. The question naturally arises as to what suit contains that loser. If it were in hearts or clubs, it seems to me that South would have conducted the bidding in such a fashion as to permit partner to show either or both aces. The fact that South did not afford North that opportunity, makes it clear that he is not interested in either of them.

It follows logically, therefore, that South's only loser must be in trumps and since North cannot help out in that direction, he should be content with the small slam bid. In fact it is now accepted as conventional that an opening bid of five or six in a major suit calls for a raise based on any high trump honor held.

Fred MacMurray fastens an earring on Barbara Stanwyck in this scene from "There's Always Tomorrow," Universal-International romantic drama in which MacMurray is a married man who becomes involved with another woman in the person of Miss Stanwyck. Joan Bennett, who plays the wife, co-stars with them.

Three Stars Great In Film Tale Of Love, Sacrifice

"There's Always Tomorrow," Universal - International's poignant melodrama which opened today at the Jim Theatre brings to the screen a great trio of stars, Barbara Stanwyck, Fred MacMurray and Joan Bennett, in an honest, compelling story that is certain to be one of the year's big hits.

"There's Always Tomorrow," which also stars Pat Crowley, William Reynolds and Gigi Perreau, is the moving story of a successful married businessman who tries to re-kindle the flame of an early love when he feels he is neglected at home. In this case, however, the "other woman," although she loves him dearly, will not break up the husband's home.

Fred MacMurray and Joan Bennett, as husband and wife, are outstanding in their characterizations —MacMurray as the husband who believes his wife and children have almost forgotten that he exists and Miss Bennett as the wife who is too wrapped up in the lives of her children to notice that her husband feels neglected.

Barbara Stanwyck, as MacMurray's former sweetheart, is superb as a smart, successful fashion designer who finds herself in love with a married man but realizes that in order to have him she must destroy his home.

The younger players vie with their elders in the excellence of their portrayals. Particularly is this true of Pat Crowley, who makes her debut at U-I in this role. As the girl friend of MacMurray's son, she charmingly displays the warmth and understanding called for by her role. As the son handsome young William Reynolds demonstrates that he has skill as an actor as well as engaging good looks. Gigi Perreau proves that in the process of becoming a teen-ager she has lost none of the professional flair that made her an outstanding child actress.

Other young players who score in lesser roles are Race Gentry, Judy Nugent and Myrna Hansen, while that old reliable among character actresses, Jane Darwell, contributes greatly to the ensemble with her customary expert performance. The sensitive and sympathetic direction is credited to Douglas Sirk and the production reins were in the hands of Ross Hunter, who again demonstrated his special talent for the production of essentially sentimental films.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

1. OLDER WORKING WOMEN INJURE THEMSELVES BY BEING "SET" IN THEIR WAYS. TRUE ____ FALSE ____

3. IS IT POSSIBLE TO HAVE A COMMUNITY WITHOUT MENTAL SICKNESS, DELINQUINCY AND CRIME? YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question No. 1

1. True. Dr. Ann Morgan Barron says in "Los Angeles Mirror News." They tend to become "perfectionists" and are unwilling to adapt themselves to younger workers or new ways of doing business. Also, they often develop "old voices" — high-pitched or harsh—which get on the nerves of both supervisors and younger people. She urges they try to cultivate softer, "younger" voices.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. How tall his wife is. Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, motion economy expert, told me working surfaces in a home should, wherever possible, be made to fit the wife's height. Most surfaces — kitchen sinks, etc. —are 33 to 36 inches, which compels tall women to bend down and the short women, to reach up. Much bending, just one or two inches, causes fatigue and often back pains. If a man marries again, better pick a wife to fit his house, instead of the reverse!

Answer to Question No. 3

3. In his wonderful book, "Ways and Power of Love," sociologist Pitirim Sorokin says: "In this age of psychoneuroses, the Hutterites and Mennonites, religious communities in the U. S., have the lowest quota of delinquents, criminals and mentally sick persons because they practice and live the Sermon on the Mount. . . . No one is deprived of love. Love is the intensest vital force, the core of life itself." Why don't we all live this way?

Exteriors for "Hell On Frisco Bay" were shot in their actual locales . . . along San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf, on San Francisco Bay, at San Quentin Prison, on the Golden Gate Bridge and on the streets throughout San Francisco.

Edward G. Robinson once again assumes the role of a tough gang-leader who rules over the tough Fisherman's Wharf with the iron rule of force and violence. Robinson brings much experience to the role.

Advance notice has been given a climactic fight scene between Ladd and Robinson that promises to keep theatregoers on seats' edge. The two fight it out aboard a widly careening speedboat, racing blindly across the San Francisco Bay.

Joanne Dru, one of Hollywood's most beautiful women, is cast as Ladd's night club singer wife. Miss Dru, a New York model and dancer before she became a film actress, most recently completed work on another Warner Bros. film, "Sincerely Yours," starring the man who set a smile to music, Liberace.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

There is much fun and health to be had from sports and games.

Don't Discard Sports—They Help You Keep Good Health

Many middle-aged women ignore the value of games and sports in the constant struggle to remain youthful and lovely—both in energy and in spirit.

A lot of women would enjoy sports if they would just take the time to try them. Others are missing much because long ago they dropped the habit of sports and games. There is much fun and health to be had from these.

Many young women, once most active in swimming, tennis, bowling, dancing and other forms of exercise, gradually give the whole thing up after their marriage, or soon after the first baby arrives. This is easily explained. The young mother may not be able to afford a baby sitter often. Perhaps all the young couple can afford is to have one infrequently while they go out for an evening or afternoon together.

However, many women who could continue their interest in sports fail to do so because, as we mentioned, they get out of the habit. Yet it is an observable fact that outdoor women remain youthful in appearance much longer than those who become sedentary.

We should plan to take at least one sport down the years with us. As to sports generally, we may have to change them every few years. When we are older we will have to drop tennis for golf, give up badminton singles and play doubles only and so forth.

Mat exercises are wonderful for your figure and health but they do not take the place of outdoor competitive games. These stir up the circulation and have the element of play added. Grownups need this kind of play just as children do, maybe more so.

In the excitement of the game you will forget your worries and tensions and will recover some of that youthful zest. Naturally you must play games which are suited to your age but there are many you can begin at any age if you are in good health.

Tomorrow I will suggest some of the games and sports which you might enjoy.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Hobbies," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 66 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

The bidding:

South, 6 spades; West, pass; North, 7 spades; East, Pass.

South, Pass; West, Double; North, Pass; East Pass.

South, Pass.

Opening lead: King of clubs.

The science of card valuation is something more than the mere memorization of a point count table. There are many times when an other-wise glamorous card is plainly recognizable as worthless, as witness today's hand.

The bidding is given as it actually occurred, but the recriminations between partners have not been included. North contended that when partner could open vulnerable with six spades he surely had the right to raise once with three gilt-edged tricks. South insisted that it couldn't be wrong for him to bid a slam when he had it laydown in his own hand, and that North should not have regarded South's bid as an invitation to go on to seven. Who is guilty?

I am not impressed with North's argument. He calculated that partner could win 12 tricks and he could win three bringing the total to 15. On that line of reasoning he should have contracted for nine spades. Obviously, however, one of his aces is useless, because South would not have opened with a slam if he had two losers. Well, if one of the aces is useless, isn't it barely possible that the other one is useless too.

One thing appears to be a certainty: The South hand has one loser. The question naturally arises as to what suit contains that loser. If it were in hearts or clubs, it seems to me that South would have conducted the bidding in such a fashion as to permit partner to show either or both aces. The fact that South did not afford North that opportunity, makes it clear that he is not interested in either of them.

It follows logically, therefore, that South's only loser must be in trumps and since North cannot help out in that direction, he should be content with the small slam bid. In fact it is now accepted as conventional that an opening bid of five or six in a major suit calls for a raise based on any high trump honor held.

Fred MacMurray fastens an earring on Barbara Stanwyck in this scene from "There's Always Tomorrow," Universal-International romantic drama in which MacMurray is a married man who becomes involved with another woman in the person of Miss Stanwyck. Joan Bennett, who plays the wife, co-stars with them.

Three Stars Great In Film Tale Of Love, Sacrifice

"There's Always Tomorrow," Universal - International's poignant melodrama which opened today at the Jim Theatre brings to the screen a great trio of stars, Barbara Stanwyck, Fred MacMurray and Joan Bennett, in an honest, compelling story that is certain to be one of the year's big hits.

"There's Always Tomorrow," which also stars Pat Crowley, William Reynolds and Gigi Perreau, is the moving story of a successful married businessman who tries to re-kindle the flame of an early love when he feels he is neglected at home. In this case, however, the "other woman," although she loves him dearly, will not break up the husband's home.

Fred MacMurray and Joan Bennett, as husband and wife, are outstanding in their characterizations —MacMurray as the husband who believes his wife and children have almost forgotten that he exists and Miss Bennett as the wife who is too wrapped up in the lives of her children to notice that her husband feels neglected.

Barbara Stanwyck, as MacMurray's former sweetheart, is superb as a smart, successful fashion designer who finds herself in love with a married man but realizes that in order to have him she must destroy his home.

The younger players vie with their elders in the excellence of their portrayals. Particularly is this true of Pat Crowley, who makes her debut at U-I in this role. As the girl friend of MacMurray's son, she charmingly displays the warmth and understanding called for by her role. As the son handsome young William Reynolds demonstrates that he has skill as an actor as well as engaging good looks. Gigi Perreau proves that in the process of becoming a teen-ager she has lost none of the professional flair that made her an outstanding child actress.

Other young players who score in lesser roles are Race Gentry, Judy Nugent and Myrna Hansen, while that old reliable among character actresses, Jane Darwell, contributes greatly to the ensemble with her customary expert performance. The sensitive and sympathetic direction is credited to Douglas Sirk and the production reins were in the hands of Ross Hunter, who again demonstrated his special talent for the production of essentially sentimental films.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. True. Dr. Ann Morgan Barron says in "Los Angeles Mirror News." They tend to become "perfectionists" and are unwilling to adapt themselves to younger workers or new ways of doing business. Also, they often develop "old voices" — high-pitched or harsh—which get on the nerves of both supervisors and younger people. She urges they try to cultivate softer, "younger" voices.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. How tall his wife is. Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, motion economy expert, told me working surfaces in a home should, wherever possible, be made to fit the wife's height. Most surfaces — kitchen sinks, etc. —are 33 to 36 inches, which compels tall women to bend down and the short women, to reach up. Much bending, just one or two inches, causes fatigue and often back pains. If a man marries again, better pick a wife to fit his house, instead of the reverse!

Answer to Question No. 3

3. In his wonderful book, "Ways and Power of Love," sociologist Pitirim Sorokin says: "In this age of psychoneuroses, the Hutterites and Mennonites, religious communities in the U. S., have the lowest quota of delinquents, criminals and mentally sick persons because they practice and live the Sermon on the Mount. . . . No one is deprived of love. Love is the intensest vital force, the core of life itself." Why don't we all live this way?

Curricular Offered For Teachers Of Exceptional Child

Northwestern State College at Natchitoches announces the establishment of curricular leading to certification as teachers of mentally deficient, crippled and homebound, visually handicapped, and teacher of neglected and delinquent.

The Louisiana certification bulletin has recognized these specialties for some years, but heretofore such curricular have not been offered in Louisiana. Because of this fact, and in recognition of its strong traditions in teacher education, Northwestern has thus begun a much-needed program.

The curricular will begin in the summer session of 1956 and continue on a year-round basis. They will be offered at both the graduate and undergraduate levels.

An undergraduate working for elementary or secondary certification may become certifiable in one of the four specialties, except for the two-year experience requirement, by choosing the special courses as electives or as a minor.

A graduate student may achieve certification in one specialty in two summer sessions, and may earn a master's degree while certifying in two or more specialties in three summer sessions, provided an acceptable thesis is submitted.

Further information may be secured through Dr. Leo T. Allbritton, dean of the graduate school, or Dr. John A. Jones, dean of the school of education, or Dr. John W. Kidd, department of special education, Natchitoches, La.

MRS. T. MICKEL

Mrs. T. Mickel To Be Chairman Of Heart Sunday

Mrs. T. Mickel has been named chairman of the Heart Sunday campaign in Ouachita Parish, according to Paul Betz, parish heart fund chairman.

The Heart Sunday drive, which includes a house-to-house canvas, will be held February 26.

According to Mrs. Mickel, some 3000 volunteers will be needed to make Heart Sunday a success, and anyone wishing to help in solving the problems of heart disease by helping in the drive may volunteer by calling the heart fund headquarters at 3-8280.

The territory to be canvassed has been zoned so that each worker will have only 15 or 20 houses to call on.

Mrs. Mickel, since moving to Monroe eight years ago, has been active in civic, church and fraternal organizations. She has served on the board of the League of Women Voters and at present is the moderator on that organization's television program "Let Freedom Ring."

She is also the immediate past matron of the Louise L. McGuire Chapter No. 4, Order of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Mickel is the former Ruth Phelps of New Orleans. She attended Martin Behrman High School and Loyola University. While a resident of the Crescent City she served several years on the board of the Algiers Little Theatre, including a term as its president.

Before her marriage she had a varied career in radio and advertising. Her background includes working in the advertising department of a large department store in New Orleans and as area supervisor for a publishing company in Kansas City. During the war she served as a staff announcer at Radio Station WDSU in New Orleans and later was director of its special events. She has served as continuity editor of stations in New Orleans, Mobile, and Monroe.

In 1949, she married T.Mickel, a local business man in the wholesale drygoods business. They have two daughters and a son.

PROPOSE INCREASE

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A proposed seven per cent rate increase on rice and rice products was under attack today by the New Orleans Traffic and Transportation Bureau.

The bureau, acting for local rice milling interests, filed a petition with the Interstate Commerce Commission asking suspension of the increase. It was scheduled to go into effect Feb. 25.

The petition claimed the increase would cause a substantial restriction of the trade territory in which local mills sell rice and rice products.

ROSCO, DEAR, HAVE YOU NOTICED HOW FADED THE LIVING ROOM IS LOOKING LATELY?

FADED? IT LOOKS OKAY TO ME.

BUT IT'S SO COLORLESS. TAKE THIS CHAIR, FOR EXAMPLE-- MR. GLIPP WILL REFINISH IT FOR $18.

WHAT! EIGHTEEN DOLLARS JUST TO DO A CHAIR? FOR 50¢ I CAN BUY A CAN OF PAINT AND DO IT MYSELF

THERE! HOW'S THAT FOR SAVING MONEY?

BUT, ROSCO, YOU'VE SPATTERED BLACK PAINT ALL OVER THE FLOOR.

LATER.

THERE YOU ARE, BABY SISTER. I PAINTED THE FLOOR TO MATCH THE CHAIR.

BLACK... MERCY SAKES!

AND LOOK AT THE MARKS YOU'VE MADE ON THE WALLS!

WELL, UH... NOW, DON'T WORRY, BABY SISTER. I'LL TAKE CARE OF IT. I'LL PAINT THE WALLS BLACK, TOO.

ROSCO SWEENEY, I'LL NOT LIVE IN A HOUSE WITH BLACK FURNITURE, BLACK FLOORS AND BLACK WALLS! UNDERSTAND?

I COULD CRY! YOU'VE SPATTERED THE FLOOR AND FURNITURE WITH GREEN PAINT.

ER— I DON'T SUPPOSE WE COULD HAVE A SPECKLED HOUSE, COULD WE?

STILL LATER.

SO WE DECIDED IT'D BE CHEAPER IN THE END TO CALL IN A DECORATOR AND HAVE HIM RE-DO EVERYTHING.

IT'S BEAUTIFUL, LUCILLE.

SIMPLY STUNNING. I JUST WISH I COULD TALK JOHN INTO HAVING OUR HOUSE REDECORATED.

JUST GIVE HIM A CHAIR TO PAINT. IF HE'S AS CLUMSY AS ROSCO, YOU'LL HAVE TO REDECORATE.
